WAR DEBT FOR BONUS

Senate Votes to Use Interest

Method Agreed to as Means of Satisfying Harding and Ending Rumors

Smith-McNary Reclamation Amendment Gets Solid Support of West

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Without a record vote the Senate today approved the use of the interest on the foreign debts for paying the soldiers' bonus. Also it substituted the Smith-McNary $20,000,000 reclamation bill for the land settlement option in the bonus measure. Then it quit for the day with a final vote on the bonus measure at least one and, perhaps, two or three days distant.

The amendment authorizing the payment of the bonus charge with interest on the eleven billions of dollars owed the United States by allied nations was proposed by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina. He and Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, and other members, urged it as a means, not only of meeting President Harding's requirement that the bill carry a means of financing, but also of silencing the talk about the cancellation of the foreign debt.

NEW DISAPPROVES

A roll call on the proposal was demanded at first, but this demand was withdrawn, prehumably because of the apprehension of leaders that a quorum could not be obtained at the then late hour. Instead, was had instead, thirty-three Senators signifying their approval of the amendment, and one, Senator Shaw, Republican, Indiana, disapproval.

The Smith-McNary reclamation amendment was agreed to by a vote of 41 to 34. Party lines appeared on the roll call, forty-three Republicans and twenty Democrats supporting the amendment and eighteen Republicans and eight Democrats opposing it. All of the Senators from the eleven western States voted for the proposal and all of those from the New England States voted against it.

For the amendment: Republicans—Borah, Bursum, Cameron, Curtis, France, Gooding, Jones of Washington, McNary, Nelson, Newberry, Nicholson, Oddie, Pepper, Phipps, Rawson, Reed of Pennsylvania, Shortridge, Smoot, Sutherland, Wadsworth and Warren—22.

Democrats—Ashurst, Broussard, Dial, Fletcher, Heflin, Hitchcock, Jones of New Mexico, King, Myers, Overman, Pittman, Pomerene, Ransdell, Reed of Missouri; Sheilds, Simmons, Smith, Trammel, Underwood and Walsh of Montana—20, Total 43.

THOSE OPPOSED

Against the amendment: Republicans—Ball, Brandegee, Colt, Cummins, Curtis, Dillingham, Frelinghuysen, Hale, Kellogg, La Follette, Lenroot, Lodge, McCumber, Moses, Sutherland, Townsend, Watson of Indiana and Willis—13.

Democrats—Gerry, Glass, McKellar, Robinson, Sheppard, Swanson, Walsh of Massachusetts and Williams—8. Total 26.

Opposition to the principle of the bonus was expressed by Senator Keyes, Republican, South Dakota, who told the Senate that the bill was "indefensible." He characterized it as a bad precedent for the Congress to set and at a time when the Treasury has outstanding something like $23,000,000,000 in securities.

"And besides this," Senator Sterling said, "the terms of the bill themselves are vicious. Instead of

ENGLISH ORDER TROOP PLANES

Aerial Craft Will Carry Twenty-five Soldiers With Equipment

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—An improved aerial troop transport with a hull of tubular steel large enough to accommodate twenty-five soldiers and their equipment has been ordered by the Air Ministry under the recently announced £2,000,000 expansion scheme to provide 500 machines for home defense.

RAIL PLOT INQUIRY

Federal Official Coming Here

Attorney-General's Assistant to Investigate Stoppage of Trains

Soft Coal Production for Week Shows Marked Increase

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A decision to institute a special Department of Justice to investigate asserted illegal stoppages of transportation service incident to the rail strike in the West, a formal relaxation of some of the Interstate Commerce Commission priority control of coal distribution, publication of Federal safety inspectors' survey of railroad engines, and preparation of official estimates that soft coal production for the week is rising above 8,000,000 tons, or 100 per cent more than a month ago, were among elements that emerged today out of the government's actual contact with the industrial situation.

In the midst of these developments, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, whose position has been a dominant one in the continuation of the deadlock which has kept the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania tied up, arrived in Washington and shortly after White House expressions, indicated confidence that the long-delayed settlement there was to be looked for at once.

HOLD QUIZ HERE

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty announced that a separate investigation organization would be built up immediately in Los Angeles, in charge of Hiram C. Todd, U. S. Attorney for Northern New York, who is to resign his post at once to accept this special appointment. It will be Mr. Todd's duty, it was said, to conduct inquiries into the possible criminality involved in the series of train stoppages and interruptions to interstate commerce in the West. PLOTTERS HELD FOR MURDER

Four Strikers, Confessing Derailing of Train at Gary, Arraigned at Midnight

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Confessions of four striking shopmen, all foreigners, that they caused the wreck of the Michigan Central "million-dollar express" and expressed regret that they had not killed a large number of people, instead of only the engineer and fireman, has served to check a nation-wide plot to create a reign of terror and sabotage.

Especial efforts will be made to rush the trial of the four wreckers on charges of deliberate and premeditated murder. Those who have confessed and who are being held incomunicado at various outlying stations are:

Charles Uselis Ymshelis, an immigrant from Russia fifteen years ago.

Joseph Papavourich, also a Russian.

John Petrowski, Russian.

Albino Alessio, an Italian.

These men are the tools of union leaders who laid out the job and sent them to execute it at a mass meeting of strikers held a week ago Saturday morning. Two union leaders are said to have issued explicit instructions to the four strikers and congratulated them after the train had been wrecked, on their fine contribution to the union cause.

PLANS REVEALED

It was then suggested by the union leaders that Uselis and Alessio should go to the Elkhart shops of the New York Central and secure employment as strike-breakers. When opportunity offered, they were to bomb the shops or wreck the Twentieth Century Limited.

The leaders argued that one or

NEW WAR CLOUDS APPEAR

British Worried at Italian Efforts to Swallow Austria in Effort to Cut Off Little Entente

BY JOHN STEELE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—British politicians are much worried over the turn of affairs in Southeastern Europe, where one war is on between the Greeks and Turks and another, much larger, is threatened. The latter is due to the position of Austria as a bone of contention between Italy and the countries of the Little Entente.

Austria has practically put itself up at auction to the highest bidder and Italy has made the first bid in the shape of a loan and then a customs union, which means virtual absorption. Italy is anxious to swallow Austria for more than one reason.

SEEK TO DRIVE WEDGE

Popular feeling is in favor of the step because of the immense power of nationalist sentiment now in Italy favoring expansion. Italy also is in a position to absorb and eliminate its historic enemy. A far more potent reason, however, is the belief of Italian statesmen to drive a commercial wedge into the Little Jugo-Slavia from Czecho-Slovakia.

The Jugo-Slavs and the Italians are the principal rivals for the control of the Adriatic. Anything to weaken the former is desirable, according to Italy's policy.

It also is stated here that German influence may be responsible. It is said that there is much German capital in the Banco Commerciale, with which Foreign Minister Schanzer is connected. Germany does not want Austria, which would only add to its troubles, but it also does not want Czecho-Slovakia strengthened.

All these facts contain explosive

IN EPOCHAL DEBATE

Viviani to Reply to Kaiser

"Times" to Follow Memoirs of Wilhelm With Answer by Frenchman

Analysis of Hohenzollern Alibi for the War to be Printed With It

Beginning with its issue of Sept. 24, The Times will present to its readers the most stupendous debate in history—between the ex-Kaiser, on behalf of the German monarchists, and Rene Viviani, War Premier of France, on behalf of the free peoples of the earth. The subject will be the responsibility for the World War.

Thees two features, the memoirs of the deposed Kaiser and the rejoinder by the French statesman, procured at tremendous expense and dealing with the fundamental issues of the greatest of all wars will be at once the most interesting reading furnished since the armistice and the most important contribution up to this time to the real history of that titanic struggle.

The ex-Kaiser is, of course, endeavoring to shift the blame for the World War, seeking to make the worse appear the better cause. But, at the same time, he is in a position to give Allied readers more interesting details than any leader on either side in the struggle. Unversally credited with having been the guiding spirit in bringing on that conflict, his folly has been established and his fall is complete. His effort to justify himbself and to saddle upon other shoulders the staggering burden of guilt forms one of the most remarkable document in history.

Each installment of the ex-Kaiser's memoirs will be accompanied in The Times by an analysis of it, written by an expert, and presenting the facts from the standpoint of America and the Allies. This daily rejoinder to the Kaiser's argument and exposition of his fallacies will be in addition to the articles by Viviani, which will follow. The three will jointly form the greatest "inside story" of the war and its causes ever printed.

It is particularly fortunate that M. Viviani has been secured to reply to the former Emperor. No man in public life today possesses greater moving power, both as a writer and a speaker. Famous both as a journalist and a lawyer, he brings to his task a keen perception of the dramatic, coupled with a marvelous capacity for marshaling facts. He will have an unprecedented opportunity to display his talents in this debate because the French government has given him access to all the official documents bearing on the issues to be raised by the ex-Kaiser—thus making available through him data which would not reach the public in half a century of the ordinary writing of history.

TWO SAW BERGEN MURDER

Screen Actress Tells What Took Place at Cline Home; Man Saw Fall

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EDGEWATER (N. J.) Aug. 29.—Two more moving-picture people were today revealed as witnesses to the tragedy enacted at the home of George F. Cline, location director, last Friday night when "Handsome Jack" Bergen, dare-devil double for film stars, was fatally shot.

Miss Alice Thornton, whom Bergen had lifted from a stenographer's desk in financial Manhattan to a place before the camera, was identified as the "mysterious blonde," who was in the Cline home when the man who had befriended her was killed.

Another witness who today shed new light on the affair, was Joseph Lurgo, fireworks expert in battle scene movies.

With the statements of these two, making seven who are known to have seen the tragedy enacted at the Cline home, the District Attorney's office was ready to proceed with the case and 100 men and women were impanelled for the September jury.

WOMAN TOLD HUSBAND

Miss Thornton, according to her story to the detectives, first informed Cline that his wife had an affair with Bergen. Then, on the night when Bergen was summoned to the Cline home and denounced by the husband, she was a witness, the police assert.

The movie actress is asserted by the police to have cleared up a puzzling phase of the investigation by answering the question, "why, when he feared Cline, did Bergen accept the invitation to their home?"

The answer is said to have been Miss Thornton. Bergen was attentive to her, she said, until they quarreled over Bergen's alleged relations with Mrs. Cline when a picture was being filmed at Saranac Lake.

Miss Thornton said she told Cline what she had learned, but he did not believe her and he asked her if she would tell the story before Bergen.

Cline telephoned her Friday night, she said, and asked her to

SIX SAVED WHEN SHIP GOES DOWN

Wreck of Chilean Steamer in Storm Costs More Than Three Hundred Lives

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SANTIAGO (Chile) Aug. 29.—Only six persons, including two passengers, out of a total of 322 on board the Chilean steamship Iata were saved, when the vessel sunk today off the Chilean coast near Coquimbo.

The steamer sailed yesterday afternoon from Coquimbo, with 250 passengers aboard. Of these ninety were laborers proceeding to Antofogasta. Heavy cross seas damaged the rudder of the vessel, which was overloaded.

In this helpless condition and in the strong south gale, the steamer was swept time and again by the enormous waves. She listed badly and soon sank by the bow.

The Chilean warship Chacabuco, which speeded to the rescue found only scores of drowned floating on the ocean and remnants of wreckage. One boat carrying twenty persons capsized and seventeen perished.

Another boat with many passengers and sailors aboard, and in which Capt. Caldera, who had been previously injured, was riding, also capsized near the boat. Only two passengers and one sailor of this group escaped.

Election Service of "The Times" so Complete That Quarter of a Million Persons Were Kept Informed

More than 250,000 persons heard or read The Times election bulletins last night. It was a newspaper achievement, and was made possible by the radiophone, which has made election night more easily and more generally observed than ever before.

In addition to the bulletin service, The Times issued six editions, transmitting the details of the election reports to the public as rapidly as reporters could gather, printers could set, presses print and newsboys run, and thus reached thousands upon thousands more.

The election bulletin service, as in former years, informed voters more quickly than is possible through newspapers, but The Times radio station and its myriad of listeners-in made it more useful than ever before. It is estimated that fully 200,000 persons took advantage of the radio service.

EVEN HEARD AT SEA

They were grouped about "loud speakers" in thousands of homes in Los Angeles, in clubs, hotels and restaurants; they were listening-in at Big Bear, Mt. Baldy and other mountain resorts; at the several stations on Santa Catalina; as far north as San Francisco; south to the Mexican border; into the Arizona desert and into Nevada; in mining camps, cow camps, mansions and mountain shacks. Ships at sea 500, 600 and even 700 miles away picked up the service, and Californians en route to foreign lands heard the returns as quickly as those standing in front of the Times Building.

The same service was distributed from a magnavox and a Western Electric "loud speaker" from the second floor of The Times Building. One machine was trained down Broadway and the returns could be heard at Third street. The other threw out the voice up First street.

To make the waits between unimportant returns interesting there was a program of music broadcast from The Times station. Four other broadcasting stations here had programs and election returns, so it was necessary to prevent collisions in the air. Each station took ten minutes alternating, so that there was a continuous broad-

MOORE SAYS RESULT IS STILL IN DOUBT; RACE FOR GOVERNOR CLOSE

At 3 o'clock this morning returns from approximately one-third of the State gave U. S. Senator Hiram Johnson a lead of about 22,000 over Charles C. Moore, his opponent for the Republican nomination for Senator.

Roughly the same number of precincts gave Friend W. Richardson a lead of about 300 over William D. Stephens, incumbent, for the Republican nomination for Governor. At 2 a.m. Mr. Richardson predicted his nomination by a majority of 30,000, many of his strongholds being yet to hear from.

At 1 a.m. Mr. Moore declared that the race for Senator is still in doubt and would depend upon the returns from Southern California, still very incomplete. "The precincts already heard from are Johnson strongholds," he said. Senator Johnson issued a statement before midnight claiming victory.

HOOVER ON FORD; FORD ON HOOVER

Exchange Views on Price of an Automobile in Relation to Coal

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Present coal prices would only add $1.50 to the price of Ford cars, Secretary of Commerce Hoover declared today in expressing the hope that the Detroit automobile manufacturer would not find it necessary to close his plants because of the price of fuel.

Mr. Hoover said he noted that Mr. Ford considered $4.50 a ton a reasonable price for coal, and that Mr. Ford could obtain it now at $4.50. Figuring on the basis of 3800 tons of coal used a day, Mr. Hoover estimated that even under present prices the increase per Ford car would only be about $1.50.

Legislation now pending, Mr. Hoover added, probably would provide price control machinery that could go into operation within a few days of September 15, the date set by Mr. Ford for shutting down his plants.

REPLY AT FORD PLANT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT (Mich.) Aug. 29.—The statement of Secretary Hoover that present coal prices would add but $1.50 to the price of Ford cars was characterized at the Ford offices here today as "a trivial and playful statement for the head of a government department to make in a situation as serious as the present one."

"It is quite in keeping with everything that has been going on at Washington in the present situation," it was added.

"Does Mr. Hoover think we should turn over to the profiteers from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 that would be represented in the increased cost of coal?" was asked.

The normal daily consumption of coal by the Ford plants here ranges from 3800 to 4600 tons a day.

Construction Warehouse is Swept by Fire

Fire last night swept the warehouse of the Mercereau Bridge and Construction Company, 313 North Avenue 21. Machinery valued at $10,000 was destroyed. The fire, according to a report made by Officer Palmer, apparently started from sparks from a burning rubbish heap.

RANKIN LEADING IN MONTANA ELECTION

RECEIVES FIFTEEN MORE VOTES THAN RIDDICK IN FOURTEEN PRECINCTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HELENA (Mont.) Aug. 29.—Early returns, almost entirely from city precincts, give Wellington D. Rankin, a slight lead for the Republican nomination for United States Senator over Carl Riddick, Representative in the Congress. Fourteen precincts out of 1434 in the State give Rankin 589; Riddick 574; Charles N. Pray of Great Falls 406; Dr. J. C. F. Siegfriedt of Bear Creek 135, and J. A. Anderson of Sidney 158.

The count for fourteen precincts for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator shows: Burton K. Wheeler of Butte in the lead with 315 votes; Tom Stout of Lewistown 198; James F. O'Connor of Livingston 149, and Hugh R. Wells of Miles City 139.

The vote for United States Senator and for Governor developed into a battle of ballots between Northern and Southern California.

Four hundred and seventy-one precincts in Los Angeles county gave Moore 13,002, and Johnson 10,245. The same number of precincts in this county gave Richardson 13,673 and Stephens 10,559.

In San Francisco incomplete returns from 649 precincts gave Johnson 37,413, and Moore 23,249. Richardson received from 649 San Francisco precincts, incomplete, 36,131 votes and Stephens received 23,525.

Of the forty counties reporting on the gubernatorial race up to 2 a.m., nineteen report edmajorities for Richardson. Counties that registered heavily in the Richardson column included San Diego, where he received in fifty-nine scattering precincts 2020 as against 1310 for Stephens; Orange, where Richardson was given 556 votes in sixteen incomplete precincts and Stephens 340; Colusa, where the vote in five incomplete precincts was Richardson, 103, Stephens 49, and in Santa Clara, where the vote was, Richardson 1516 and Stephens 1341 in forty incomplete precincts.

Mattison B. Jones carried Los Angeles county on the first count in 471 precincts incomplete for the Democratic nomination for Governor, receiving 3342 votes and Woolwine 3976, but Woolwine was ahead of Jones more than three to one in San Francisco on incomplete returns from 499 precincts, the vote being, Woolwine, 6487, Jones 2322. On the face of the returns so far, Woolwine is safely nominated.

The race for Lieutenant-Governor is close, with Young slightly ahead of Rominger.

Maj. Walter Lineberger, incumbent, has apparently swamped his ancient opponent, Charles H. Randall, for Congress in the Ninth District. His vote at midnight was nearly two to one over Randall's.

Capt. H. Z. Osborne, Congressman in the Tenth District, is far ahead of McDonald, his opponent.

VOTE IS LIGHT

A vote of from 33 to 45 per cent of the total registration of 1,482,203 was cast throughout the state, the vote being comparatively heavier in northern and central sections. In Los Angeles county it appears that not more than from 33 to 35 per cent of the county's total registration of 420,000 was cast. A total vote in excess of 50 per cent of the registration is claimed in San Diego county and in San Francisco the primary vote was unusually heavy.

Throughout the north returns varied greaty, both in the percentage of votes cast and in the returns given Moore, Johnson, Richardson and Stephens.

Late returns indicate the possibility of the election at the primary of Sheriff Traeger. Incomplete returns on approximately 33 per cent of the county's precincts indicate Mr. Traeger's lead as more than two-to-one over Mr. Kelley, in second place, and Mr. Smith, a poor third.

Judge William P. Lawlor leads on late returns over Judge Curtis D. Wilbur for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, his lead in Northern California overcoming a substantial majority piled up for Judge Wilbur in the South.

Judge W. A. Sloane appeared to be holding his own, through a heavy vote in Southern California, with the three Northern California candidates for associate justice of the Supreme Court, with Judges Kerrigan and Shurtleff running a close race and leading Judge Emmet Seawell.

Superior Judge Frederick W. Houser received a substantial majority over Judge Shaw in Southern California for the District Court of Appeal. Supporters of Shaw asserted Shaw's lead in the northern part of the State would overcome Judge Houser's southern majority.

William C. Doran, Chief District Attorney, developed surprising strength in the race for Superior Judge and stood well towards the top of the ticket among the six incumbents on partial returns from scattered precincts.

On partial returns Judge J. W. Summerfield heads the list of thirteen candidates for the six places on the Superior bench, with Judge John Perry Wood, Mr. Doran,

North and South Battle for Senator and Governor Nominations

BOTH SIDES CLAIMING VICTORY FOR SENATOR

Battle of Ballots Still Undecided With Moore Ahead in South, Johnson in North

With Charles C. Moore increasing his substantial majority in Southern California and running behind Senator Hiram Johnson in Northern California, both sides last night claimed the election.

Maj. O. C. Wyman, manager for Moore in Southern California, predicted a Moore victory.

Johnson's early lead in San Francisco was approximately three to two and was much smaller than his managers had predicted. While Johnson was running ahead in San Francisco Moore was piling up a greater lead in Southern California by almost two to one.

The closeness of the Senatorial race and the continued inconclusive nature of scattering returns indicated that the outcome of the contest may not be known until late today.

Moore not only made a much stronger run in Southern California than had been anticipated, but his showing against Johnson in Northern California centers formerly counted upon to return heavy Johnson majorities was a revelation:

In many respects the contest this year between Mr. Moore and Mr. Johnson has been a memorable one. Mr. Moore entered the race at a time when the Johnson managers were assuring the people that the Senator would be unopposed and the first reaction of his announcement was a feeling that he could not overcome in the short time of two months the machine strength of his opponent.

However, within ten days after Mr. Moore actively took the field he had revolutionized sentiment and was receiving attention as a strong runner-up. But it was not until the final three weeks of the campaign that Mr. Moore's chances for election were held to be even or better than those of Senator Johnson.

Confidential reports obtained in all parts of California indicated that Moore was gaining rapidly and that Johnson was either losing strength or barely holding his own. This condition resulted in renewed efforts in both camps.

The principal battle of the primary war for ballots was waged in Southern California and the heaviest bombardment of all was in Los Angeles, where both Mr. Moore and Mr. Johnson addressed large audiences.

Although less vital and not so strong physically as in former years, Mr. Johnson followed his accustomed plan of bitterly denouncing his political foes, of heaping opprobrium upon his opponent, and of fulsome self-praise. The Hearst papers opened their columns to him and gave him unlimited space.

STRONG CAMPAIGN

The campaign of Mr. Moore will go down in history as one of the most remarkable the State has ever witnessed.

Although an outstanding figure in California's affairs for more than two decades, having won international fame as the man most responsible for the great success of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915, and with a distinguished record for other public service, Mr. Moore had never sought political preferment and had devoted himself, when not engaged in public work, to his profession as an engineer, in which profession he is recognized as one of the leaders.

His candidacy was urged by those who felt that Mr. Johnson, by his active opposition to the national Republican administration, his alliance with Mr. Hearst, and his selfish and obstructionist tactics, not only did not represent the real sentiment of California, but was an actual detriment to the cause of the State in national affairs.

Mr. Moore, in a strong platform, affirmed his Republican principles and his loyalty to the administration at Washington; particularly he emphasized his support of the four-power pact, which Senator Johnson attempted to defeat and which the Senator announced in his campaign that he still opposes.

The campaigning of the two men is not comparable, Mr. Johnson being surrounded by a coterie of brilliant professional politicians who made of his progress through the State a marvelously efficient political maneuver, whereas Mr. Moore sought without trick or device to give the people a real understanding of the issues and of himself as an exponent of the Republican principles and policies for which he stood.

PROGRESSIVES DESERT

The greatest embarrassment was caused Mr. Johnson and his backers by wholesale desertions from his cause of former Progressives, who flocked in thousands to the standard of Mr. Moore and this embarrassment reached a climax in Los Angeles when nine influential Republican men and women, each a former captain in Mr. Johnson's most arduous campaigns, announced their repudiation of the Senator and submitted to him for answer sixteen questions relating to his official conduct as Senator.

He refused to answer the questions and became highly resentful when the list of sixteen queries was presented to him from one end of the State to the other. The campaign closed without an answer from him. Mr. Johnson also aroused considerable resentment for his policy of refusing to answer questions when he rudely criticised the president of the Woman's City Club in Los Angeles for asking him how he stood on the Volstead Act.

At a later time Mr. Moore won commendation for openly replying to questions such as were submitted to Mr. Johnson and, being informed that the president of the Woman's City Club was in the audience to ask him the same question she asked Mr. Johnson, he saved her the embarrassment of arising in the great audience he was addressing by frankly stating his attitude on the Volstead law.

When the polls opened at 6 o'clock yesterday morning it was generally conceded by opposing camps in the Senatorial fight that the principal strength of Mr. Moore would be found in Southern California. Widely divergent estimates were given out as to the relative strength of Mr. Moore and Mr. Johnson in San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, Bakersfield and other Central and Northern California communities.

W. F. Pearson, Democratic candidate, and Upton Sinclair, Socialist candidate, H. Clay Needham, Prohibition candidate for United States Senator are unopposed in their respective parties.

side throughout the evening. The Times station redistributed the returns sent by the others.

Hundreds thronged about the building to hear the radio reports and to see the bulletins which were thrown by stereopticon onto a screen on the Tajo Building in Broadway opposite The Times Building.

In addition all persons telephoning The Times were given the latest returns, and three telephone operators kept up a running fire of answers through the evening. These girls answered more than 5000 calls. No sooner was one inquirer answered than another was on the line.

The election bulletins — which thus were sent by radio, "loud speakers" in the street, stereopticon and telephone—numbered more than 2000 in the course of five short hours. Reporters stationed where the votes were counted transmitted the reports and a corps of statisticians whipped them into concrete form.

All this time the wheels that grind a newspaper were running as smoothly as on the dullest day, and out of the drone of voices, the clicking of the typewriters, telegraph instruments and adding machines, came the orderly flow of accurate information from the moment the polls closed until the early hours of the morning.

RACE IS CLOSE FOR GOVERNOR

Judge Hahn, Judge McLucas, Elliott Craig, Judge Toland, Ruben Schmidt, Powell, Thompson, Kendrick, O'Brien and Judge Weyl following in approximately the order named.

Incomplete returns from various county precincts give Police Judge Chambers and Judge Richardson first place among the candidates and other candidates for Police Judge in about the following order: Judge Fredericksen, Judge Crawford, Francis D. Adams, Fairfax Crosby, Clarence B. Conlin, Caryl Sheldon, Morse, Hooper, Hosick, McCulloch, McGann, Groom.

For Justice of the Peace, Los Angeles township, Justice Channing Follette was high man on partial returns and other candidates in the following order: Justice Hanby, Justice Baird, Justice Forbes, Glover, Lincoln, Wood, Scott, Brown, Hinshaw, Nelson, Baxter.

Supervisor Woodley received a substantial majority over Council man Conaway on partial returns in the Third Supervisorial District and in the Fifth District Supervisor Wright fell behind Glenn on partial count. Supervisor Fogxwell was unopposed in the First District.

Incomplete returns from precincts in all parts of the State indicate a close race between Charles G. Johnson and Capt. Walter Brinkop for State Treasurer. J. T. Millan of San Diego appears to be third in the Republican contest for State Treasurer.

For other State offices on the Republican ticket scattering State precincts show the renomination by a large vote of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan; the nomination of Controller Ray L. Riley; the nomination of Surveyor-General W. S. Kingsbury, and a contest yet in doubt between Sidney S. Gilhuley and H. G. Cattel, incumbent, for member of the State Board of Equalization.

Incomplete returns indicate that Thomas Lee Woolwine received the Democratic nomination for Governor over Mattison B. Jones. W. J. Pearson, unopposed for the Democratic nondination for United States Senator, received a comparatively heavy vote.

JOHNSON REBUKED BY VOTES

Suthpen Says Service Men Paid Tribute to Senator's Opponent

"Greatly pleasing to thousands of service men in California, as an aftermath of the campaign will be the thought of the just rebuke given to Hiram ohnson by them, knowing, as they did, that his unfair assertions to being their friend were made by him, and for him, for political purposes only, and were not at all justified by the facts."

This was the statement made last night by Maj. J. W. Suthpen, whose statement during the campaign in regard to the attitude of the service men made him the subject of verbal attacks by Hiram Johnson from the platform.

"I put before the service men only the facts in regard to Hiram Johnson's lack of attention to their interests, and his apparent utter indifference to them until he learned that Charles C. Moore was going to oppose him for the nomination," continued Maj. Suthpen. "And I did this only from a sense of justice to all concerned. I knew Mr. Moore's record of service as head of the State Council of defense, and I had been informed, from a reliable source, of his patriotic and most generous offer to those in his employ who were going to enlist that he would personally see that they lost nothing in the way of financial remuneration by volunteering in aid of their country, and that their positions would be open for them when they came back."

"I feel that in the strong support that has been given to Mr. Moore by service men throughout the State lies the proof that I was amply justified in pointing out the facts to them, for otherwise they might have given their support to a man who did nothing for their interests, against one who clearly evidenced the fact that he does at a time when he could not have had any thought of political preferment.

"The votes of the service men of California for Charles C. Moore were at once a tribute to a man who was their friend and a rebuke to one who attempted to make political capital out of his position in the Senate, when he must have known that the service men could very easily have been misled into believing that he had tried, at least, to serve them, unless they were advised otherwise by some one in a position to know the facts.

"The facts were presented to them. They were shown that Hiram Johnson rendered them lip service only. That his last-hour efforts to help them were more of a pretense than anything else was news to them.

"In the light of the big vote cast bt the service men for Moore, I feel that I have rendered a service not only to the service men, but to the State of California."

CLEAR CALIFORNIANS IN AUTO FATALITY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

THE DALLES (Or.) Aug. 29.—Frank A. Gilchrest of Pasadena and A. Stanley Pullen of Carmel, Cal., were exonerated here late today of responsibility for the death of Edward M. Hill, who was killed last Sunday when his automobile was "side swiped" by a heavy car carrying a California license and knocked off the road near here.

BLEASE HAS EARLY LEAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBIA (S. C.) Aug. 29.—With scattered returns reported from one-half of the counties of South Carolina in today's democratic primary, Cole E. Blease and Thomas G. McLeod were leading the six candidates for Governor, Blease having 8342 votes and McLeod 7210. George K. Laney followed with 2618; J. J. Cantey, 548; William Coleman 353, and John T. Duncan 181.

SEWER BONDS ARE APPROVED

Scattered Returns Point to Four-to-One Vote

Voting on Increase in Tax Rate Is Close

Amendment Leading by a Small Margin

Victory for the proposed $12,000,000 sewer bond issue was indicated by scattering returns from widely-separated precincts indicating a vote of approximately four to one for the bonds. The proposed tax rate increase is close but it is believed to have won.

President Treat of the Board of Public Works issued a statement before midnight announcing that the board is "highly gratified" over the sewer bonds victory. He thanked the newspapers for their support and also the general committe headed by Mr. Vickery and the ministers of the various city churches.

While voting was comparatively light throughout the city, City Clerk Domingues estimated that between 55,000 and 60,000 Los Angeles voters cast their ballots on the two city propositions appearing on the separate municipal ballot. This estimate would represent about 40 per cent of the 139,858, total number of registered voters in Los Angeles.

A two-thirds vote of those casting their ballots on this municipal issue was required to carry the bonds, but on account of the active and thorough work done by the Citizens' Sewer Campaign Committe of which O. A. Vickery was chairman, it was believed that much more than the necessary two-thirds vote was secured at yesterday's election. The sewer bond issue was Proposition No. 2 on the city ballot.

The amount of the sewer bond issue voted upon yesterday was $12,000,000, which members of the City Council and experts of the Special Sewage Disposal Commission had agreed would be sufficient to provide a new outfall sewer to the ocean, with screenings and treatment plants there and laterals and connecting sewers to serve all parts of the city so that the 40,000 homes not now connected with the sewer system could be given sewage disposal service. This amount will also pay for the $500,000 temporary sewer pipe line now being built to Culver City and the treatment plant to be built there to clarify the sewage before it is turned into Ballona Creek. This temporary pipe line will relieve the present overflowing sewers, and handle the excess flow of sewage during the next three years while the permanent sewer improvements to be built under the bond issue are being constructed.

VOTE CONTRAST

The heavy vote cast for the sewer bonds yesterday was a striking contrast to the large opposition vote last year, but in the past twelve months conditions throughout the city had become so deplorable, with raw sewage flowing in the streets and spouting from manholes, and constituting a menace to the health of every person in Los Angeles that the people of Los Angeles were awakened to the fact that the 'remendous' growth of the city had caused the present sewer system to reach its capacity and that something must be done at once to relieve the conditions which were daily growing worse and which, if permitted to continue, would prevent any further growth of Los Angeles, as well as seriously endanger the health of its present inhabitants.

With the realization of the gravity of the situation, the tide swung to the support of the sewer bonds.

The improvements to be built under the $12,000,000 bond issue will adequately provide for sewage disposal for Los Angeles for the next thirty years, if the city's growth at the present rate continues, and the additional sewers will enable the complete system to serve a population of 2,500,000 people.

TAX INCREASE

Proposition No. 1 was a charter amendment increasing the tax limit from $1 to $1.25 on each $100 of taxable property in Los Angeles. While the proposed charter amendment has some supporters, little active campaigning for the tax increase was done.

WITNESSES TO KILLING FOUND

come to Edgewater. She declared she did not know then and does not know now whether she was used as a lure to get Bergen to the house. The investigators believe Bergen went to the Cline home thinking Miss Thortan wished to make friends with him again, after he had been informed, it is alleged, that he could "make up" with Alice.

MEN WENT UPSTAIRS

"When I reached the Cline house," Miss Thorton said, "Mr. Bergen was already there. As soon as I was in the house Mr. Cline asked me to repeat what I had told him. Mr. Cline and Mr. Bergen went upstairs.

"A moment later I heard a scuffle on the stairs and then a shot. We ran to the door and Mr. Bergen came stumbling down stairs and ran out the front door."

Lurlie said he reached the house soon after 9 o'clock and heard sounds of quarreling inside. When the door was opened he said he walked in on Cline, who was starting up the stairs prodding Bergen ahead of him with the muzzle of a pistol. Cline turned his head and said "he wronged my wife." When the two men dropped on the landing, Lurlie said he heard footsteps but no sound of a scuffle.

Mrs. Cline, he said, was screaming:

"Someone do something, for God's sake. Make peace between them."

Then there was a shot and Bergen came down with his hand over his chest, gasping and ran out.

RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Richardson's Lead in South Partially Balanced by Stephens's in North

A heavy lead for State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson in Southern California and a smaller lead for Gov. Stephens in Northern California, while giving Mr. Richardson a majority for the State on incomplete returns left the result in some doubt.

In many Northern California counties a substantial majority was accorded Stephens, but in virtually all southern counties, with the exception of San Bernardine county, Richardson was in the lead. In San Diego county Richardson, in many precincts, was three to one ahead of Stephens.

BACKERS CONFIDENT

Mr. Richardson's backers assert he will carry the State by from 25,000 to 35,000. Many of the county districts where the State Treasurer is expected to show great strength are yet to be heard from.

Los Angeles county is the battleground in the race for Governor itwas admitted at 10 o'clock last night at the Stephens headquarters. It was stated that "Los Angeles county, which has been the fiercest battleground, would be so close that the outcome could not be predicted." It was stated that northern bay cities would give Stephens a majority of 30,000.

The statement issued at 10 o'clock by James P. Britt and J. A. Matthews of the Stephens campaign committee, follows:

"At ten o'clock last night it was indicated by returns received from all parts of the State that the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination would be the closest in the history of the State.

"While San Francisco and bay cities showed every evidence of giving Stephens a substantial majority, figured approximately at 30,000, the returns from scattered precincts in northern counties, as well as in San Diego and Orange counties, indicated that Gov. Stephens is leading by a bare majority. Los Angeles county, which has been the fiercest battleground, would be so close that the outcome could not be predicted."

In the contest for Governor, Mr. Richardson and Mr. Stephens have campaigned on an efficiency and economy issue, the former guaranteeing to reduce State expenses and the latter denying that any reduction could be made.

Mr. Richardson's campaign was in a large measure in the hands of two committees of country newspapermen, who have known the State Treasurer intimately as a fellow-editor and as State Printer and Treasurer for more than twenty years.

The backers of Mr. Stephens have expressed confidence of the outcome, but have been working in an almost desperate fashion throughout the State and have spent an unusually large amount of money in billboard and newspaper advertising, in huge quantities of mail matter and in posters, dodgers and pamphlets.

The large army of State officials and employees devoted time, energy and State resources in the campaign to re-elect Mr. Stephens, who evaded a discussion of governmental economy and sought to gain support by charging that the corporations were fighting him and that the people of California do not pay any part of State taxes.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

The same considerations urged for and against candidates for Governor were used in the fight for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor between State Senator Joseph A. Rominger of Long Beach and the incumbent candidate, C. C. Young of Berkeley.

Mr. Rominger toured the State urging the necessity for defeating the State machine and of introducing such business-like methods in State affairs as to permit of a reduction in the per capita tax for State functions. Mr. Young followed the lead of Gov. Stephens and denied that waste or inefficiency exists at Sacramento.

Although Los Angeles county has been the home of the Governor for thirty-five years, his backers regarded the county as the most dangerous to his chances for re-election and in consequence the chief fight of the machine was waged here.

Both the Stephens and Richardson managers predicted large majorities in San Francisco. The country districts were expected to line up strongly in the Richardson column and the Richardson forces also expected a heavy vote in San Diego, Orange and Riverside counties. Other counties were claimed for both sides.

DEMOCRATIC RACE

Among the Democrats the gubernatorial contest between Dist. Atty. Thomas Lee Woolwine and Attorney Mattison B. Jones of Glendale, attracted more interest than the Democratic Senatorial situation, due largely to the fact that th candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator is unopposed.

Mr. Jones has campaigned on a platform demanding economies in State government and his criticism of the Stephens machine has been more aggressive and sweeping than the indictment of the machine by the Richardson backers. Mr. Jones has had the general support of the leaders of his party.

Mr. Woolwine has made "law and order" the slogan of his campaign and has ignored the financial and organization issues to devote his entire attention to denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan, the I.W.W., and the criminal class.

One of the big surprises of the gubernatorial campaign was a written guarantee by Mr. Richardson that if elected he would save $115,000,000 during the four years of his term as Governor, and that he would begin the saving by reducing the present $51,000,000 biennium budget from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000.

INCUMBENT SOLONS LEAD

Betterment Association Ticket for Legislature Appears to Have Largely Won

Scattering returns from fifteen Assembly and three State Senatorial districts in Los Angeles city and county indicated that virtually all incumbents are renominated for the State Legislature.

Close races appear to have developed in the Thirty-sixth Senatorial District between former Assemblyman A. Burlingame Johnson and Franklin D. Mather. First returns from the Thirty-fourth Senatorial District showed the incumbent, Charles W. Lyon, ahead of his opponent, Edward Winterer, and in the Thirty-eighth Senatorial District, Senator H. H. Yonkin appears on early returns to have a safe majority over C. H. V. Lewis, who was defeated for the same office by Senator Yonkin four years ago.

On the whole, the independent legislative ticket recommended to the voters by the Association for Betterment of Public Service seems to have been successful.

Warm contests for the Assembly developed in the Sixty-sixth District, where Assemblyman Richmond P. Benton is opposed by Otto L. Emme, union labor candidate, and Harry Sherr, Socialist; in the Seventy-second District, where Assemblyman Willard E. Badham's election is contested by several aspirants, among the leaders being Mrs. Dora A. Stearns, clubwoman; and in the Seventy-second District, where union labor and the State machine have made a hard fight to nominate John S. Horn, secretary of Central Labor Council. The fight in the Seventy-second District appears to have developed a struggle for first place on the Republican ticket between Morn and former State Senator Henry E. Carter.

On incomplete returns from precincts in the Seventy-third District, Assemblyman Elmer P. Bromley is re-elected by a considerable majority over James G. Edmonds.

Assemblyman Harry Lyons received a majority of the early ballots counted in the Sixty-fourth District, where he was opposed by William J. Walls, union labor candidate, and John A. Kelley.

Assemblyman Frank F. Merriam and Joseph L. Pedrotti, who were unopposed in their districts, polled a heavy vote.

Other candidates who were leading in early returns are: Frank Weller, Sixty-first District; Hugh R. Pomeroy, Sixty-second District; Sydney T. Graves, Sixty-third District; W. F. Creller, Sixty-seventh District; Ira Lee and Allen C. Mitchell in the Sixty-eighth District; Charles B. Dawson, Sixty-ninth District; William Greenwood, Frank F. Roberts, Seventy-fourth District, and Edwin Baker in the Seventy-fifth District.

Unless a radical change occurs in the voting trend the labor union-State machine legislative ticket placed in the field by Gov. Stephens and labor bosses is heavily defeated.

SOON TO KNOW MINERS' FATE

Rescue Crews Expect to Drive Tunnel to Entombed Men in Next Two Days

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JACKSON (Cal.) Aug. 29.—Rescue crews, working in six-hour shifts and putting all the energy they can command into their work, are clearing out tonight a caved-in tunnel leading from the Kennedy to the Argonaut mine in hope of rescuing forty-seven miners trapped by a fire in the main Argonaut shaft. It is expected that the work will take two more days at least, but, according to State and government experts on the scene, it appears to hold out the only hope for the imprisoned men.

The rescuers have figured that the tunnel will come below the lowest fire level in the Argonaut. Tests for gases are being made as they dig their way along, that they shall not be overcome themselves by escape of the fumes from the shaft. As each crew goes off shift it is treated for near exhaustion by tireless Red Cross workers, who have established quarters in the mine blacksmith shop and the headquarters building.

The hope of rescuing the men from the main shaft was abandoned when it was determined that the fire was gaining despite heroic efforts to get it under control. The tearing out of considerable timbering at the 2500-foot level did not seem to impede the flames to any great extent, according to experts, and the fire was licking its way toward the shaft collar tonight, driving the fighting crews upward inch by inch.

An appliance for detecting any sounds or signals that may be made by the entombed miners if they are still alive, is to be put into the tunnel. According to mine officials, everything that it is humanly possible to do to effect the rescue of the fire victims is being done.

Safety First Banner Causes Man's Injury

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—A wire laden with "safety first" campaign banners caught William Buckland, aged 72 years, under the chin this evening as he rode on the top of a bus at Charlotte and Cass avenues. He was lifted out of his seat and thrown over the two immediately behind him. His throat was severely slashed. At Grace Hospital surgeons said he was in a serious condition.

A peculiar coincident was the fact that on the motor bus were three delegates who are attending the Safety First Congress in session here. They gave first aid to Mr. Buckland and helped to the hospital in an automobile.

General sent formal instructions to all Federal district attorneys to follow up any violation of a Federal court injunction obtained by railroads to prevent strikers and their sympathizers from molesting operations in shops and yards. The law, Mr. Daugherty said, must be "impressively enforced" in the matter.

CAUSE OF CONCERN

There is "a very general letdown in the matter of inspection of locomotives by carriers which gives cause for concern," the Interstate Commerce Commission reported to the Senate today, answering a resolution brought out by the controversy between strike leaders and the railroads over the safety conditions of equipment since the shopmen walked out. The railroads are failing to make all the inspections required by law, the report continued, and managements are reporting inability to do so because of the strike while the commission's own staff of inspectors is merely sufficient in number to supervise and test the carriers inspection system. Notwithstanding, Interstate Commerce Commission inspectors during July inspected 4085 locomotives on 162 railroads, finding 2456 defective, and 169 unsafe to operate. Many of the defects noted, it was said, were not of importance but 293 engines still in service were "found to have x x x x defects in need of prompt attention."

It was pointed out that condition of disrepair indicated did not, in the "exercise of discretion and judgment" by the inspectors, effect the safety of operations except in the case of the locomotives put out of service. It was however, impossible, the commission said, for its inspection staff to report on the changing conditions of the 70,000 locomotives which come in service where safety requirements are established in the law.

The decision of the government to relax markedly and immediately the control on coal shipments was carried into effect by an Interstate Commerce Commission order greatly modifying priority requirements hitherto imposed on consumers. Hereafter, upon special designation by the commission and its agents, coal will be shipped first to sections of the northwest where supply ordinarily moves by the Great Lakes water routes, and to railroads whose needs are pressing to maintain transportation.

A second class of shipments will be maintained as entitled to priority when certificates of State fuel administrators or committees are furnished railroads, that the coal is meant for the public utilities, public institutions, domestic and buildings, heating supply of common carriers, and need of foodstuffs, medicines and containers therefor. The Great Lakes movement of coal will be also continued in priority status in this class, supplementary to the special orders which it was indicated, would issue to insure this supply.

Secretary Hoover, who has guided the voluntary coal distribution, met today with the members of the temporary administration, assisting to wind up its affairs. Estimates were made available to session that 25,000 cars of bituminous had been produced yesterday, which at the average loading, amounts to 1,500,000 tons or a production rate considerably in excess of that maintained last year. The government now estimated that 90 per cent of the bituminous mines are in operation or resuming operation.

TO FIGHT FAMINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 29.—W. C. Lowdermilk, for three years connected with the forest service in Southeastern Arizona, has started for Nanking, China, where he will be associated with the University of Nanking in an anti-famine campaign. He will participate in the reforestation of a section of country, in which better agricultural methods also will be taught. The cost will be defrayed from a balance of $150,000 left from the famine fund of 1920-21.

WRECK PLOT IS REVEALED

two disasters of this magnitude would so intimidate the public that there would be no traveling and brotherhood men would fear to take out trains. Immediately following the wrecks, the story was to be circulated that they were due to "defective equipment."

The death penalty will be asked for the four actual wreckers who were arraigned before a Gary justice today, and also for the two leaders who planned the wreck and instructed the men to do the work. The trial will be held at Gary.

HEARING SECRET

The arraignment at Gary was shrouded in the strictest secrecy as far as the public is concerned. Prosecutor Dwight M. Kinder instructed the police not to talk about the case under any conditions.

Despite this injunction against information, it was learned that Albino Alessio of Chicago, one of the defendants, entered a "not guilty" plea to the judge, declaring himself to be "an agent of the railroad."

Capt. J. J. McHugh of the Michigan Central lines, denied that Alessio had been employed by his company at any time. But Alessio was an engine doper up to the time of the strike in the employ of the New York Central lines, police say.

Alessio, despite his plea, was held for murder in the first degree. So were Charles Uselis and John Popauritch. John Petrowsky obtained a continuance of his case until tomorrow afternoon, but was likewise held to the Circuit Court at that time.

Attorney Glaser, for the defense, it is said, will question the legality of the arraignment because of the fact that newspaper men were barred from the courtroom. He intends, he said tonight, to ask writs of habeas corpus for all four of the men.

"They were so badly beaten up by the police that they were willing to sign anything," he said in reference to the confessions.

According to the Gary police, Popauritch, just before the arraignment, broke down and made a new confession elaborating on the known details of the plot and further strengthening the State's case.

Prosecutor Kinder called Attorney R. O. Johnson, Sheriff Hut Olds of Lake county, Chief of Police Forbes, William Brown, a Gary contractor, Isaac Brown, a coal merchant, and James Considine, chairman of the board of safety, to witness the confession, so that there would be no doubt that it was made voluntarily.

Two bombings and considerable minor disorders were reported throughout the nation during the day. At Ashland, Wis., a sleeping car housing nonunion workers was dynamited. No one was hurt.

SHOPS BOMBED

Four bombs were exploded at the shops of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad at Danville, Ill., early this morning. With the exception of shattered windows within a radius of half a mile, no damage was done and no one was hurt.

At Shawnee, Okla., Federal deputies guarding the shops of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, were working under orders of "shoot to kill" as the result of an attack on two of their number Sunday night.

A. H. Egan, general superintendent of the Illinois Central—Yazoo and Mississippi Valley—lines at Memphis, reported the organization of a band of ten strikers to terrorize train crews and attempt to wreck trains. Department of Justice officials have joined with the railroad authorities to track the gang down.

TO RECLAIM LANDS

The Smith-McNary amendment would provide for for the reclaiming of arid lands in the West through irrigation, and swamp lands in the south and other sections by dainage, the work to be done under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior through Federal and State co-operation. Opposition to the amendment was voiced by Senators McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, in charge of the bonus; Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, and Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas.

NEW PLAN PROPOSED IN STRIKE

Senator Pepper Puts Forth Remedy That Would End Controversy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A proposal that the strike in the anthracite coal fields be settled immediately on the basis of wage scales in effect last April was advanced through Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania tonight at a conference of representatives of operators and mine union officials. Some of those participating in the conference expressed belief that the proposal offered hope of ending the long continued suspension in the hard coal fields.

Under the proposal the controversy at issue, of arbitration as a means of reaching an agreement on wages, would be set aside and the only important question to be decided would be that of how long the compromise would be effective.

Senator Pepper and his associate from Pennsylvania, Senator Reed, who also participated in the preliminary conference, left the meeting after the proposal had been laid before the opposing delegations Mr. Pepper expressed the opinion that the operators, who have insisted on arbitration, might easily retire on this issue, since there was every prospect that a Federal commission soon would be set up to investigate the entire mining industry and would serve the same purpose as the proposed arbitral tribunal.

CALIFORNIA GOES Studebaker

STUDEBAKER ELECTED

Motoring Public Expresses Strong Preference for Six-Cylinder Performance and Economy

When the final returns of the election came pouring in, Studebaker Six showed a big majority over all other candidates for six-cylinder popularity in the city, county and State. Its total poll of votes in Los Angeles exceeded that of the combined totals of the next five six-cylinder candidates as figured from the returns for 1922. Studebaker Six leads its next nearest rival by more than 50 per cent.

Every section showed a strong vote for this popular medium priced car; in Hollywood, where style is a big factor, it has a remarkable lead, while in the mountain, and desert counties, where real hard service is a requisite, it has a wonderful preference.

Studebaker Six ran on its platform of satisfactory performance. Every man who has driven one has gained from experience a true conception of the valuable transportation service it has been rendering.

Every class was backing Studebaker Six. The working man who demanded economy of operation and preferred style and the smoothness of six-cylinder performance forsook his former four-cylinder candidate and voted Studebaker. The business man whose first consideration is reliability and low maintenance cost again supported Studebaker, Six. Among the wealthier classes it made a wonderful showing for the closed models were in harmony with the finest homes and afforded a luxury of comfort and appointment that appealed to the taste of the discriminating buyer.

After serving the original owner for thousands of miles many a Studebaker Six has passed into the hands of the second, third or fourth buyer and continued to maintain its record for satisfactory transportation performance.

Judging Studebaker Six by years of past performance it is easy to understand its overwhelming majority. Going back for seventy years the name Studebaker has stood for good transportation. The high ideals, progressive methods and advanced ideas of Studebaker well deserve this public recognition of merit.

BOYS MANAGE COUNTY FAIR

Agricultural Club Plans to Stage Big Show

Arrangement Meets With Farmers' Approval

Tehachapi Plans for Pear Day Completed

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 29.—To replace what Kern county farmers considered a serious loss in the failure of the Kern County Fair project this year, and to present a live-stock exhibition heretofore unequaled in the county, the Boys' Agricultural Club of Kern County Union High School has taken the reins in hand and on October 5, 6 and 7, at the Kern County Fair Association grounds will stage a big exposition with many educational and entertainment features of great merit, it was learned late today.

The club, a leading agency in the live-stock and agricultural industries of the county, has been working on the fair project since plans for an annual fair for this year fell through recently, and today was assured sufficient financial support to stage a successful event. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the showing of horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry, and will be made known in a day or so. In addition to the exhibition of prize, grade and pure-bred animals, stock-judging, dairy and similar contests will be staged under direction of the young club members.

The fair will hold forth on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the first week in October. Friday will be "Dairy Day," when the stock-judging contests will be held and prizes for the most valuable dairy animals in the show will be awarded. "Dairy Day" will be in charge of the Dairymen's Association of the Kern County Farm Bureau. Complete premium lists for the entire fair will be ready in ten days.

Prizes will be awarded for the best animals and birds in all classes to be shown at the fair. The awards will be in ribbons and cups, some cash prizes being planned for the dairy contests. The Bakersfield Civic-Commercial Association and various dairies and creameries will provide cups to be given in the dairy exhibits and contests.

H. K. Dickson, head of the department of agriculture in the local high school and Kern county agent of the Boys' Agricultural Club work, has directed preliminary arrangements for the live-stock fair, and within the past few days has been given the support of Farm Bureau officials. State university extension service workers, and many others interested in the project.

Complete details of the various live-stock show features will be made known Monday.

TEHACHAPI PEAR DAY

Nine committees in addition to the general committee are working diligently on plans for the first annual Pear Festival to be staged at Tehachapi Labor Day, September 4, and indications point to a historic celebration in the mountain town on that day. A new feature of the advertising for the festival is the distribution throughout this part of the State of "reminder cards," which inform the recipient that "Tehachapi will hold a Pear Festival September 4, Labor Day, and we would be mighty glad to have you come. There will be plenty of good substantial lunch, a tour of the fine pear orchards, a baseball game, music, interesting addresses and moving-picture show. This will all be free.

"In the evening there will be dancing—an admission will be charged for the dance.

"The celebration is for the purpose of showing you what a wonderful country we have up here 4000 feet above sea-level, and what a mammoth crop of pears we are picking this season. We trust you can come."

DATE SET FOR RIVER PARLEY

Colorado Board to Assemble November 9

Secretary Hoover to Attend Conference

All Reaches of Stream Will be Explored

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Thursday, November 9, is the date fixed for the next meeting of the Colorado commission and this meeting will be held at Santa Fe, N. M. Exchange of views among the members representing the various States with Secretary Hoover, who represents the Federal government, eliminated all the other tentative dates for an earlier meeting and finally all agreed on this time and place.

Not only will all the members of the various States be present at this meeting, but it is expected that the governors of all States having membership on the commission will also be present. Chairman Hoover has definitely arranged all his plans to be on hand at that time and before the meeting is called a large amount of preliminary information and data will have been prepared and tabulated for use for this commission. The various State commissioners will have several tentative plans for further procedure.

TRIP PLANNED

One of the most important developments preliminary to this meeting will be a trip of exploration in the upper and lower reaches of the river by several of the commissioners and Secretary Clarence C. Stetson of the commission, who left Washington today to join the others of the party. He will stop at several western points, and the party will begin the detailed investigation of the river by starting from some point in Utah and going some 200 miles by boat.

Other portions of the river will be reached by motors and other methods of land travel and special attention will be given to Diamond Canyon and Boulder Canyon. Mr. Stetson, if time permits, will also visit the Imperial Valley both in the United States and on the Mexican side and check up all the particular points involved in the control of the waters of the Colorado River.

It is becoming more and more apparent that Congress will not accept any plan for power or irrigation development of the Colorado River and while the Smith-McNary reclamation plan has been added to the bonus measure as an amendment it will fall along with the bonus bill when it is vetoed by President Harding. It will be a long time before the reclamation plan is voted as a straight piece of legislation in the minds of the Republican leaders and in the meantime no specific legislation for reclamation or power which costs money will be voted by Congress.

MEASURE LOST

The specific measure for the Colorado River introduced by Congressman Swing and Senator Johnson is certain of complete oblivion because of this reason if for no other and it is expected that all pending legislation will be superseded by flood control recommendations alone made by the commission. This will put the handling of the Colorado on the same basis as the Mississippi and Sacramento rivers and not favorable action of any kind by Congress will be made until some concrete recommendation by the commission is presented.

Attyi-Gen. Daugherty has ruled officially and has so advised the Secretary of the Interior that the granting of a preliminary permit to an individual or individuals for dam or canyon power possibilities does not give the holder prior rights or call for a confirmation of this preliminary action by a permanent permit or license and that the rights of the United States and the various States are fully protected just as if the preliminary permit had never been issued.

In the opinion of those who have been following the development of the Colorado River legislation this decision leaves the entire Colorado River power situation clear from any complications caused by private claims and leaves the various government agencies free to act on the river as a whole. There has been some suggestion that the decision may be tested by the present holders or their assignees by an appeal to the court, but no verification of this report can be secured here.

SECOND WIFE SEEKS TO SUPPORT FIRST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. — Mrs. Eleanor Bock, young and beautiful wife of a wealthy California mine owner, who was formerly a struggling painter in Chicago, has traveled 2500 miles to find "the other woman."

When she finds her there will be no bitter words, no recriminations. The wife will greet the "other woman" as a sister and undertake to recompense her for grief and hardships she has endured. Herein the story differs vastly from the usual triangle.

The "other woman" was the first Mrs. John G. Bock, once dressmaker for Chicago society notables. This knowledge and an old-fashioned photograph are all the new wife has to aid her in the search, but will find the "other woman."

Twenty years ago, Bock, who was not breaking even in the game for a livelihood here, went to the Klondike to make his fortune. His wife was to support herself as best she might—chiefly by sewing—while Bock fought the snow and ice in search of gold.

Eventually he found the fortune, but he did not return. Instead he stopped in San Francisco, where he met the present Mrs. Bock. The first wife heard of it in some manner and dropped out of sight.

Now Bock, and more especially the second wife, will not rest until they have found the deserted woman and made what amends she will accept. "Things will never be right with us until I find her," said the second wife today. "Her shadow is between us and I must find her and help her in every way I can.

"Mr. Bock has plenty of money and she must have her share. I must be assured that she is not deprived of any comfort," she said.

TURKISH OFFENSIVE ENVELOPES GREEKS

NEW CONCENTRATIONS WITH CAPTURE OF KARAHISSAR ANNOUNCED

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 29.—The Turkish offensive is developing in the northwest and south, with Eskishehr and Afiun Karahissar as the objectives. The nationalists evidently are attempting to fold back both the Greeks' wings on their center. The capture of Karahissar on the Meander River was reported unofficially.

New concentrations before Bilidjik have been announced, including two divisions of cavalry and seven of infantry. Fierce fighting is reported from both Eskishehr and Karahissar. The Turks claimed to have captured many prisoners.

All the Anatolian ports have been closed during the offensive and communications are cut. An American destroyer was permitted to remain at Samsoun but it was not in communication with the shore. No fears were felt, however, for the measures are only temporary.

Greek reinforcements destined for Trirac have been diverted to the front. The recently defeated Gen. Persia, who placed himself over 3500 cavalrymen under Mustapha Kemal Pasha's orders, has been sent to the Meander.

TILDEN AND RICHARDS RETAIN NATIONAL DOUBLES TENNIS LAURELS

HELEN WILLS BOWS TO MRS. MOLLA MALLORY

Mallory-Tilden Combination Takes Mixed Doubles Title at Longwood Nets

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia and Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., are once more champions for the third time tennis champions of the United States in doubles.

For the second time in their career through national tournaments it fell to their lot today to defend their honors against a leading team and, where in 1919 they lost by a hairline margin to Gerald L. Patterson and Norman E. Brookes, this time they were successful against Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood of the 1922 Davis cup team from Australia. The American won by scores of 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

WINNING THREE OTHER TITLES

Three other national titles were decided. Armand W. Jones of Princeton and Harvard, succeeded himself as the national junior champion in singles. He captured the title with astonishing ease by defeating Lewis N. White of Texas, in the final round, 6-0, 6-0, 6-1. Jones won thirteen straight games after White could take the second of the third set, the only one he won in the match.

The national boys' singles championship was won by David Jones of Pittsburg, a marvelously promising youth, who defeated Malcolm T. Hill of the Newton High School by 7-5, 6-2.

The national singles champions, Tilden and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, as a team, won the national mixed doubles championship. They defeated Miss Helen Wills and Howard Kinsey of California, in two brilliant sets, 6-4, 6-4.

The point score follows:

Tilden ....4 4 4 3 2 6 4 1—31—6
Wood ....6 2 2 6 4 4 6 3—29—4

Second set—
Tilden ....3 0 5 4 7 0 6 4 4—31—6
Wood ....5 4 7 2 5 4 4 1 1—29—3

PRECEDES TEST

It took Tilden and Richards only 45 minutes more than an hour to demonstrate their superiority to the Davis cup rivals from Australia. The doubles final had especial significance in that it preceded by a few days the test between the same players at Forest Hills in the challenge rounds of the Davis cup.

In this showing today Richards undoubtedly earned the right to play for America in the doubles with Tilden. The Davis cup committee men were here to watch the play and to base their decision as to the doubles assignment at Forest Hills upon what they saw. They must have been favorably impressed by the Yonkers youngster's exhibition. He showed every bit as good tennis as his veteran partner. Indeed the scores of the four sets show a slight margin in favor of Richards over Tilden.

GAINING UP SIX MORE

Tilden made six more errors than Richards and seven more aces. Eight of the champion's aces were on his cannon ball service and in placement aces there was only one point difference between the American partners. They themselves played more evenly than they did today. The American team with all the emphasis on the word, but at the same time there was good reason to congratulate itself that Patterson was not entirely on his game as Wood himself. Wood played tennis that was consistently good as either Tilden's or Richards's and it was remarkable work that accounted for the only set that the Australians won. Patterson was the weak member of the quartet. He made the fewest aces of the four and most errors. His control was extremely poor.

First set, point score—
Tilden-Richards ...4 0 4 6 8 2 4 1 4—33—6
Patterson-Wood ...1 4 2 4 6 4 6 4 2—33—4

Second set, point score—
Tilden-Richards ....4 4 3 2 5 4 4—27—6
Patterson-Wood ....1 2 0 4 3 1 0—11—1

Third set, point score—
Tilden-Richards ....3 4 2 4 1 4 4 4—30—6
Patterson-Wood ....5 0 4 1 4 1 0 2—15—4

Fourth set, point score—

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHESTNUT HILL (Mass.) Aug. 29.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory defeated Miss Wills in the finals of the Invitation tournament at Longwood Cricket Club. The scores were 3-6, 6-3 and 7-5.

Miss Wills started none too promisingly dropping three points in a row on errors, but she settled down quickly and saved her service game after points had gone to deuce three times. Employing a deep forcing shot that was under splendid control for the time being the California school girl also took the second game which like the first also saw the points deuced.

HAS TOUGH TIME

Mrs. Mallory experienced more than her usual trouble with her control driving frequently out of court and the score went to 3-1 in Miss Wills's favor.

By varying length and pace driving severely and racing all over the court for some spectacular recoveries, Miss Wills brought her lead to 5-3, the crowd applauding her brilliant play. The rallies grew decidedly long and hard-fought, but the California school girl was actually outsteadying and outplaying the champion and she ended the set in her favor in the ninth game at 6-3, taking the last game at love.

The second set saw Miss Wills content to slacken the whirlwind pace she had set in the early play and found Mrs. Mallory settling down to a careful, hard-hitting game. She was overcoming her lack of control and it was the school girl who was making the errors now. The champion won four games in a row in short order and then won the fifth, after points had gone to deuce.

BOBS UP WITH RALLY

At this juncture Miss Wills bobbed up with a rally that provided some of the most thrilling exchanges of the match and gave her three straight games. In the ninth game, however, Mrs. Mallory finally ended the set at 6-3, but she had to work hard for every

MURPHY IS BIG NOISE AT VERNON

New Featherweight Features Fast Card; Kramer Wins from Goozeman

BY LEEPSON BOWNES

A brand new glittering hero burst upon the fistic horizon last night, in the person of Battling Larry Murphy who, making his first public appearance in the second preliminary at Doyle's, won a well-earned decision over Willie Jackson in as fierce a battle as has been seen in the well-known suburb in a long while.

Murphy is far from a finished fighter, but he is a young tornado who rushes in like a wild man and swings and keeps on swinging. He can take 'em like Kid Dalton used to and his own wallops carry a real sting. Incidentally, Jackson in running second, put up a corking battle and got a well - deserved hand when it was over.

Danny Kramer won a close but clear decision over Ernie Goozeman in the main event. He landed the most clean blows and likewise undoubtedly missed more than he ever did in his life before. Goozeman put up a splendid fight, carrying it to Kramer all the time, but couldn't damage the foxy veteran.

In the semi-wind-up Eddie Mahoney of San Francisco got an ill-deserved decision over Bobby Allen. Allen carried the fight to Mahoney for three rounds and had a clean shade in each. He tried fast, however, and Mahoney had a big shade in the last round and this margin was apparently what caught the judges' eye. It was a good draw. Lugo won a decision over Charley Ringer in the opener but Charles won a home for himself with his comical antics. He is easily the funniest thing that ever appeared locally. Billy Kennedy and Ralph Lincoln fought a clever draw. Sailor Constantine was disqualified for hitting Jimmy Moha low. Bobby Gray and Joe Grimm fought a red-hot draw. It was the best card that has been seen at Doyle's in a long while.

MISTAH WILLS LULLS TUT TO SLEEP IN RING

BY HUGH FULLERTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Washington Courthouse, O., was erased from the pugilistic field at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, tonight when Tut Jackson, heralded as a coming champion, was annihilated by Harry Wills. And as Jackson crashed face downward on the canvas in the third round, a big black shadow crossed Jack Dempsey's horizon.

Wills won so easily that he did not lose a kink out of his hair, massacred Jackson from the moment he sized up the Ohioan's style, and with scarcely an effort at his jaw, he hammered him into helplessness with stomach and kidney blows, finishing him with a terrific right drive on the kidneys after two minutes and five seconds of the third round.

The scrap was worth while for its comedy features. It was comedy for us, but tragedy for poor Jackson. In the first round while Wills was measuring him at long range, Jackson suddenly pitched forward on his face and closed his eyes to take a nap. The roar of the crowd awakened him, however, and he jumped up to take more of it—and took an overdose. It was declared after that he was almost out on his feet from the effects of a stomach blow in that first round, and that it hurt him so much he was unable to fight his fight. No one got a line on Jackson's form—because he has none. He tried to fight, discovered that he could not hurt his heavier opponent and was willing to call it a day any time. In the third round just before the finish he draped himself over the lower rope and was willing to hang there and dry—but rallied again, staggered to the center of the ring, took a left in the stomach, doubled up and began to sink. Then Wills crashed down on to his kidneys with his right and the pride of Clinton county went away from there.

POLO CUP REMAINS AT HOME

Herbert Memorial Trophy Successfully Defended by American Team

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RUMSON (N. J.) Aug. 29.—The danger of a foreign nation taking away the Herbert Polo Memorial Cup, the first time it was offered in competition, was removed today when the all-American Shelburne team triumphed over the all-Ireland four, 16 to 5.

Possession of the cup now lies between the four American teams entered, all of which have seen action except the Meadowbrook Club, which plays Orange county tomorrow.

Eve, a chestnut mare of Webb, a veteran campaigner and pronounced one of the best ponies in the international cup contest in England last year, died of heart disease at the end of the fourth period. Her rider was caught under her when she fell and was extricated by other players.

AMERICANS WIN WALKER TROPHY

Briton's Best Amateurs Are Defeated by Yanks

Our Golfers Take Five Out of Eight Matches

Cyril Tolley is Downed by Jesse Guilford

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SOUTHAMPTON (N. Y.) Aug. 29.—America's leading amateur golfers, by winning five of eight singles matches over the national course in Shinnecock Hills from England's foremost simon pures today carried off the George H. Walker Cup, in competition for the first time, as the international amateur team trophy.

The five victories of the Americans today added to their three in the four Scotch foursomes of yesterday, gave them a total of eight matches to the English players' four. The Englishmen entered today's competition needing six of the eight matches for victory and they made a brilliant effort. The steadiness and accuracy of the Americans, however, offset the brilliant game of the invaders. The Englishmen were best with the wood, but their approach shots were wild and their putting was erratic.

Jesse Guilford of the American team won from Cyril Tolley of England, 2 and 1, the same score by which Tolley defeated Guilford in the English title tournament last year. Tolley's driving was marvelous and his putting terrible. He missed six foot putts on no fewer than ten holes. He could have halved or won any of them by sinking. His approach shots were about on a par with those of Guilford. He had a medal of 79 in the morning round against Guilford's 82 and Guilford went into the afternoon round 2 down. By excellent putting the American finished the first nine in the afternoon in 35, 2 under par. He squared the match at the third hole and was 2 up at the turn. Tolley took a 39 going out. Tolley cut the lead to 1 up at the thirty-third hole. In the thirty-fourth Guilford, for the first time, had the best drive and his approach dropped eight feet from the pin. Tolley's second shot from the rough, fell forty feet from the pin, his third stopping four feet away from the cup. Guilford missed his first putt for a birdie 3, then Tolley missed his four-foot putt and conceded the hole and the match.

Robert T. Jones, by accurate driving and fair putting defeated Roger Wethered, 3 and 2. Wethered started out with long drives and had Jones 2 down at the first turn. Wethered had holed two twenty-foot putts in taking the two holes. Jones squared the match at the twelfth and was 1 up at the end of the morning round. In the afternoon Wethered evened the score at the twenty-seventh, going out in 35, 2 under par. Jones had par medal of 37. Jones took the twenty-ninth and thirtieth, sinking a twenty-foot putt for a birdie 3 to win the thirtieth and clinched the match at thirty-third when Wethered sliced into the rough and twice took a 5 to get on the green. He then conceded the match.

PLAYS BRILLIANT GAME

In the thirty-seven-hole match won by C. V. L. Hooman of England from Jesse Sweetser Hooman played a game more brilliant than any seen in the two days' competition. His driving was long and accurate and his approach shots and putting were almost perfect. Sweetser was 2 down at the end of the first eighteen and then steadied, to make a number of freak shots that gave him a medal of 34 going out in the afternoon. Hooman then was 2 down. He evened the match at the thirty-fourth. They halved the thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth and Hooman holed the thirty-seventh with a par 4. Sweetser went into a hedge on his second shot and his third carried into the park. He conceded the match after his fourth shot, then holed in 7.

The steadiness of the three former American champions, Charles (Chick) Evans, Francis Ouimet and Robert A. Gardner, carried them through to easy victories.

Evans defeated John Caven 5 and 4; Ouimet won from C. C. Allmeyer, 8 and 7, and Gardner defeated W. P. Lorrance 7 and 5.

W. Willis Mackenzie of England had little difficulty defeating Max R. Marston, 6 and 5. The Englishman's golf was superior to Marston's at all times.

Barnard Darwin, an English substitute, by excellent work with his irons and uncanny putting, defeated the American champion, W. C. Fownes, 3 and 1. Fownes was erratic. He had announced yesterday that he would retire from the play in order to give another member of the team, Harrison Johnson, a chance to play, but the Englishmen requested that all those players who participated in the foursomes yesterday should play in the singles.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 29.—Merlin Kopp singled in the ninth and was aided around and over the rubber, thereby preventing a third straight shut out being scored off the Solons, but Vernon won the opening game of the series here today, 3 to 1. Dell was effective in all periods excepting the ninth. Pittery was found opportunely in the fifth and lost the breaks in the eighth. The crowd was on Umpire Byron all the afternoon, who evened up by banishing Pete Schneider in the first and Rod Murphy in the eighth. Score:

ANGELS ANNEX OPENING GAME

Seattle Squad Makes Strong Finish, but Loses

Cherubs Fail to Fatten Up on Seattle Pigg

Tony Rego Has Perfect Day With the Willow

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Seven innings it looked like a landslide for Los Angeles, but later returns from Seattle raised the vote of the opposition team a bit with result that Angels copped the Senatorial snuff box, 5 to 5.

Lefty Thomas was running strong and neck-and-neck with himself, when Siwashes stuffed ballot box with three runs, and deposited another in ninth. There were moments in these closing moments when it seemed that Lefty might cease running neck-and-neck with himself, and become a heel-and-toe candidate with the general direction of said movement toward private life. But he rallied his repeaters and rode across victorious on a nicely oiled machine.

The Angels cast a heavy early vote against Vean Gregg, southpaw candidate for pitching honors. His efforts to disenfranchise our voters were futile. Thus civic righteousness triumphed over corruption and ballshevism, as she is known in Seattle.

By start of sixth it was apparent that Siwashes couldn't grab gubernatorial pie plate, so Gregg dismounted from soap box, giving way to Percival Pigg, who said he was willing to hog the political honors and emoluments. Percival has the honor of once having a campaign song written about him. It started out something like, "We keep the Pigg in the parlor," although, of course, times have changed somewhat since them. Porkers have become too valuable to be kept as pets and lounge lizards. Berkshire shoat indolently lolling on divan is seldom seen any more except in the families of the idle rich.

Manager Killefer was forced to issue a revised afternoon edition of his infield along the lines of the old-fashioned Penny Pink. Charley Deal swallowed too much fresh air on the automobile ride from Sacramento to Tracy, with result he was crippled up with bad cold. Jimmy McAuley was shifted over to do the Ajax stuff at third, Clyde Beck hopped in at short and Tom Daly occupied first base. Fate seems to have decreed that Angels be sent to hospital when getting ready for mad rush through open air to pennant, or thereabout.

Home guards won, but were far below championship caliber, particularly in their fielding. They drew six black marks in the error column, put so many figures in it that it looked like an income tax report, which is called that, but is really an outgo report.

Tony Rego was our best repeater. He stepped up to the voting

BUMPER TALKS

Paging Mr. Kreiter—

I just saw your open letter to Gus Edwards in the Orpheum program, which reminds me that you haven't answered the letter I wrote to you about the bumpers for your new Packard. I know you're a busy man—running the Cinderella Roof is a man-sized job, but the fact still remains that your Packard, the last time I saw it, was as bare of bumpers as a Mexican dog is whiskers. You leave your car parked on Sixth Street sometimes, why not park it in our shop some afternoon and let us put a set of Stewart double-bar Autoguards on it? Then you can park it any old place and be sure it's safe.

P. S. There's no time like the present—do it today. You'll be surprised at the different appearance your car will have. If there's anything that will improve the looks of a Packard it's Stewarts.

GLOOM HOVERS IN THE CAMPUS

Capt. Peak of Cubs' Squad Not in Line-up

Gridder Barred for Cutting Military Period

Coach Trotter, However, Has Hopes for Best

At least eight men with good football reputations are enrolled at the Southern Branch of the University of California according to the latest advices received from that part of the country. However, deep gloom is lingering in certain parts of the campus as a result of the announcement from the powers that be to the effect that Loren Peak, captain of the 1923 eleven, is not to be allowed to enter the school as a result of having cut some of his military periods.

Although this is a serious loss to the team Coach Trotter expects that a number of the former high school boys who are in the ring for a chance to get into the game, will turn out to be more like peaches than lemons. The boys who have already reported to the coaching heads include some of the best men who played in the City League last season.

SIGNS PAPERS

Cecil Hollingsworth, captain of the Los Angeles High School near championship team and all-city tackle, has signed the necessary papers to secure his admission to the institution. Horace Bresee, another member of the Pioneer team and a stellar basketball man at Los Angeles High School, is also slated to be in the game. Bickford, an all-southern guard who hails from Santa Monica, is reported as matriculating for entrance. Blair, a former Fullerton man, looks good according to the coaches as do Glenn and Parker, a couple of former Hollywood pigskinners.

Three Fresno players are claimed to be trying to register at the Cub institution but at present little is known of their caliber by the coaches. Those who played on last season's team and are to return for another does are Jack Frost, Gordon White, Buck Beeson, Cap Haralson, Walt Wescott, Art Jones and Oliver Peak.

Andy Smith of Berkeley will arrive in the course of the next ten days and start to whip the squad into shape.

point, and it was evident that the school girl was still to furnish formidable opposition in the deciding division of play.

The exceptional resourcefulness and remarkable change of pace and variation of length of the California school girl's play stood out prominently through the final set

JOE CUTTING IS NEWEST SERAPH

While in Sacramento the Los Angeles club signed up Joe Cutting, a 17-year-old high school first baseman, for a tryout next season. Business Manager Lockhart says Cutting is a fielding marvel. Frank Peckham, another young first sacker recently signed by the Angels, was unfortunate in stepping into a week when the pitching was gilt edge. He started well but dropped off in his hitting when he began trying to outguess the pitchers.

She followed a deep drive with a short return that barely dropped over the net and often ibbbed over the champion's head for earned points after bringing. Mrs. Mallory up toword the net. After Mrs Mallory had taken a lead of 2-1, the school girl forced her to yield three of the next four games and Miss Wills was out in front at 4-3. From the third to the sixth game inclusive service was broken lory up toward the net. After Mrs. Mallory evened the score at 4-all, but Miss Wills took the lead again at 5-4, and needed the next game for victory. The gallery was tense with excitement, as Mrs. Mallory started service in the tenth game. At this critical stage, however, the national champion steadied, found her best speed and brought the games to 5-all. Mrs. Mallory broke through service in the eleventh game, but only by a supreme effort and then took the twelfth game for the set and match at 7-5.

PLAY FINAL POINT TWICE

The final point was played twice, the official on the base line being in doubt over a drive by Mrs. Mallory. In the next rally Miss Wills netted and the match was over.

The points:

Mrs. Mallory	0	1	1	1	1	0	0	0	5

NEW TROT AND PACE RECORDS HUNG UP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STOCKTON, Aug. 29.—Both trotting and pacing records for the 1922 season were broken at the fair grounds here today. Derby Dillon, winning the first heat of the free-for-all pace, was checked at 2:06¼, lowering by one second the record established by Beauty Logan on Friday and equally since that by Easter Bond and Pete Kyle. Derby Dillon nearly collapsed in his stable after the race. The pace at which he was forced to travel was too much for him. He is just recovering from "shipping fever."

REGATTA SET FOR SUNDAY

Los Angeles and Newport Yacht Clubs to Pull Off Big Cruise; Isthmus Camping Grounds

After a month's tie-up of about every craft in Southern California waters and with the owners and crews ripe for a little action, the three days' cruise and regatta to be put on by the combined efforts of the Los Angeles and Newport Harbor Yacht clubs this week-end will more than be welcome.

Next Sunday was originally scheduled by the Los Angeles Yacht Club to hold its annual sailing race to Bird Rock for the Nordlinger trophy. This has been canceled and the cruise with both sailing and motorboat races is on instead.

The isthmus of the Santa Catalina Island, sometimes referred to by the baseball writers as the Chewing Gum Island, will be the camping grounds for the ships that take active part in the cruise. The ships of both clubs will get under way Saturday morning. In the afternoon Sunday and Monday racing events will be put on. Since is was announced last week by Secretary E. R. Abbott that the cruise was on entries for the affair have come in fast and both clubs are expected to be well represented. Following is the program as given out by the clubs:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2

Hoist anchor at pleasure. Standing cruiser race, start from end of breakwater 11 a.m. under American Power Boat Association rules. Finish at committee boat at Johnson's Landing, off Isthmus. Course southwest, quarter. Vice-Commodore Eugene Overton's cup, first prize; Los Angeles Yacht Club championship silver medallion, second prize; copper medallion, third prize.

Sailing race for schooners and yawls for Commodore Otto G. Wilder's trophy. Course from east end of breakwater to Point San Vicente buoy, thence to finish, committee boat, off Bird Rock.

Sloop races for the Hardimont trophy, course same as for schooners and yawls. Starting gun at 12 noon. Preparatory gun at 11:55 a.m. The last leg of the sloop races will start from the committee boat off Bird Rock and finish at east end of the breakwater on the following Monday.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 8 A.M.

Cutter, show, sailing and rowing punt races in forenoon. Chowes at noon. Baseball game ashore in afternoon. Grand show at 8 p.m.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 8 P.M.

Colors, show, swimming men, tug of war, chowes at noon. Leave for home at pleasure.

Talk of dropping Louisville from the American Association, if followed by action, will mean the plunge of a one-time major-league town into utter baseball oblivion.

Louisville last season reached the pinnacle of minor-league baseball when it won in its own league and then defeated the great Baltimore club in a post-season play-off. But this season the Colonels lacked the class, and poor attendances left the owners without the wherewith to purchase the needed talent. As a result Louisville seems to be regarded by the American Association as a liability.

Once the name of Louisville loomed rather large on the baseball landscape. It was in the old twelve-club National League, and once numbered among its players the well-remembered Hans Wagner.

George Decker, a Compton boy of those days, also played first base for the Colonels at one time.

Incidentally it was the Louisville club which gave us our first duly and officially recognized baseball scandal, which resulted in the expulsion of Devlin and Carver. Prompt punishment of those involved restored confidence in the game.

Just what it is that influences baseball towns for better or worse is a question. Some of them seem to rise and fall the same as Babylon, Rome and some other good towns of the old days.

Some cities, after being in the majors, do not flourish when relegated to minor-league circuits. Baltimore felt the effects of this transition for a number of years. But it has recovered and is a better baseball burg than in its major-league days. The famous Orioles under Ned Hanlon, in the heyday of their greatness, I believe, played to only 90,000 paid admissions on the home grounds during one of their championship seasons. That was major-league baseball. The Angels in one season played to 300,000 or more.

Later came the Federal League into Baltimore with its major-league pretensions, and went. There was another period of reaction, but Jack Dunn won the esteem and patronage of the home folks by refusing to sell his young players and developed a club too strong for its circuit, with the result that it has been ordered broken up.

Toledo has passed through some puzzling phases. Once one of the best minor-league cities in the country, the attendance seemed simply to die away. Bresnahan appears finally to have breathed the breath of life into this baseball cadaver.

Tacoma at one time was in the Pacific Coast League and held up its end very well for a couple of seasons. However, it, too, became dormant in a baseball sense and seems since to have been going from bad to worse. One day this season it drew less than $100 in total admissions.

Newark never recovered from its venture into the Federal League. Kansas City passed through the same travail without crippling itself beyond repair, and also succeeded in readjusting itself when dropped from the American League to the A. A.

Some cities seem simply to have a more rugged baseball organism than others.

When Babe Ruth alone was driving out home runs in wholesale quantities he was regarded as merely an abnormality.

While Babe undoubtedly is in a class by himself, half a dozen players around or above the thirty mark would tend to prove that any strong young man with a good eye and natural batting ability can slam them out plentifully under conditions if allowed to swing for that purpose.

A few years ago any player cracking out ten or a dozen in a season was a headliner. Harry Davis, old Athletic first baseman, gained the sobriquet of "Home-Run Harry" by turning in a mere eight or nine on a season's play. Home-Run Baker's marks made in his prime resemble the achievements of a pigmy in this prolific age.

Back of these fence bunts are three possible theories—change in tactics of game which allows batters to swing for the sole purpose of home runs; a livelier ball, or a decadence in pitching. Take your pick.

Ralph Works, former Detroit pitcher, now resident in Los Angeles, believes it is the latter.

"A few years ago if you allowed two runs you had a fair chance of winning," said Works. "But if they happened to get to you for four runs it was regarded as a debacle and a rout. Pitchers are not giving as much thought to their work as formerly, and neither are they putting in the same amount of arm effort. Ask Frank Chance."

It is significant that even in these loose times big scores are not rolled up against really good pitching.

ANGELS ANNEX OPENING GAME

booth four times, and on three of these dropped a none-base ballot. On the other occasion he sneaked across a sacrifice. This brings Tony's batting average up above .400 for the time being.

Deacon Hood, the quaint, but dashing Whittier Quaker, gave the Siwashes a run in the first. He singled infield, stole second, took third when Beck neglected to cover the bag. The throw went to center, and Vernon Spencer was so surprised that he forgot to cover the ball, so Deacon delivered modest run at plate.

Angels responded with three loud ones in the same round, on a pass and singles by Spencer, Twombly and Rego. Tony's single scored two, and counted Twombly from first base. Not only does this speak well for Bobo's speed, but also for the length of the singles. Sporting opinion was almost unanimous that this would have been a double had not Tony twisted a leg rounding first and been compelled to stop and let leg cool off. Los Angeles scored another in fifth and eighth, which was just as well. Siwashes began stampeding around reservation in the eighth, when Deacon Hood again became unruly, and with double back of singles by Lane and Wisterzil, scored two. Lane with triple counted another in ninth. It is conscensus of opinion among experts that Thomas eased either down or up. Results were all the same.

Only one Los Angeles run was registered off Pigg, who bristled with ambition and had the free, swift movement of a razor back. This was a surprise to those who had visualized him as one with the phlematic temperament and muscle-bound movements of a Poland China. Pigg's appearance on the mound set all the bugs to rooting, but he was not roasted. Fans were too busy watching for his Pigg-kunckle ball with sauerkraut fadaway. As a batter he has a pork-choppy movement, and with more experience may land in the rich gravvy. Manager Jack E. Adams should worry about a long, hard winter. He should live all to the Berkshire. An extra measure of power with every gallon drawn from this pump,

Gasoline, mixed with air, makes gas, and gas makes power.

How much power depends primarily upon how completely the gasoline vaporizes in the carburetor.

"Red Crown" vaporizes 100 per cent. Every atom mixes with many times its volume of air and is completely consumed in the cylinders, leaving a minimum of carbon residue on spark plugs, valves and cylinder heads.

That's why you get more power and mileage and a sweeter-running motor when you use "Red Crown."

JONES IS GIVEN GOOD SUPPORT

Yankees Beat Senators in a Close Game

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The New York infield gave Jones remarkable support today and the American League champions defeated Washington in the first contest of a three-game series, 3 to 1. The Yankees hit Johnson freely, especially in the early innings, but needed home runs by Pipp and Ruth to score two of their three runs. Score:

"TIGER HENRY" RETURNS HOME

John J. Henry, veteran of the Civil War, and known in the days of Hap Hogan as "Tiger Henry," has returned after an absence of four years.

Henry has just arrived from a remarkable trip across the continent, bumming his way, as he called it. It was rather a circuitous trip, covering 4500 miles, and he made it in forty-five days. None of the distance was made on the train. He depended solely on being picked up by automobiles and trucks. In Chicago he called on Irish Meusel, and also met several other former Coast Leaguers. Henry is 67 years old.

DENT RED SOX

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—Galloway's home run in the tenth gave Philadelphia a 6-to-5 victory over Boston today. Philadelphia made an uphill fight and in the eighth Clarence (Tillie) Walker tied the score at five runs with his thirty-second home run of the season. This places him in a tie with Kenneth Williams and Rogers Hornsby. Rommell turned in his twentieth pitching victory of the year. Score:

Nevada Eleven Faces a Hard Grid Season

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RENO (Nev.) Aug. 29.—With a full schedule of seven games and the possibility of an eighth, the University of Nevada football team faces a hard season but expects to go through it winning the majority of the contests.

Oct. 14—Occidental College, at Reno.
Oct. 21—U. of Southern Cal. at Los Angeles.
Oct. 28—Davis Aggies at Reno.

Ten-Day Program Mapped Out for Famous Track

Many Sparkling Events on Ten-Day Card

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Aug. 29.—Fall racing in Kentucky which will be inaugurated at Churchill Downs tomorrow for ten days, will sparkle with stake nominations representative of many sections of the State.

Leading performers of the East, especially in the juvenile division, have been named for the fixtures, while the West is unusually strong. The Kentucky Jockey Club stakes, for 2-year-olds, $10,000 added, over the distance of one mile, retains 123 eligibles. This is an early closing event and original entries were made for foals of 1920.

JUVENILE SUPREMACY

This event, turfmen say, should go far toward settling the question of juvenile supremacy. Among the candidates are August Belmont's Osprey and Diagram; Benjamin Block's Mormaw; J. S. Cosden's Martingale; "Bud" Fisher's Cartoonist; Gallaher Brothers' Cherokee; M. H. Hewitt's Metric and Banter; T. J. Predergast's Bo McMillan; R. Bradley's Bloosom Time; Pete Coyne's New Hampshire; Montfort Jones's Dan B. O'Sullivan; J. O. and G. H. Kenne's Alice Blue Gown; Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sunfarence; Jefferson Livingston's Newmarket; J. E. Madden's Bud Lerner, and McKee; J. C. Milam's Dust Flower; William Perkins's Donges; H. F. Sinclair's Aladdin; Harry Payne Whitney's Goshawk, Enchantment and Blue Peter, and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Canaque.

The Falls City handicap will serve as the inaugural feature. It is fashioned for 3-year-olds and upward, at one mile and a furlong. It will bring together such performers as Bet Mosie, John Finn, Best Pal, Lady Madcap, United Verde, Dr. Clark, Rouleau, High Cloud, Firebrand, Distinction, Margaret Winsor, Parader Radio, Deadlock, Minto II, and Thibodeaux.

GOLDEN ROD HANDICAP

Saturday will be featured by the Golden Rod handicap, at seven furlongs, $5000 added, for 2-year-olds. It will serve as a preliminary for the Jockey Club stakes in that it will bring into action many of the eligibles for that race.

The ten days' meeting will be studded with overnight handicaps and purses. With more than 700 stalls engaged, according to report of Superintendent Tom Young, large fields are expected to contest.

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, agosto 29.—Tratando de esclarecer la actitud de la administración en las huelgas ferrocarrilera y carbonera, el Presidente Harding dió hoy autorización para que se anunciara que él cree que el Congreso debería facultarlo para tomar los ferrocarriles y las minas, si se hace necesario; pero que él no pedirá esta autorización, ni la ejercitaría sino en el caso de emergencia nacional, que espera no se presente. El Procurador General ha telegrafiado a los Agentes del Ministerio Público que hagan respetar las leyes.

En un nuevo esfuerzo para solucionar la huelga, se encuentran aquí conferenciando los representantes de los mineros y de los empresarios de antracita, con los Senadores Pepper y Reed, de Pensilvania.

A pesar de que la Cámara de Diputados se opone a que la administración distribuya el combustible, todo indica que el proyecto de ley relativo será votado mañana bajo reglamento especial.

Probablemente mañana aprobará el Senado el proyecto de ley del plus del soldado, ya enmendado en el sentido de acondicionar tierras para los ex-soldados y emplear el interés de la deuda extranjera en pagar la gratificación.

Celebrarán juntas nocturnas los conferenciantes del Senado y la Cámara, si ello fuera necesario para terminar el informe sobre el proyecto de ley de arancel para mediados de septiembre.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Enterprising newspaper managers who are seeking an editor will do well to put on their waiting list the name of Willmore Kendall, Jr., 13 years old, who matriculated at Northwestern University in the freshman class today, the youngest student ever admitted to the great institution. Young Kendall, who is the son of a Methodist preacher of Mangum, Okla., successfully passed all tests. His father graduated from Northwestern in 1913. A special dispensation by the university set aside the rule which forbids accepting any student under 16.

Willmore is considered one of the most brilliant students in the history of the university. At the age of 2½ years he knew his letters, and was able to read at 3. His father is blind and the baby read newspapers and books to him. He skipped the seventh grade in grammar school and did a four-year high school course in three years. He entered Mangum High School when he was 9 years old. His parents resent the intimation that he is a "prodigy." They explain that he is an ordinary, clear headed, ambitious boy who has devoted his attention to the work in hand.

Willmore's life ambition is to be a newspaper man, and he will lay out his whole course of study with that end in view.

Why Are Some Women Popular

happy, beloved and successful, while others drag out a negative existance, of no use to themselves or anyone else? Except in few cases the answer is to be found in a state of freedom from the troubles known as "female." The well woman radiates cheerfulness and serenity, while the ailing one repels because of her lack of these qualities. It is not necessary, however, to harbor aches and pains, and the "blues" that make one a detriment to society. The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought relief to such women, and given them a new lease on life.—[Advertisement.]

HOW CLEOPATRA RETAINED BEAUTY WITH OLIVE OIL

The virtues of olive oil as an aid to skin beauty were appreciated by the ancients to such a degree that its use became well nigh universal, particularly among the historic women whose fame rests almost entirely upon their incomparable beauty.

We read that Cleopatra bathed in olive oil—and her name is synonymous with ideal feminine beauty. The grace of her body changed the fate of empires and won the adoration of kings.

Just how Cleopatra bathed in olive oil is a trifle uncertain, but the modern woman finds the rub with Dr. Pratt's California Olive Oil the better way. She bathes in the usual way, takes a handful of the oil and gently bathes the body with it until the pores have absorbed every drop. This process keeps the skin alluringly soft and leaves a feeling of perfect physical fitness.

Get Dr. Pratt's California Olive Oil at any Sun Drug Store and from other leading druggists. If you live out of town, send $1.00 and we will ship to you direct by parcel post. Dr. Pratt's Olive Oil Company, 615 E. Third street, Los Angeles.—[Advertisement. (11)

PACIFIC HOME OF MARYLAND

Superdreadnaught to Join Coast Fleet

Considered World's Best Fighting Ship

Vessel Now at Brazil for Exposition

The superdreadnaught Maryland, newest and most powerful warcraft afloat, is to become a unit of the Pacific Fleet.

Semiofficial advices received at the local base last night said that the Maryland will join the Pacific Fleet during the joint maneuvers at the Panama Canal in January, when the Atlantic and west coast forces will combine in a comprehensive schedule at both ends of the canal.

Decision of the Navy Department to transfer the Maryland to this coast comes as the result of a conference held in Washington on the 10th instant between Admiral Robert E. Coonts, chief of naval operations; Admiral Henry B. Wilson, commanding the Atlantic Fleet, and Rear-Admiral Carl T. Vogelgesang, recently appointed by the United States to direct the reorganization of the Brazilian navy.

AT RIO DE JANEIRO

With the Pacific Fleet dreadnaught Nevada, the Maryland is now at Rio de Janeiro representing the United States at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition. The ships transported Secretary of State Hughes and the American commission to the exposition. At the Navy Department conference it was decided that the Maryland will leave Rio de Janeiro September 14 and remain with the Atlantic Fleet until the joint Panama maneuvers in January, when she will be placed under the command of Admiral Edward W. Eberle.

The Nevada, however, will remain at Rio de Janeiro until November 15, after which she will proceed direct to Los Angeles Harbor to rejoin the Pacific Fleet, nearly two months in advance of her originally scheduled return.

HUGE GUNS

The Maryland is the only unit of the United States Navy having sixteen-inch guns as her main battery and is considered the most effective fighting machine in the world. Her armament consists of eight sixteen-inch guns of .45 caliber; fourteen five-inch guns, .51 caliber; four three-inch guns, .50 caliber; four six-pounders and two twenty-one-inch torpedo tubes.

Her quadruple screws can drive her at a cruising speed of twenty-one knots. The Maryland carries a crew of 124 officers and 1343 men. She was commissioned July 21, 1921, being built by the Newport News Shipbuilding Company.

Prominent Men on Sea Voyage to East Coast

Carrying capacity passenger and freight lists, the Pacific Mail liner Ecuador will sail from Los Angeles Harbor tomorrow for New York with an unusually prominent Los Angeles passenger list. Among those to board the Ecuador here will be:

A. C. Simpson, secretary of Stetson, Barrett Co., and wife, on a pleasure trip to New York; Mrs. Percy Whitner of Ardmore; Manton W. Jones, prominent capitalist of Greensboro, Tex.; R. A. Guenther and wife, en route to Havana; William R. Wyman, Oklahoma oil operator, and daughter, Marion, on their way to New York; Dwight Cleveland, author and scenario writer; J. C. Cook, eastern manufacturer, returning to New York; and W. T. Edds, president of the Arnold, Constable Dry Goods Co., New York, and his wife.

The Ecuador will make an unusually fast run to New York on her present trip, stopping only at the Canal and Havana en route.

Pacific Fleet Ships Capture Firing Honors

Dreadnaughts of the Pacific Fleet took all honors in short-range battle practice competition for turret and broadside guns mounted on battleships for the current year, according to official figures just made public. The standings, with turret or gun and turret of division officer is as follows:

Fourteen-inch turrets: First, No. 4, U.S.S. New Mexico, Lieut. L. N. Morgan; second, No. 1, U.S.S. Oklahoma, Lieut. H. D. Hoffman; third, No. 2, U.S.S. California, Lieut. R. Wyman, and No. 3, U.S.S. Texas, Lieut. T. E. Ayers. The California and Texas turrets are tied for third place.

The results for the five-inch broadside competitions follow: First, Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, U.S.S. Arizona, Lieut. D. S. Crawford; second, Nos. 11 and 12, U.S.S. Tennessee, Capt. H. Schmidt, U.S.M.C.; third, Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13 and 14, U.S.S. Tennessee, Lieut. R. B. Dashiell.

The No. 3 turret of the Wyoming and No. 5 of the Delaware won first and second places, respectively, in the twelve-inch gun competition. There are no dreadnaughts in the Pacific Fleet equipped with less than fourteen-inch guns.

ENGINEERS ON VESSEL QUIT JOBS

Three Assert Liner Unseaworthy; Members of Crew Not Paid

Outcome of a controversy developing at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday between officers and crew of the liner Hattie Luckenbach and Capt. H. M. Stewart, master of the steamer, is engaging the interest of local shipping circles. Three engineer officers of the big freighter were paid off when they are said to have refused to sail on the vessel because they say she is unseaworthy, while members of the crew left the ship here without receiving wages due.

The Hattie Luckenbach, one of the oldest craft in service of the Luckenbach Line, entered the local port Monday with a twelve-degree list. U. S. Local Inspectors are later said to have examined the steamer and she was permitted to sail yesterday for Houston, Tex., after her deck load of shingles had been shifted to the starboard side to place her on an even keel.

Chief Engineer Bassee Hall, First Assistant Engineer Harry Wade and Third Assistant Boris Noon, who are said to have protested against the vessel's condition, were paid off and discharged here. Capt. Stewart told Customs Inspector D. A. Packard, investigating the case. Other members of the crew were refused any part of their wages by Capt. Stewart, they declared. They include Boatswain Hogbet Johansen, Oiler F. B. Radcliffe and Seaman Lindsey Barkhoiise, Hans Ingerman and John Anderson.

Members of the Hattie Luckenbach's crew who took part in the protest declare that the steamer's lower holds are loaded with shingles and that her winds are filled with heavy general freight. She is a steamer of 3540 tons net and was built in 1901 at Sparrows Point, Maryland, formerly being the steamer Lyra.

The Marious Petroleum Company claims it said to have paid in cash its export taxes for the five months from February to June, inclusive, amounting to $1,500,000. The payment is in accordance with the agreements reached a few months ago between Mexican Minister of Finance De la Huerta and a committee of international bankers respecting a resumption of service on the Mexican external debt. The lower tax is expected to net the Mexican treasury about $2,000,000 monthly, which, under the terms of the agreement, must be applied to the payment of interest on the government debts.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 29.—The Admiral Farragut met with a slight accident while docking at the Municipal Pier this morning. The starboard propeller of the Admiral liner was bent out of commission when four of the heavy steel bolts that clamp the screw to the tail shaft were sheared off. Capt. Berg soon had the liner under control by having cables and lines thrown to the pier, warping the vessel safely alongside.

Repairs will be made at Wilmington, for which port the Farragut left this evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—A survey of the remaining wooden hulls owned by the Shipping Board is being made, officials of the San Francisco office of the board announced today. The Shipping Board still has 200 wooden hulls to sell. They are divided between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, with the majority of the craft laid up in the James River. J. H. Pallmore of the sales division of the board, who is in charge of the survey, has intimated that a price of from $1,000 to $1500 per ship will be placed on the vessels. Should one purchaser take the entire fleet, however, the San Francisco bureau of the Pacific Northwest Conference will meet tomorrow to decide upon a discount to be offered later in the week with a view to making prices to the purchaser. The final closing deals will discuss the peace agreement reached on by the northern shippers and will decide on a policy to be followed in the visit to Portland.

Shipmates of the late Capt. J. L. Wilson, who died in Baltimore a month ago today, will be informed by wireless of the time of arrival of the remains here, according to advices received at the local office of the Admiral Line. Ansing, the local agent. The change has been ordered by officials of the company, it was stated, following the sale of the Yeon building. The steamer will move its offices Saturday and will arrive here Monday to load for the east coast. A ship also is to be made at Los Angeles.

BUSINESS NEWS

Trade and Industrial Outlook Satisfactory; Doble Steam Car Stock Offered to Public

A broad survey of business conditions throughout the nation reveals the fact that the general outlook, except for labor, is almost completely satisfactory. Autumn is coming with its large seasonal trade, its crop movement and its big business; crop prospects are of the brightest, construction work in various lines is being pushed and the big strikes, which have been menacing industry for months, now appear to be nearing their end and will undoubtedly be followed by the increased activity which is inevitable under the circumstances.

Already the urge to buy is more perceptible on the part of the general public all over the country, which is the stimulant that has long been watched for. It has resulted in larger ordering by retailers, who are, however, still cautious, because their orders are more numerous than voluminous. Nevertheless, the sum total makes a good showing.

However, with this revival of consumer demand there has been some slackening in production and prices of many commodities have, as a consequence, shown a tendency to advance. The Department of Commerce, in its latest review of national business movement, states that the figures in its possession indicate a recession in the commercial and industrial activity which had steadily advanced up to the end of June.

PRODUCTION SLACKENS

This slackening of industrial output was partly a seasonal occurrence but was in large measure due to the greater scarcity in fuel supplies and to the difficulties in transportation. The shortage of fuel has now been felt in many directions and industrial operations in the near future will have to depend, to a considerable extent, upon the supply of coal available, as well as upon transportation facilities.

Coincident with the slackening in industrial output and the increasing shortage of many commodities, prices have risen at an increased rate. The most noticeable increases in wholesale prices in July occurred in coal, animal products, cotton and sugar. The wholesale price index rose five points, largely on account of dearer fuel, and was higher than at any time since February, 1921, and 13 per cent above the prices of last January. Retail prices increased also, but at a much slower pace.

STRAIN ON ROADS

On the basis of freight movement thus far in 1922, an unprecedented strain on the capacity of the railroads seems certain in the autumn as a result of the expected expansion of business, the delayed movement of coal, and the marketing of large crops. The roads have ordered more than 100,000 cars during the year, and have steadily improved their facilities in other ways, but it is nevertheless difficult to see how serious traffic congestion can be avoided.

The iron and steel industry is being increasingly affected by the difficulties arising from the coal and railroad strikes, but aside from the effects of the labor situation, the outlook for the industry on the basis of unfilled orders and other evidences of demand is for stable business to the close of the year. While no marked changes have occurred in conditions in the various divisions of the textile industry, there has been a gradual recovery in New England from strike conditions.

TEXTILE DEMAND

A slightly improved demand for broad silks is in evidence. Operations in the boot and shoe industry and other sections of leather manufactures are expanding. The automobile and tire industries have not as yet shown as much seasonal curtailment as was expected. The machine tool industry is about holding even and a steady, although restricted, distribution of agricultural implements continues. Demand is fair and a reasonable activity prevails in many special lines, such as electrical apparatus, household utilities and furniture.

MONEY RATES

Aside from temporary fluctuations, money rates have shown no change during the last thirty days and easy conditions prevail in all sections of the money market. Prime commercial paper rules at 4 to 4 1-4 per cent. There is only a very small amount of paper moving and with a few exceptions, buyers are disposed to insist on rates somewhat better than 4 per cent. Demand from country banks is especially poor, being even less than at the corresponding season a year ago. Banks in financial centers outside New York have been buying some paper, but most New York City banks have not been active purchasers.

DOBLE FINANCING

The first step in the financing of the new Doble Steam Motors Corporation will take place today when public offering will be made of the company's class A common stock at $12.50 a share. Capital structure of the new concern consists of 500,000 shares of class A common of a par value of $10 a share, and 50,000 shares of class B common of no par value. Local offering of the stock is to be made through the brokerage firm of F. G. Cox & Company. The Doble concern has been incorporated in Delaware.

Manufacturing operations on the much-heralded Doble perfected steam car will begin at once at the company's plant at Atascadero, it was said yesterday. One car has already been completed and is now on display at 952 South Broadway. In a year's time, after the company has completed its organization, the Doble concern plans to erect another plant at E. G. Lewis's Palos Verdes Estates which will turn out a car to sell around $2000. The Atascadero-made cars will be priced at $8000 and the output will probably be limited to 300 a year.

COTTON GOODS EXPORTS

The quantity of cotton cloths exported from the United States in the fiscal year just ended showed a material increase over the preceding year, and a big gain when compared with the prewar average. The value, of course, showed a decline, for the average export price per yard in the fiscal year 1922 was but about one-half as much as that of the immediately preceding year.

The quantity exported in the year ending June 30, 1922, says the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, was 613,000,000 yards, against 556,000,000 in the immediately preceding year, but the 1922 value was only $77,000,000, against $141,000,000 in the year preceding. The quantity exported increased 10 per cent, while the value declined 45 per cent. The average export price of the cloths sent out of the country in the fiscal year 1922 was 12.5 cents per yard, against 25.4 cents in the fiscal year 1921.

While it is a fact, adds the Trade Record, that the British exports of cotton cloths are still far in excess of our own, it is interesting to note that our exports have increased about 45 per cent since the beginning of the war, while those of Great Britain show a considerable decline. The British exports of cotton cloths exceeded 7,000,000,000 yards in 1913, and were but about 3,000,000,000 in 1921, while our own exports, which aggregated 415,000,000 yards in the fiscal year 1914, were 613,000,000 in the fiscal year 1922.

NEW ISSUES SCARCE

WHAT'S BEHIND ACTIVE STOCKS

Kansas City Southern ..25¾

The Kansas City Southern Railroad operates a direct trunk line of 843 miles running along the border lines of Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas, connecting Kansas City with the Gulf of Mexico at Port Arthur. The intensive use of facilities in both directions has enabled the road to maintain a good earning position. Last year there was a difference of less than 10 per cent between north and south bound freight. Nearly one-fourth of the revenue tonnage is in forest products and all other items of freight are widely diversified. The company carries road and equipment in its balance sheet at $102,886,000 although the tentative government valuation, still in dispute, is much lower. The $29,959,900 common stock on which no dividends have ever been paid is preceded by $21,000,000 of 4 per cent noncumulative preferred which has received regular dividends since 1907. There is a funded debt of $49,813,000. The Kansas City Southern earned 5.32 per cent on the common in 1921. In the first six months of 1922 net operating income totaled $1,664,600 as compared with $2,214,500 in the first half of 1921. Range of common stock: High, 50¼ in 1909; low, 12⅞ in 1920; yesterday's close, 25¾.

STOCK MARKET GROWS CALMER

Traders' Mood Changes to One of Optimism

Prices Recover from Losses of Previous Day

French Securities Advance After Bad Slump

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. — Precisely as Monday's financial markets moved in response to the mental confusion and uncertainty which the news over Sunday had created, so today's market reflected the turn to calmer consideration of the outstanding problems. This quick reaction from a day of uneasiness had occurred on several occasions during this troubled season. It has always marked a change in the financial mood of the moment rather than a visible change in the situation, but it had also usually foreshadowed some tangible development.

All of the losses were recovered on the ensuing day; the financial mood appeared to have changed overnight and in due course the settlement of the bituminous coal strike and the repudiation by the brotherhoods of the talk of a sympathetic demonstration, gave logical basis for the market's action. In the present instance it is possible that an impending settlement of the hard-coal strike was foreshadowed by today's recovery on the stock exchange. But it indicated even more distinctly the change of mood from one of vague and formless apprehension to one in which cool judgment is applied to the situation. Most of today's advances on the stock exchange were greater than the previous day's declines; with the railways particularly, most of the closing prices were the highest.

One of the incidents of the day was the recovery of most or all of the previous day's substantial declines in the French government and municipal bonds. It is always probable that what are known as supporting orders play a part in such recoveries; on the other hand, so swift a reverse movement after a show of weakness usually points to professional speculator selling rather than outside liquidation, as the primary cause of the previous decline.

The day's change of mood was not confined to the stock exchange or to the New York market; it was equally in evidence on the foreign exchange market, where sterling and the franc recovered sharply, and the mark went 9 1-4 one-hundredths of a cent, comparing with a closing price of 6 1-8 on Monday and a low level of 5 last week.

Lost—

Interest on 21 Million Dollars

The United States Treasury Department called Victory 3¾% Notes on June 15. Interest stopped on that date. On July 31, a month and a half after that date, there were $21,000,000 of these notes which had not been presented for payment.

The loss of interest on these called Victory Notes amounted to over $2000 a day.

Investors whose security lists are filed with Blyth, Witter & Co. were immediately notified that these notes had been called, and had an opportunity to redeem them long before the interest stopped.

Other bond issues are being called daily. Perhaps you are holding securities that have been redeemed, and which no longer bear interest. You help prevent such loss by filing a list of your investments with us.

Ask for our new leaflet, "Many Thousand in Five Years," which tells about this service and contains a ruled sheet for listing your investment holdings. You may profit by writing for it today.

We have a number of high grade Bonds on hand for immediate delivery in $100 and $500 denominations.

Twenty Percent With Safety

Conservative investors would immediately reject as impossible, an offer of such returns upon a safe investment.

But—

One of the strongest financial institutions in Southern California, last year earned net in excess of 25%. If you had invested in the stock of a number of Los Angeles banks at the organization, you would today be receiving dividends in excess of 20% upon your initial investment.

We can offer you an opportunity to invest in a local banking corporation with one of the strongest Board of Directors in Los Angeles. The Corporation is closely affiliated with three of the largest financial institutions in Southern California. Its officers and directors have never before been associated with any corporation offering its securities to the public at its organization.

In this one instance, they offer an opportunity to investors of Southern California to purchase an interest in this Corporation at the same price that they paid for their own personal stock.

This is one of the real opportunities offered to the local investors at this time.

We have no literature to mail, and will deal with principals only on personal interviews.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Favorable interpretation of current news developments imparted a buoyant tone to the stock market today, active issues recovering Monday's losses and advancing to higher ground on gains ranging from 1 to 6 points.

President Harding's assurance that no immediate seizure of coal mines and railroads was contemplated although authority for such action was desired in case of great emergency, combined with reports of increased car loadings and Chicago dispatches which indicated the Railroad Labor Board's refusal to make the so-called living wage the sole basis for fixing the new scale for maintenance men, caused a more active demand for railroad shares, which advanced from 1 to more than 3 points.

Chicago and Northwestern closed the day with a net gain of 3 1-4 and Canadian Pacific with 3 1-8, while gains of 1-2 point or more took place in Reading, Union Pacific, Great Northern Pfd., Atlantic Coast Line, Lehigh Valley, Norfolk and Western and a few others. Chicago and Alton issues were reactionary.

Public utilities displayed marked improvement, new high records for the year being established in this group by Brooklyn Edison, North American, Western Union, American Telephone and Columbia Gas of Baltimore.

Steel shares also participated extensively in the upward movement, United States Steel common making up its quarterly dividend of 1 1-4 per cent on very heavy dealings. Further confidence in the future of the steel industry was indicated by the advance in wages announced by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Independent steels as a group followed the course set by the premier issues.

Speculative issues, like Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin and Studebaker, also gained substantially, partly in response to short covering operations. The tobacco group exhibited marked strength and coppers rose on the high prices quoted for the metal. Strength of American Tobacco, which rose to a new high, was attributed to the stabilization of retail prices which followed the abandonment of the trade discount policy by that company.

Special stocks, which registered new high prices for the year, included American Ice, National Lead and Retail Stores. Total sales approximated 700,000 shares.

The money market adhered to its movements of the previous day, opening at 3 3-4 per cent, but advancing to 4 per cent on the later part of the session.

Leading foreign exchanges showed further steadiness on the higher range for these remittances quoted by London. Sterling was steady, despite heavy offerings of commercial bills. French francs were substantially above previous day's close and the German mark rallied sharply.

Reclamation District No. 833

Six Per Cent Serial Gold Bonds

Dated July 1, 1922. Due 1926-1931, inclusive. Principal and interest payable at the office of the Treasurer of Butte County, at Oroville, California

Certified as a legal investment in California for Savings Banks and Trust Funds

Exempt from all Federal Taxes and all State, County and City Taxes in California, except Inheritance Taxes

Legality approved by Messrs. Goodfellow, Eells, Moore & Orrick, San Francisco

Location—The district is located in Butte County, sixty miles north of the City of Sacramento, and includes the cities of Gridley and Biggs. The district does not form a part or any other reclamation, irrigation or drainage district, except a small portion of the south west part, which is subject to a small assessment under the Sacramento and San Joaquin Drainage Districts. The major portion has been farmed for upwards of thirty years, producing fruit, grain and dairy products.

Security—The principal and interest of these bonds is payable through the medium of a direct tax lien, ranking ahead of first mortgages, on 38,437 acres of highly productive agricultural land. They are a direct obligation of the district which was organized in 1911 under the Reclamation District Laws of the State of California.

Bonded Debt—The district's total debt amounts to $380,000, or $10 an acre, as compared with an appraised value of $3,800,000, or $100 an acre for the farm land of the district, exclusive of improvements and city property.

Reclamation System Entirely Completed—The drainage and irrigation system of this district is already constructed and complete in every respect. The district has an ample supply of water from the Sutter Butte Canal Company at a low cost per acre.

Extraordinary efforts are being made to obtain deliveries and premium prices are being paid. This is particularly true of the automotive industry. Sheet bar scarcity and advancing prices are expected to send sheets to higher levels.

Liquidation Proceeds in Wheat Markets

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Liquidation was on a wheat and corn. With a lack of support from the trade, early pessimistic reports had their effect and values declined 1 to 1½ cents. There was little change in the character of the news affecting wheat but the continued absence of a buying power generally gave the bears free rein. Selling was on and they were determined to sell out. With a lack of support it did not take much selling to start values down.

Reports with certain connections were fairly numerous early, presumably reflecting export business to the day. At the low point, prices were 1½ cents from the early high and the finish was with a decided rally from the bottom. Some of the export business at the present time is by Canadian grain. Exporters with free wheat to offer at Canadian ports are said to be getting better premiums for it than for wheat in the United States. Canadian loading has been very heavy, about 2,000,000 bushels having been cleared last week. Canadian wheat is entering the United States in large quantities and is underselling our wheat in the southern markets. Corn was under pressure from the start. Country offerings were liberal and there was little demand. Cash trade was dull. Oats were under the influence of the action in other grain. Trade was light.

KHJ, in Its Election Results, Puts on Novelties to Instill Interest in Listeners

For the first time in history election returns were given to people in all the Southland by radio last night. Five of the stations in the local district, designated as long range stations, broadcast returns, operating in rotation every ten minutes. KHJ, The Times radiophone, began the round robin of election returns at 9 o'clock and following KHJ the Hamburger station gave returns for ten minutes, then KOG, the Evening Herald, KWH, the Examiner, which took a twenty-minute period, operating first for KFI, Anthony, and then for itself.

Mary Newkirk Bower

George N. Morrison Jr.

KHJ diversified its periods more than any other stations on the air. In the first period, George H. Martin, Jr., played "O Sole Mio," on the cornet, and in the second period Mary Newkirk Bower, soprano, accompanied by Harold Farch, sang "Winds of the South," and George Martin, also accompanied by Mr. Farch, played "Absent," by Metcalf.

Constance Harris

Riddie Horton, organist at the Kinema Theater and pianist par excellence, came over to KHJ following the Kinema performance and played some piano solos as only he can. He has ability to interpret piano solos with a real touch of artistry which for radio is ideal.

Evelyn Lane, soprano at the Pilgrimage Play in Hollywood, and who has been heard a number of times by radio fans who have tuned in KHJ concrts, came on at midnight and, accompanying herself, sang one solo. Miss Lane's voice has a remarkable degree of clarity and she has won an enviable place among listener-in favorites.

Film Players Are Hurt in Forest Blaze

Anna Q. Nilsson, leading lady with the Louis B. Mayer film company, was reported to be suffering severely from burns received last night while driving a locomotive through a staged forest fire.

The accident happened after excelsior saturated with 700 gallons of gasoline had been ignited along the track. Craig Ward, leading man, and Percy Hilburn, head camera man, were also reported to have been injured by the fire.

Miss Nilsson was immediately taken to San Fernando where first aid was rendered by Dr. Roughe. She was later removed to her home in Hollywood.

INNER DOPE RING FOUND BY RAIDERS

Police Arrest Twenty-one Asserted Addicts in Auto Repair Shop in Hollywood

What the police declare is the chief distributing center of Hollywood's dope ring was discovered last night when twenty-one asserted dope addicts were arrested by the Hollywood police in a welding and autotomobile repair shop, located in an alley about thirty-five feet from Hollywood Boulevard between Cahuenga and Wilcox avenues.

The big round-up was staged by Detective Sergeant L. Canto, Detective Kearin, and Detective Hutchin of the Hollywood station, shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

The raid was the result of a three-day investigation following the disclosure made last week after the arrest of Lewis Castineau, said to be one of the leaders of the dope-peaddling ring.

The police learned yesterday that Castineau was the owner of a welding and automobile repair shop. The place was watched for forty-eight hours, and after the officers had gained entrance to the place last night by posing as dope peddlers the arrests were made.

A small window very similar to that of a theater box office was on one side of the room. Two small grooves were just behind the bars. One groove returned what ever change the purchaser had coming, and the other delivered his drug.

DISCUSS COAL, RAIL TANGLES

Sentiment Favoring Control Revived

President Harding Believes Action Desirable

Would Strengthen Hands of Administration

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Smouldering official opinion in favor of Presidential authority to take over railroads and coal mines not operated at their highest efficiency, was revived in Congress today when it was made known at the White House that President Harding still held that such a grant of power was desirable, although without any idea of using the authority except in a case of direct public necessity.

One immediate result of the renewed discussion of government operation was the prospect that the House might be called upon on short notice to put itself on record in the matter. Representative Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, announced his intention to offer tomorrow an amendment to the administration coal control bill, which would give the President the authority he was said to desire. Several other members of the House indicated that they would submit amendments with the same purpose in view, although Congressional leaders generally predicted no such legislation would be passed for the present.

WOULD STRENGTHEN HAND

As explained at the White House, the President's attitude is that the administration's hold on the situation would be materially strengthened if it had as a foundation the potential power to take over a single railroad or a union of carriers, a single mine or a union of mining properties which had been shown clearly to have failed to render the public full service. There was no hint as to the manner in which such properties would be administered were they taken over, White House spokesmen emphasizing that Mr. Harding had no immediate intention of urging the suggested power, and has not saw no prospect that it would have to be used on the basis of the present situation.

Mr. Harding, it was declared, believed today that the bituminous coal industry was working out its own problem under the threat of the practical settlement reached at Cleveland and held further that the anthracite strike would be settled shortly.

Should this forecast be borne out by developments, it was said at the White House, the railroad tangle would be left as the only industrial knot of first importance, and in this connection the administration policy, as outlined today, was said to be construed as a strict enforcement of existing laws which guarantee safety of life and property and maintenance of necessary public service.

SITUATION GRAVE

A less optimistic view of the fuel situation was taken by Chairman Cummins of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee in his report on the control bill.

"The present situation is exceedingly grave one," the chairman declared, adding that while the railroads succeeded in measurably increasing their facilities for handling coal, the situation would be the same as though the bituminous strike was still in progress throughout the industry. Independent operators "and many dealers," the report continued, are taking advantage of the shortage of fuel and Congress was faced with the necessity of either approving legislation such as that being reported or of permitting the public to be "plundered."

The Senate Committee approved an amendment to the bill which would limit the authority of the controlling commission to one year.

The House Interstate Commerce committee in reporting the Winslow bill for Federal coal control announced that the proposal for a Federal fuel agency had been definitely abandoned and that the President is in accord with the conclusion."

Suffered Two Days and Nights Thirsting

Relief Party Finds Strayed Men at Camp

Rescued after being lost for forty-eight hours on the island of San Clemente, a barren waterless bit of land that juts from the Pacific ocean beyond Catalina Island, two Los Angeles youths reached Los Angeles Harbor late last night in a weakened condition and with their clothes and bodies torn from scaling the rocky cactus strewn slopes of the island.

With a party of four young men, they became separated and were lost. For two days and nights they wandered without food or water, as they searched vainly hour after hour for some signs of human habitation.

It was the party that reached the harbor last night were Boris V. Sokolowsky, salesman, 6143 Sunset Drive, J. P. Beatty, 5500 Highland Park, and Elmer Lee Adams and Harrison G. Adams, both of 1517 Strickland avenue.

Elmer Adams and Beatty reached the island last Saturday with the party and became lost. When they failed to return to their boat, the Catalquin, at the time set for departure last Sunday a search was made for them.

Sokolowsky and the elder Adams, both of whom knew the island from previous trips, were left behind to continue the search, while the efforts of the searchers, as no trace was found until nearly Monday morning.

The two searchers at that time came upon the camp of a Russian fisherman at Mosquito Harbor. A few minutes later Elmer Adams and Beatty reached the camp, stumbling into the camp in the throes of exhaustion.

They had been attracted by the light of the campfire.

The youths then fired their guns and attracted the attention of the government cruiser Manana yesterday morning and were taken to Catalina Island, reaching Avalon yesterday afternoon.

SCENE OF BRAKEMAN BURNED TO GROUND

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHANDLER, Aug. 29.—Another fire of unknown origin was added today to the two blazes already being investigated by county deputies here, when the body of J. H. Murphy, a Santa Fe brakeman, was totally destroyed.

The blaze was discovered shortly before dawn, at about the same time as the destruction of the Dodge Hotel and an automobile garage by fire and explosions on Monday.

SOON PANTS LOCAL HORROR

High School Boys Started Something Rest of Country Hopes They Will be Able to Finish

Peon pants (improperly called toreador trousers) are a purely local disorder. This fact was established yesterday by The Times after a pendverture of a doubt. The big-bottomed, high-waisted pants "the boys" are now wearing sprang up here and—other parts of the United States are hoping—probably will remain here.

A survey of retail and wholesale clothing houses divulged the fact the idea, if it may be called such, started in high schools and is not yet clear, to wear peon pants as a badge of seniority. Juniors and freshmen who refuse to wear them were thrown out and deported right on the run. Some enterprising local merchants undertook to fill the demand, and now, to the horror of the high school upper classmen, the boys in Boyle Heights and San Pedro are wearing them.

The demand has been so great that local clothing manufacturers have not been able to meet it. One concern has placed an order with an eastern house to make up 10,000 dozen right away.

COMPETITION BEGINS

Some of the larger clothing stores are handling this novelty, and competing with one another in getting them as novel as possible. The peon pants are built very much like a sailor's, only much more high waisted and with bell-bottoms. The most of them have gussets in the sides, with pearl buttons and sometimes baby blue or sunset lining peeping through. The flap pockets and are to be worn without either suspenders or belt, which is a great saving as they are usually wearing either.

Where the high waist and the bell of the peon pants are worn, and sometimes tighter, they may sit down in his skin. They always come in cord-malans, Argentines and Filipinos have called, telegraphed, telephoned and radioed to The Times office to protest. They say that a toreador wears no trousers at all, but knee breeches, which seems to be a fact. Prominent Mexicans explain that this sort of trousers originated in Mexico; that it is a part of the ancient charro, or native Mexican dress, and that nowadays they are worn only by laborers in southern Mexico and hence derive their new name, peon pants.

PURISTS OBJECT

On the other hand certain purists have objected to the new term because pants is not very good English. This objection, however, is waived because peon pants are not very good pants. Senor Garza Leal, the Mexican Consul, when interviewed on the subject said:

"Toreador trousers. Bah! "Peon pants. Bah, bah!"

Francisco Alonzo, surnamed Paquiro, the noted Spanish matador, when seen by The Times correspondent in Mexicali, said:

"I protest energetically against the appellation 'toreador trousers.' No genuine toreador would so

FRESHMEN TOP REGISTRATION

University Enrollment Has Made High Record

Southern Branch Enrolls 1678 New Students

Fifty-three Instructors Are Added to Faculty

The largest freshman class in the history of the Southern Branch of the University of California started to enroll yesterday morning. At a late hour in the afternoon the registration office was snowed under and had to suspend operations until this morning. The final count of the new students that were entered on the books of the institution totaled 1678, and it was estimated that probably 300 more would enroll today. The enrollment last year was 1275 and was a new record at that time.

In addition to this class, approximately 3300 other students returned from last year.

A large number of the students who enrolled yesterday had previously signified their intentions of attending the school so that the record number was not entirely unexpected. The staff of clerks and other persons in charge of the work was enlarged, and fifty-three new instructors were added to the faculty.

In addition to these new officials Dr. Charles H. Reiber, formerly a professor at Berkeley, has been appointed dean of the Southern Branch. Miss Doris Fredericks, a graduate of the class of '21 at the University of California, has been named to serve as assistant dean of women at the Vermont-avenue institution.

PLAN SOCIAL AFFAIRS

In preparation for the coming term the students have been busy at the school for the past few days and plans for several social affairs and similar college doings have been perfected. The student body at large will have an assembly the first Wednesday in each month, according to present plans, and at this time the students will present varied and interesting programs.

A reception for all first year women will be given on September 13, and the annual Hi-Jinx will be held on September 22. At this time the women will have their annual no-male frolic which has gained fame throughout the south.

The men's do on the same date as the Hi-Jinx will end the month's entertainments.

Among the new equipment is a two-story annex to the women's gymnasium. This now is near completion. It will contain showers and locker rooms on the first floor and lecture rooms on the second.

A number of rooms formerly used as offices and meeting places are to be given over to class rooms this term, it was announced. A number of new offices have been constructed in Millspaugh Hall. These offices include the headquarters of Dean Reiber, the office of the comptroller and a new headquarters for the veterans' bureau.

Swimming in City Plunge, Boy Drowns

John Edward Moran, aged 16 years, of 123 South Lincoln Park avenue, was drowned last night, while swimming in the Lincoln Park plunge, Keith street and Mission Road.

Life guards at the plunge recovered his body from the water too late for resuscitation. No one saw the boy sink or heard a cry for help, according to reports made to the police. The Lincoln Heights ambulance hurried the body to the Receiving Hospital, where every effort was made to revive him, but to no avail.

Young Moran was a clerk in the Union Oil Company's offices and lived with his mother, Mary Ann Moran.

LONG FALL IN AUTO IS FATAL ONE

Spectacular Accident Ends in Death When Car Pins Driver to Earth

Driving his automobile over a fifty-foot embankment between First and Second streets on Hill street last night at 7 o'clock Leland F. Miller, of 421 West Second street, met instant death when he was pinned beneath the machine.

Mystery surrounds the spectacular accident. After several hours the body was identified by Dan Morgan and Miss Ella Snodgrass, both of 333 Clay street. At first it was thought Miller had driven the car from the Sun Auto Park, where it had been parked, with intent to end his life. Miss Snodgrass, however, told Detective Sergeant Davidson that she knew no reason for Miller ending his life.

Officers searched the automobile after the accident and found a .32 caliber automatic and a .41 caliber Derringer. In addition to two watches, cartridges, a blackjack and a special Deputy Sheriff badge, Number 2366.

The machine backed over the embankment in the rear of the Sun Auto Park and landed in Al's Auto Park on Hill street. As the machine landed Miller was heard to cry "Help me," by persons who were in the Hill-street parking station.

The machine had no registration card but the license plate bore the number 465894. Employees of the Sun Auto Park said that Miller had been parking the machine there for the past two days and had been repainting and repairing it.

The man was rushed to the Receiving Hospital immediately after the accident. His body was removed to the funeral parlors of Lawson F. Etter.

WEARY OF LONG WALK, GOT RIDE

Aged Itinerant's Idea Worked Out Well, but Not Just as He Had Planned

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 29.—With a cargo of wet goods a board, William Campbell, itinerant knight of the open road, set uncertain sail for Long Beach yesterday via Anaheim Road. Gasoline buggies galore whizzed their way past the plodding Campbell, but nary a driver offered him a lift.

Campbell's legs grew weary and his feet refused to function.

Choosing a shady spot away from the glaring rays of the sun, he gave himself over to contemplation of the world-old problem of wealth and poverty. The longer he pondered the greater grew his resentment toward those who have everything but who are unwilling to share. Then the big idea struck the aged itinerant. Flinging down his heavy kit bag for a pillow, Campbell stretched himself across the boulevard.

"Now let them pass me by," he ruminated as he watched an approaching auto through half closed eyelids.

"I'll bet they give me a ride now." Campbell got his ride, but it was in a police car. Approaching motorists, seeing him in the road stopped and rolled him to one side before proceeding on their way to the police station to report the matter. Campbell was booked on a charge of intoxication.

FATE OF HEWES TO BE TOLD

Long Beach Council and Mayor to Act on Ouster Request Today

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 29. — Charges of inefficiency, mismanagement and extravagance, filed against City Manager Charles E. Hewes several weeks ago and which came before the city council officially, last night in secret session, will be acted upon by the Mayor and Council tomorrow, it was said at the City Hall today. Although Councilmen and others connected with the Hewes controversy refused to discuss the matter today, it was strongly hinted that the charges and the demands that Hewes be ousted forthwith from office will be turned down by the Council.

City Manager Hewes has indicated, it is said, his intention of filing a written reply to the accusations made against him by members of the City Manager Club of Long Beach. This reply, it was said, will be read by the Council at tomorrow's meeting and immediate action will follow.

Should the Council dismiss the charges and decline to oust Hewes, his opponents will at once institute a recall petition, a copy of which has already been prepared and submitted to the Council. A total of the 600 of the 999 names necessary have already been signed to this petition, the Council was told last night by Attorney R. H. Jackson, representing Mewes's opponents.

Advocates of the recall declared today that more than 1000 voters have signed statements in favor of the city manager's removal. Although the specific charges contained in the communications considered by the Council last night were not made public, Mayor Buffam delared that the accusations are general in character and deal with asserted extravagance, inefficiency, through inexperience and violations of the city charter in the employment of certain men.

HARD LINES FOR APOLLO OF BEACHES

Might Have Got by at Venice, but Long Beach; Heavings, No

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 29.—Justice Hawkins and Spectators in his court were treated yesterday to a generous display of physical development of the "male form divine," when Jesse Walker, professional physical culture exponent and teacher, appeared before the bench clad in an abbreviated bathing suit. Wearing the same scant garment Walker had been arrested on the beach Sunday by Policewoman Philbrick and Williamson for violating the bathing suit ordinance.

In court he requested permission to don it and demonstrate his claim that it was not too abbreviated. His appearance in court a few minutes later clad in the garment brought gasps from spectators and an immediate decision from Justice Hawkins. Walker was fined $10 after the court had declared that while he was convinced Walker had a remarkable physique, there was entirely too much physique and not sufficient bathing suit in evidence.

ELEVEN ALIENS ARE TO BE DEPORTED

Immigration Agent E. M. Kline yesterday took aboard his especially fitted-up car on the Southern Pacific eleven aliens for deportation, including three Hindus, three Japs and three Chinese. He picked up two Canadians at San Diego. The party will be put aboard ships sailing out of San Francisco bound for their former homes.

"Times" Gets Safety Council Vote of Thanks

A vote of thanks to The Los Angeles Times for its action in publishing, on the daily pictorial page, pictures of automobiles wrecked by careless autoists, was passed by the executive committee of the Los Angeles Safety Council at a noon meeting yesterday in the City Club. Thanks were extended also to the Automobile Club of Southern California for furnishing the pictures. The motion was made by Harry Stenge and seconded by E. J. Curry after members of the committee had commented favorably on this means of impressing motorists with the need for greater caution.

The Safety Council indorsed also the Tenth-street widening project. H. Z. Osborne, Jr., engineer of the Board of Public Utilities and a member of the Safety Council executive committee, gave a brief talk on traffic conditions and possible remedies. He showed that the area of streets and sidewalks in the downtown Los Angeles district is less than other principal cities, and that permanent relief of congestion demands additional room for the moving of vehicles and pedestrians.

TELEPHONE GIRL WEDS

Miss Frankie Morrow McLaughlin, for more than two years one of the telephone switchboard operators at the United Studios, was married yesterday to William Earle Naugle, southwestern representative of the Pictorial Review. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Clinton Elliot at the First Presbyterian Church. After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Naugle will live in Hollywood.

FILM STARS TO TWINKLE

Public Attending Pageant to See Motion Pictures Made; Crowds Pack Grounds

A glimpse of the film life will be shown to the thousands of daily visitors at the Pageant of Progress and Industrial Exposition tomorrow afternoon and night.

The technique of directing and the art of acting will be featured tomorrow under the auspices of the Motion-Picture Producers' Association with Frank P. Davison in charge. Comedies will be made from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. with Chester Conklin of Fox directed by Ed Kennedy, Lee Moran of Universal, Neal Burns of Christie, Alice Stevens and actors from the Hal Roach studios.

Drama scenes will be enacted during the early part of the evening on the big stage in front of the south grand stand with Gloria Swanson, Theodore Roberts, Thomas Meighan, Mitchell Lewis and Gladys Walton taking part.

All yesterday and until late last night thousands of persons packed the exhibition grounds taking in the show, given by the industrial enterprise of Los Angeles in honor of the city's position as the tenth industrial center of the country.

BATTLE FOUGHT AGAIN

The Battle of Chateau Thierry was fought again last night while thousands stood along the firing line witnessing what is said to be the largest military fireworks display ever produced. The battle is at 9:30 p.m. Maj. C. P. Chandler of the Eleventh Cavalry daily leads the charge against the Huns during the clash, amidst exploding bombs and rockets.

The free side-shows, high-diving bicycle leaps in the air, band concerts and other outdoor entertainment continually goes on during the day. One of the interesting features of the pageant is the mammoth water carnival staged with sixty girls of the Hippodrome at the north end of the grounds. At the south stage Ernie Young's Passing Parade of 1922 is given each day at 6:30 p.m.

BUYERS BUSY

In order to gain a keen idea of Los Angeles' progress in the industrial world, buyers who are here from throughout the world are taking advantage of visiting the industrial branches each morning on the pageant grounds. The grounds are open only for buyers until 1 p.m. daily.

The pageant with its hundreds of industrial branches representing every phase of Los Angeles' business life, is affording the visiting buyers an enviable view of the many concerns that have placed Los Angeles among the leaders of industry.

Thursday evening Los Angeles' industrial band with 1000 pieces will play in the front grand stand.

STILETTOS DISPLAYED BY THUGS

Four Italians Jump Out of Auto and Rob Couple; Methods Terrify

Four men, described as Italians, and all said to have been armed with stilettos, early yesterday morning leaped out of a large automobile in which they were riding and held up and robbed G. K. Zinton of 2119 Darwin avenue, and Miss I. Fannis of 429 South Daly street, at the intersection of Daly and Mozart streets.

The bandits obtained $10 from Mr. Zinton and a beaded bag worth $50 and $5 in cash from Miss Fannis, according to the police report.

Police officers who investigated the robbery, declared that they believe the bandits were members of a gang who have recently been operating in Hollywood in a large Cadillac automobile. It is the belief of the police that the desperadoes armed themselves with the stilettos instead of revolvers in order to terrify their victims more.

DRUGGIST HELD UP

Bandit Covers Proprietor of Store And Rifles Cash Drawer

While he levelled a revolver at S. Rosenhouse with one hand, a youthful bandit rifled the cash register of $140 with the other in Rosenhouse's drug store at 3780 South Vermont avenue early yesterday morning.

Pocketing the money the bandit then compelled Rosenhouse to stand with his face against the wall while he retreated through the street door and escaped. Detectives Mack and McGowan of the University division, responding to a telephone call sent in by Mr. Rosenhouse searched the neighborhood but were unable to find the bandit.

SAN PEDRO KLAN HAS DISBANDED

Activities Suspended as Housecleaning is Planned by Order

Rumblings of internal dissension in the ranks of California Klansmen, first recorded just prior to the trial of the Inglewood raiders, were re-echoed in San Pedro yesterday when it became known that the San Pedro "province" of the Ku Klux Klan has declared itself disbanded and is no longer "functioning."

The trouble, according to members and officers of the Klan, was caused by dissatisfaction with the leadership of G. W. Price, present King Kleagle of California.

The "suspension of activities," a statement prepared by a number of officers of the San Pedro Klan declares, was taken in order that the Klan might have a "housecleaning." The elimination of Mr. Price is on the program, according to the men involved in the action.

"The trouble is a tempest in a teapot," was the comment of King Kleagle Price. "The whole matter started when I removed an Exalted Cyclops because he wanted to use the Klan for political purposes, and discharged a Kleagle whose work was irregular. A disgruntled officer and a discharged employee cannot disrupt a Klan."

An Exalted Cyclops is a president of the Klavern. A Kleagle is a membership salesman. The San Pedro Klan has about 100 members, according to Klansmen here. The San Pedro Klansmen say they have 940 members.

Among other things the resolution passed by the San Pedro Klan contains an echo of the recent battle behind the scenes in the California circles of the Klan with W. S. Coburn, former Grand Goblin on the Pacific Coast, and King Kleagle Price, on the opposing sides. Mr. Price is accused in the resolution of causing Capt. Coburn much "degradation and humiliation."

MONNETTE SAYS CHARGES FALSE

Asserts Grounds for Wife's Action Unfounded

Banker Wires He is Coming Home for Hearing

Board's Move Unfortunate; Fair Play Asked

Branding as false the grounds for his wife's action in filing suit for separate maintenance, and that the action of the board of directors of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank in ousting him from the presidency of that institution in consequence of that suit, "must bear their own interpretation," Orra Eugene Monnette yesterday wired The Times from Seattle immediately following his disembarkation from the Empress of Russia on which he had crossed the Pacific from Japan.

Declaring that he had just learned of Mrs. Monnette's "regrettable and unnecessary action," Mr. Monnette said that he was "hurrying home to answer every charge and criticism."

The separation complaint was filed by Mrs. Monnette on the 12th inst. and charged her husband with cruelty, reciting that the couple had separated in March of this year after Mr. Monnette had requested his wife to go to Reno and get a divorce.

Mrs. Monnette also named in her complaint Miss Myrtle H. Cooper, now manager of a branch of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, but formerly Mr. Monnette's secretary. Miss Cooper was brought into the case as the result of a letter which Mr. Monnette is asserted to have dictated to her in which he compared her with Mrs. Monnette, the latter suffering by the comparison.

TELLS OF OFFER

In her complaint, Mrs. Monnette asked for $1000 a month for the support of herself and 2-year-old daughter, and $5000 attorney's fees. A copy of a contract entered into between Mr. and Mrs. Monnette was filed with the complaint in which Mrs. Monnette was offered $5,000 cash and $250 a month for ten years, with $50 a month for the child until she reached the age of 4. Mr. Monnette also is said to have offered his wife $200 a month and her expenses while in Reno, and her automobile.

Eleven days after Mrs. Monnette filed her suit, Mr. Monnette was summarily ousted from his position as president of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank. It was understood at the time that his "discharge" was brought about by his recent domestic difficulties.

Several weeks prior to this action by the board of directors of the bank, Mr. Monnette's resignation had been requested by cable, it was said, but he refused to give it. On the 23rd inst. the board of directors held a meeting and

FILM PROMOTION FAILS

Corporation Commissioner Says Stock-Selling Permit Has Expired; Plans Investigation

An investigation of the Rellimeo Film Syndicate, a million-dollar picture promotion headed by Dr. Orlando Edgar Miller, probably will be started by State Corporation Commissioner Daugherty some time next week, he intimated yesterday when it became known that the time limit for selling the stock or for refunding the money had expired.

Before leaving for San Francisco on a business trip late last night, Commissioner Daugherty stated that Miller's stock-selling permit, issued some time ago, expired on August 10, and that, having failed to collect the full $1,000,000, a refund of all but 20 per cent of the money collected must be made if the shareholders demand their money back.

GETS MONTH OF GRACE

According to Commissioner Daugherty, the usual month of grace in which to file a report will be allowed Miller, and then action will be taken to call together as many of the stockholders as can be reached to learn whether they wish the refund of money paid out by them for stock, or whether they wish further extension of time.

Yesterday efforts to reach Miller or attorneys representing his film syndicate failed, and nothing could be learned of the plans of the head of the syndicate. Commissioner Daugherty stated that the $800,000 collected by Miller, minus the 20 per cent allowed by law for promotion, is deposited in the United States National Bank.

GIVE IDEAS TO WORLD

From what could be learned yesterday, Miller began promotion of the $1,000,000 film syndicate, which was to give to the world on the screen his ideas of applied psychology, during January of this year. At the time he was also heading a movement to establish a model city in Mexico. The Mexican scheme received a severe setback when The Times discovered that President Obregon of Mexico had not granted Miller a tract on the shores of Lake Chapala, as the project's backers asserted.

According to information gathered here yesterday, Miller disposed of about $800,000 worth of shares and had only $200,000 more to sell when his permit expired and an accounting was asked by persons who had invested. Most of the money was raised in California, and a large part of it in Southern California.

During his career Miller has often been before the public, not only as a lecturer on applied psychology but also as the president of the International School of Applied Psychology, a patent medicine seller, president of a drug sanatorium, promoter of new cities and banker.

Senoritas and Dons Entertain Daily at Plaza

The days of the Dons are here again—and, appropriately enough, these days of a by-gone century are being relived at the historic stamping ground, the Plaza. At Our Lady of the Angels' Church, the oldest landmark in Los Angeles, pretty senoritas and handsome young modern Dons are giving an entertainment nightly of songs, dances, instrumental music and games that is attracting unusual interest, especially among visitors to Los Angeles.

The bazaar, which will continue every evening until and including next Sunday, is under the general direction of Father John Maistequi, in charge of the Plaza Church during the absence of Rev. Andrew Rera, now attending the international conclave of the C.M.F. at Barcelona, Spain.

Rev. Maitequi is being assisted by the many societies under the leadership of Mrs. Lugo and Miss L. Rodrigues. Mrs. Blanco is in charge of the kitchen and one of the prize booths is being conducted by Miss Florence Appel. Regular Spanish dinners are served from 5 to 11 p.m.

SAN DIEGO LABEL IN MYSTERY DEATH

PENDLETON OFFICIALS ARE BAFFLED IN MURDER OF MAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PENDLETON, Aug. 29.—Investigators, baffled at the failure of all clews for the identification of the body of a man found slain on the bank of the Umatilla River last Wednesday morning, have turned to the label on the inside of the blue serge coat. "Lion Brand, San Diego," as a possible lead.

The victim's body was buried after photographs were taken for Coast-wide distribution in the hopes of establishing the man's identity.

NEW SCORE ON MEMORY TABLET

KHJ Artists in Excellent Concert Bill

Jerome Uhl, Baritone, is Evening Soloist

Mary Newkirk Bower Sings Three Numbers

"One of the finest soprano voices I have heard over radio in a long time," is the way C. H. Morse of Altadena expressed his opinion immediately following the singing of Virginia Flohri on the KHJ program yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Flohri, who sang for KHJ last spring, is one of the artists who sang for radio in its early days, having appeared on programs broadcast from Bedloe's Island in New York. She has a remarkably clear and compelling voice and its lyric quality ranks with the best. Accompanied by Eric Black, she sang five numbers—"A Pastoral" by Carey, "The Wren" by Benedict, "Mighty Lak a Rose" by Nevin, "Sunbeams" by Ronald and "When Love is Kind" an old melody.

High in quality and of marked diversity, last night's concert given by The Times radiophone was one that will be long remembered by listeners-in. Baritone, lyric, soprano and pianist combined in giving radioland a pleasurable hour.

Jerome Uhl, whose rich baritone voice is internationally known in opera circles and who has sung several times previously from KHJ during his stay in Los Angeles where he is visiting his mother and giving artists the benefit of his knowledge in "freshening up" for the ball season, again was heard last night. Possessed of a rich, resonant and appealing voice of great range and volume, Mr. Uhl sang three numbers—"Monsieur Beaucaire" by Messager, "Ballad of Mary Ann" by Frieda Peycke, and "When You and I were Young, Maggie" by Bess Pike.

Mary Newkirk Bower, whose lyric soprano voice adds much to the charm which the composers wrote into her selections and who is frequently heard from KHJ, joined with Mr. Uhl is making last night's concert an outstanding feature in the day's broadcast. Mrs. Bower gives delicate coloring and life to any number she sings and those she chose last night were especially well fitted to show the quality and range of her voice. She sang "The Answer" by Robert Huntington Terry, "Canson Provencale" by E. del Acqua, and "The Cuckoo" by Lisa Lehmann.

Mrs. Guy Bush, pianist, who played all accompaniments during the evening concert, has recently returned from a trip to San Francisco, where listeners-in in the Bay City had an opportunity of hearing her in a special program given by the Bulletin radiophone at the Fairmount Hotel. Mrs. Bush is very frequently heard from The Times station. The quality of her work is well known to the singing artists of Los Angeles and that delicate touch, so essential to the work of a singing artist, which she has in full measure makes her an especial favorite with the singing artists of the Southland. The feeling and expression with which she clothes her piano interpretations places her in the high rank of California pianists.

"PEON PANTS" LOCAL HORROR

greatly insult the noble bull."

A Mexican gentleman who said he was Fulano de Tal was among those that called at The Times to protest against the term. Before he staggered down the stairs he said that one of his ancestors, Sultano de Tal, had been the first man to wear such leg covering, for which he had been put to death on the wheel by the inquisition.

A Britisher wrote that these trousers are not Mexican at all, but Coster, such as the much bebuttoned garments the Cockneys wear. But the high school style creators had the intention of imitating something Mexican, or Spanish Californian, and so peon pants is still considered the best description.

OBJECTION OVERCOME

Aside from their looks, peon pants have the added disadvantage of being very uncomfortable, both because of their tightness around the knees and waist and the heat of the corduroy. But these objections are atoned by the fact that they are cool around the ankles, the big bottoms keeping up a constant fanning as one walks.

With peon pants certain other articles of dress seem to go. The waist is so high that one hardly needs a shirt, but the usual thing is a wool, checkered garment such as the motion-picture cowboy wears, open at the throat. For headgear the proper thing is one of those pompadour vices, also a purely local creation. They originally were made to keep the pomp back while swimming, but young men have found them useful in training the hair. They are constructed like a bandage around the head with a strap over the top side, which latter keeps the hair down.

Young men put grease on their heads once a day, comb and brush the hair back before meals and before retiring, and then wear the pompadour ice all the time. In this way a youth of 16 hopes by the time he can vote to have his hair trained properly, by which time the style doubtless will be changed. All these precautions are necessary because hair curiously prefers to grow down instead of back, but nature is being given a terrible struggle.

The young man in peon pants, a steamer blanket shirt and a pompadour trap on his head, walking with a young woman in hiking breeches and bobbed hair, presents a topsey-turvey picture that is considered the ultra of the Nth degree in young mannish and young womanish appearance.

NEGRO ARRESTED FOR KILLING WITH AX

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Aug. 29.—Brady Vann, a negro, is in jail here on the charge of killing C. Kennedy, also a negro, with an ax at Brawley today. Vann says Kennedy was trying to choke and rob him in a yard where Vann was sleeping. In the fight that followed, he said, he seized an ax and struck Kennedy in the face and chest. Valuable Tip Given Forgers by Merchants

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 29.—Through the police and the Merchants' Association, a valuable tip was given today to forgers, check raisers and bum bank account artists of various kinds.

It's this: Use blue ink.

The Merchants' Association issued a circular to its members telling them, on the authority of Capt Harry Murphy of the identification bureau, that checks written with blue ink can't be photographed. Check photographs, sent out to police departments, are a valuable aid in catching their makers, it was said, and the merchants were asked to provide black ink for the use of their customers and to see that checks they take in from unknown persons are written in black.

HIGHER TAX RATE

Interest on Bonds Adds Much to Municipal Expense

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 29.—South Pasadena's tax rate for the coming fiscal year will be $1.79 as compared with $1.62 for 1921-1922. Literally this gives a 17-cent increase, but actually the city's expenses have been reduced 5 cents under last year, as 22 cents of the present tax levy will care for interest on $465,000 of municipal water, Arroyo Park and sewer bonds sold during the last few months.

South Pasadena has increased in wealth by $600,000 during the past year. The appraised valuation for 1921-1922 was approximately $7,565,000 while for 1922-1923 it will be $8,158,685.

The civic expenses for the coming year will be $146,042.46 of which $81,536 is allotted to departmental expense, $11,340 for the library and $14,629.46 for the maintenance of parks.

Twelve photographs of two successfully operated Armstrong super-regenerative receivers, with instructions how to make and operate them is contained in a booklet entitled "The New Armstrong Super-regenerative Receiver," by Kenneth Harkness, published by the Radio Guild, Inc., 256 West Thirty-fourth street, New York.

The radio exhibit which is to be held October 9 to 14, inclusive, with the co-operation of the various Southern California radio organizations, will be held on the roof of the Arnold Building instead of Hamburger's, it is announced.

An American concern will build a $2,000,000 radio station for Sweden to handle direct communications between the United States and Sweden. The latter country has been demanding closer relationship with North America, and more reliable and rapid communication facilities. Radio apparently is the only means that will meet this demand.

"The combination of radio and musical instruments is a decided success," says Clarke A. Rasey, manager of the radio division, Fitzgerald Music Company. The Fitzgerald Music Company is handling De Forest equipment along with Ampicos, Edison phonographs, and other high-grade musical instruments.

PRIZE HOME NEARLY READY

Contractors to Have It Complete Thursday; Tide of Votes Sweeping In

The $16,500 prize home in Wilshire Crest to be given as first award in The Times' $70,000 gift campaign will be completed Thursday, according to an announcement made yesterday by the builders. Two days later the ownership of this wonder prize will be decided, for The Times' campaign comes to an end at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

That candidates and their friends, as well as all readers of The Times, may have an opportunity to study the many interesting details of the home, it will be open to the public Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Not only distinctive in design, and in the high quality of its workmanship, but in many of its details, as well, the $16,500 Wilshire Crest home offered by The Times marks a distinct advance in unusual home building.

While characteristically Mediterranean in design, it still has many attributes in common with the old California adobe houses. This is to be observed in its exterior, which is finished in hald-troweled texture plaster. It is also apparent in the burned clay tiled roof, which lends a colorful note in perfect harmony with the landscape.

Wrought iron plays a conspicuous part in the grilles, the exterior metal work of the house, the lamps, and the stairway that hises from the main living-room boasts a wrought-iron hand rail.

STONE FROM CRATER

Stone detail on the exterior of the building, as well as the huge fireplace in the living-room, is made from a very durable volcanic tufa taken from the crater of an extinct volcano in Central California.

In the main rooms the woodwork is of a beautiful southern gum, finished with the soft glaze characteristic of the old Mexican monasteries, that lends itself so delightfully to the soft tones and velvety quality of the texture plaster walls.

Floors, too, are unusual. They are solid oak and very heavy, being twice the thickness and wider than is commonly used, even in some of the finest homes.

In harmony with the goal in view, sturdy durability, the doors and windows are thick and massive. This enhances the Old World atmosphere which is a marked characteristic of the entire house.

It is in just such minor details that this Times prize home is a marked achievement in the builders' art, and so well worth the winning.

It is reached by taking the yellow car line to the new Los Angeles High School and walking west, or by motoring out Wilshire Boulevard to Wilshire Crest, where a large sign will direct one.

Visitors continue to crowd the charming $8000 bungalow in West Hollywood Tract, which is now completed. Candidates who have viewed this unusual home with the determination that either the bungalow or the home shall be their reward after September 2.

The bungalow is reached by taking red cars at Hill street station marked "Santa Monica via Hollywood," or "South Hollywood-Santa Monica Boulevard," and getting off at Melrose Station. By automobile take the Santa Monica Boulevard to West Knox Drive and then to the left for two blocks.

FORTUNE IN PRIZES

A fortune in prizes is at stake in The Times' famous $70,000 prize race, and only four days remain in which to get votes that will win. Candidates are putting forth Herculean efforts to decide the issue in their favor.

The swell is growing; the tide of votes is sweeping ahead with such tremendous force that there is no telling to what heights it will attain. In each of the twenty districts excitement is of the keenest sort; interest amounting almost to frenzy is sending candidates and their friends about in search for new subscriptions, which mean votes.

With the final vote schedule now in effect it is possible to greatly increase the vote standings. Second payments, too, will be a great help.

With the close of the campaign near at hand, and its unqualified success assured, a rival newspaper is making one last dying effort to discourage candidates, and its efforts are affording considerable amusement. The procedure is to telephone candidates and state that they wish to give the candidate a three years' subscription, as they "understand" the candidate is cutting the subscription rate in half. Upon being assured that such is not the case, the conversation is ended with the statement that they probably got in touch with the wrong candidate, as they heard "some one was doing it."

Only four days remain of the campaign and the rival newspaper will have to hurry if it is to think up something new.

DRIVER OF CAR FIGHTS BANDIT OFF

Command of "Stick 'Em Up" Answered by Spurt; Pair Frightened Away

When two bandits in a fast touring car drove alongside his machine on North Broadway near Bishop Road last night and told him to "stick 'em up," G. L. Gray, 529 South Los Angeles street, took one good look and stepped on the gas.

According to the report Gray made to the police, the bandits then pursued and overtook him, one climbing on the running board of his car. In the struggle to push him off the step, Gray told police, he was hit over the right eye with the butt of a revolver. Approaching machines apparently scared the bandit, Gray said, who jumped back into his machine and disappeared down Bishop Road. Passing motorists gave chase, but were unable to overtake the car.

FIRST AIDS
Take your conscience and a rubber stamp into the election booth and see what happens.

THE SILENT CALL
Possibly women have so much sympathy for dumb animals because they so acutely realize how agonising it must be to be dumb.

NEED BAITING
Fifty tons of mouse traps were received here in one consignment at the harbor the other day. Maybe this is part of a plan to capture the Socialist vote.

BELLBOYS WANTED
They are building a new hotel in Havana that will have 1000 rooms. The room that houses the American bar is the one that counts, however, and is responsible for the whole enterprise.

YOUNG GALAHAD
The son of the chairman of the General Electric Corporation was killed by a train while attempting to save the life of a dog. It was a beautiful impulse that inspired the act. A mind that is intuitively responsive to the dictates of kindliness and humanity is worthy of the sincere respect of all men. Some may say the young man was a fool, but God will give him a long white mark.

SAVE THE PIECES
A new issue of coinage in Bohemia is to be minted from glass. Now it will be easier than ever to break a dollar. It will be a fine thing, however, if a citizen can take the family punch bowl to the mint and have it made over into crowns. Instead of making light of a window pane, with a little more pains the householder could take it to the government and turn it into money. If all our coinage were of glass it would be much simpler to see through some of our financial problems.

NOT THE REAL THING
The Ku Klux Klan appears to have unusual strength in Texas and now the women of that State are forming an auxiliary to the invisible empire. But they are calling their organization the American Women—which certainly should not be permitted as a title for a secret body. The American women do not wander around in their nighties regulating the affairs of their communities. The American women are too busy canning peaches and tending babies to be monkeying with kleagles and goblins. These Texas dames may call themselves the Queens of the Klan if they wish to, but they should not be suffered to masquerade as the American Women.

RAID ON REED
The lady voter does not accept the verdict of a primary with the same complacency as is indicated by the average male partisan. In Missouri the Democratic women who were active in the rid-us-of-Reed movement announce their purpose of maintaining their opposition to the extent of voting for Senator Reed's Republican rival. They insist that the Senator has ceased to represent them, their party or their country and that the interests of the nation absolve them from any fidelity to a Democratic masquerader. They are going to vote for Brewster in a lump. The return path of Jim Reed is not an easy one, after all. They may get him yet.

HISTORY AND THE FILMS
We are to get our history lessons in the films. Likewise we are to have screen serials revealing the progress of the nation. The story of the days of Buffalo Bill is a bit of pioneering in this line and a Griffith filming of the World War or of Wells's "Outline of History" is the natural sequence of screen progress. The Yale Foundation is arranging for a filming of American history from Columbus to Wilson. It will be made as realistic and lifelike as possible in the selection of types and characters and in the costuming and settings. There will be more than one hundred reels and it will be a veritable panorama of not only the birth, but the life and progress of a nation. This will make history mighty attractive to the student and it will also prove vastly more impressive than the printed page.

THE RED SCHOOLHOUSE
Experts of Columbia University who have been doing a bit of research in connection with the little red schoolhouse of yesterday are virtually unanimous in its condemnation. They find that 87 per cent of the pupils are deficient and that it is silly to expect one teacher to do justice to the requirements of eight different grades. There are still more than 120,000 of these one-woman schoolhouses in the country, but they are going to be rooted out if Columbia can do the trick. Yet we are prone to argue that the little schoolhouse is the backbone of the nation and has been the foundation of our greatness. All of the builders and pioneers gained their inspiration from this source, and the country has expanded in direct response to the genius of the little red school. It seems almost a shame to be knocking it now, even if it has failed to keep pace with its possibilities. We refuse to throw rocks at the country schoolhouse. Not even a radio outfit can take its place.

A MATTER OF COMMON SENSE
If the labor unions have brains enough to realize the disasters that lie waiting at the end of the road they are traveling they will, themselves, lend vigorous assistance to the prosecution of the murderers of Herrin and the confessed wreckers of the Michigan Central train.

No matter how evil their private motives may be, the leaders of the unions cannot, in all logic, fail to realize that they are an adjunct of successful industry. Capital is the twin sister of labor. An injury to one stops the heart of the other.

For the unions to lend countenance to train wrecks and massacres and destruction of corporation property is about as sensible as it would be for a householder to poison the family well in the hope of killing a chance wayfarer.

The murderers of Herrin, Ill., are dependent for their living and prosperity upon the successful operation of the coal mines; the railroad unions can only hope to share in the prosperity of the railroads to the extent that the latter are prosperous. Terrifying prospective travelers by the fear of train wrecks is cutting off the nose to spite the face with a vengeance.

If the railroad unions have an ounce of real business sagacity they will proceed at once to demonstrate to the public that they do not stand behind either the massacre of Herrin, Ill., or the wreck on the Michigan Central.

THE DAWN BATHERS
It is not of the dawn bathers that California beach cities take their engaging pictures. It is not, then, that the bathing beauty in cutey suit, leggishly adorable, inhabits the surf and the seashore. Not as the sun mounts the eastern horizon do the svelte charmers cavort and prink on the dawn-flushed sand or emerge like beauteous dripping Undines from the merry wavelets. Not then do the handsome young lords of creation disport their Apollo-like persons for the artistic feminine eye.

No, the dawn at our beaches is dedicated to modest, vanity-disillusioned humans who snatch their surfing in comparative privacy or, at worst, steal ocean delight in the remote company of fellow-sufferers. At the unwitching hour of 6 a.m., or thereabouts, behold the 200-pound (and up) humans sally forth with furtive step in bathrobes to shroud the taut bathing suit beneath—such sad humans as are endowed with all-too-much ungainly flesh, whose mirrors can no longer deceive them into hopefulness or vain self-delusion, who are mournfully, shamefully aware that nature hath too lavishly endowed them. They waddle down, shimmying their rolls and creases as they go, seek a secluded spot, nor ever intrude upon each other's solitude. They plunge into the ocean with violent abandon, they emerge to roll strenuously upon the beach—not the gay, frolicsome roll of 11 a.m., but the ruthless, pitiless, persevering roll peculiar to 6 a.m. They jump and skip—laboriously, breathlessly, furiously—and fall exhausted on the sand. They do amazing exercises—sit-ups and floor-dips and back-bends—and gaze furtively around that no graceless witness may see.

Or there are those others, whom nature has cheated. The long, skinny, bony males; the spiky, toothpick hollow-chested females, the hipless, bustless, fleshless scarecrows whose brutal mirrors expose naught but cigarette-shaped legs and skewer arms and scrawny necks. These, too, shroud their persons in voluminous drapery until they reach the very edge of the water. These, too, plunge anxiously in and keep submerged from the ribald gaze. These, too, do fearsome developing exercises—pat and punch and wiggle and roll—as far from human sight and habitation as geography will allow.

These are the dawn bathers, craving the delights of the ocean and its healing vim—when none may see and none may know. They have a sort of secret masonic understanding, these dawn bathers. It is rotten bad form to recognize a fellow-dawn-bather. Especially later, clothed and in his right mind. Even on the beach at dawn they evade mutual sociable recognition. Fat and alone. Skinny and alone. This dawn of which the poets have raved holds no romance for them. It is the hour of their humility, their penance, their naked tribulation.

But, later, at high noon, when the dauntless normal bathers throng, they smile with an amiable, contemptuous condescension as they say:

"I don't care for the crowded beach. To my mind the ocean is most beautiful at dawn."

And, of course, perhaps the ocean is.

MAKING A FARCE OF MARRIAGE
"Kid" McCoy's application for a ninth marriage license is his own personal business or pleasure or whatever you like to call it. Every American is free under the law to do whatever the law allows. And there is no law to prevent Kid McCoy or anybody else from marrying fifty consecutive wives, so long as each time he gets himself legally unbound and his health holds out.

It must occur, however, to many who consider a marriage certificate as something more permanent than a dance program that if moral duty and social convention are not sufficient to preserve the strength and sweetness of the nuptial tie there should be a national law to limit the practice of overindulgence in divorce and remarriage. Just as there is a national law against indulgence in strong drink.

Actually, the proportion of Americans who take advantage of our lax divorce laws is infinitely small compared with those who stand by their marriage obligations. But these cases get a lot of publicity, while, as has often been remarked before, men and women don't go around publicly advertising how happy they are though married.

Too much discussion of the constantly recurring stories, often unfortunately with well-known names attached, of mismated and unmated and remated couples, like poorly assorted left-overs displayed on a cheap bargain counter, tend to make a farce of marriage. And in immature minds the force of suggestion acts strongly. Because these unpleasant mix-ups have the sanction of law and big names couples with small names are impelled to seek similar notoriety, as though it conferred on them a fine social flavor.

If "Kid" McCoy would go off to some desert island beyond reach of the radio he might remarry ninety-and-nine times more and no one would care a whoop.

AFTER SIXTY YEARS
Today there are nearly seven times as many teachers employed in the schools of Los Angeles county as there were pupils registered when the superintendent filed his first annual report. And the number of school buildings in the county equals the original number of children attending school.

Even for the humming West this is a pretty rapid sixty-year record. Further school figures are equally illuminating. In this same period of time the number of children enrolled has advanced from 1551 to 268,054. The cost of maintaining the schools has jumped from $4942 to $18,463,824.

In whatever light you regard these figures Los Angeles county is all to the good. They demonstrate two important points, that Los Angeles county has plenty of children to educate and plenty of education for the children.

The county that holds the record for the number of properly educated children may call itself the banner county of the United States, and Los Angeles is fast approaching that enviable distinction. In agricultural riches that county already heads the list—and an abundance of farm products and the fruits of the earth means healthy children, which is half the battle won in any educational campaign.

Lots of children, lots of dollars to spend on those children and lots of good food to nourish them—what better boost than this could any county in the whole United States ask for?

Whenever a district or a community reaches the stage of development where it is known for the unusual number of well-fed and well-educated children within its gates, that community has hitched its wagon to a star and is ready to park its car in the garden of the gods.

THE GLOOMY OBSERVER
Send the United States Senators on a ninety-day trip around the world. They would get an eye full of the conditions prevailing in Europe and would be better qualified to sit in judgment on the nation's foreign policy. Such is the expressed opinion of James D. Phelan, who until recently represented California in the American Senate. The San Francisco citizen has just returned from his own journey around the globe, but if all the Senators should view the world as with his eyes there should be no talk of a foreign jaunt for our statesmen. Former Senator Phelan is unduly pessimistic. The only relief furnished Europe had been the presence of American soldiers on the Rhine. President Harding had done the world a service by keeping them there. They had kept the French and Germans from flying at each other's throats. Mr. Phelan declares that eventually the French will invade Germany and he says that the Germans are already preparing to resist such aggression. As it is, Europe is in a turmoil of bankruptcy and peoples are careless of consequences. Other observers have not been as gloomy and somber. They insist that there is no danger of fresh embroilment between Germany and France and that both of these countries are getting on a production basis. They concede that the finances of all Europe are in a bad way, but they figure a possibility of cleaning slates for a fresh start. The pessimistic onlooker may sometimes reflect the facts, but he doesn't do much toward relieving the situation. At any rate, before our Senators embark upon a tour of the world they should take a course in seeing America first.

MONEY BACK
Los Angeles county gets $1,200,000 as its share of the motor license money collected by the State this year. This is half of the fees paid by the motorists of this particular county and is another record. Nothing like it in California. It is more than twice as much as San Francisco's share. There are 150,000 cars in Los Angeles county and most of them were drawn up along the beach last Sunday.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

Worrying about anything?

Ponder this tit-bit I have just run across.

"Nobody," soliloquized the French soldier, "should ever worry—not even if you are a young man and war has just been declared.

"You see, it's this way," he continued. "You have two alternatives: either you are mobilized or you are not. If not, you have nothing to worry about.

"If you are mobilized, either you are in camp or at the front. If you are in camp you have nothing to worry about.

"If you are at the front you have two alternatives. Either you are in the reserve or you are in the fighting line. If you are in the reserve you have nothing to worry about.

"If you are on the firing line you have two alternatives. Either you scrap or you don't. If you don't you have nothing to worry about.

"If you scrap you have two alternatives: either you get hurt or you don't. If you don't you have nothing to worry about.

"If you get hurt you have two alternatives: either you get slightly hurt or you get badly hurt. If slightly, you have nothing to worry about.

"If badly, you have two alternatives: either you recover or you don't. If you recover you have nothing to worry about.

"If you don't recover and have followed my advice clear through you have done with worry forever.

"So, what's the use of worrying?"

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE CAR MANIA

Long ago, when I was walking, such exertion I found shocking, and the auto fans were mocking, as they gayly slithered past; so I mortgaged every chattel and my house and string of cattle, like a boob with brains a-rattle, and I owned a car at last. For two months or so my flivver made my heart with rapture quiver, then I learned to sigh and shiver as I view my rusty wain; for my neighbors were reclining in their autos bright and shining, decked with purple velvet lining and all sorts of trimmings vain. So I borrowed pound and shilling from all people who were willing, and my uncle made a killing, lending money on my junk, and today I'm bravely steaming in an auto nobly gleaming, like the cars you see when dreaming in your little downy bunk. But I know a car that's better, and I yearn, oh, donnerwetter, for the day when I can get her, and look like an autocrat, and my soul will ache with sorrow if I cannot steal or borrow coin to get the bus tomorrow or the next day after that. And I see myself proceeding in that car, perversely speeding; and my bosom will be bleeding from a yearning high and bold for another car that's slicker, with a body made of wicker, and a patent duplex kicker, and a fanbelt edged with gold. WALT MASON.

MEWSINGS FROM ARKANSAW
You cannot build up a business, you cannot sell real estate, you cannot exchange your brain or brawn for cash. You cannot lift your head above the common herd unless you have spunk.

A reformer asks what is the most significant thing about our code of morals? Speaking off-hand, we should say its elasticity.

As a general thing the man who says he hears the call of duty means that he hears money talking.

Not enough married men leave their business cares at the office and too many leave their good manners there.

When prosperity shakes hands too many think the work is done and signal the picnic train for a long celebration.

In some instances there is sufficient evidence to convict the woman and in others the woman is good-looking.

A Hot Springs man has just about gone broke trying to support a touring car and a family large enough to fill it.

A smart man accepts the advice other men give. It makes other men feel good to hand it out and a man doesn't have to use it.—[Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

FIRST MORTGAGE IN HISTORY
A remarkable brick was recently dug up in the ruins of Nippur, Mesopotamia, by an archaeological expedition of the University of Pennsylvania. On this brick is engraved the conditions of the first loan definitely secured by collateral of which any record is known. It appears that a certain Bel Bullitsu and Sha Nabu Shu, being in need of thirty bushels of dates, obtained them from Bel Nadin Shun, son of Marashu, and gave as security their field, cultivated and uncultivated, and their estate. The terms of the loan show that the creditor was really given a first mortgage, because the statement is included in the "note," "Another creditor shall not have power over the land."—[Christian Science Monitor.

LOST THE CHOICE BIT
A young lady was visiting friends in the East and attended a little party one evening, in the course of which bon-bons were passed by the negro waiter. The girl spied a nice, plump chocolate on the plate, which she started to take, but it seemed to adhere to the dish. Another pull failed to dislodge it, then the darky good-humoredly remarked: "Beg pahdon, miss, but that's mah thumb."—[Altoona Tribune.

The Public and the Striker
It is difficult to comprehend the willingness of the present railway strikers to discommode the great public, which pays them their wages.

The whole proceeding is useless, even from the standpoint of the strikers, who have only to appeal to the public when they have a real grievance to get a hearing and redress. The strike will close, of course, with or without great inconvenience to the public, and the striker will take his loss. Every time he strikes on the railroad or in a coal mine he is striking directly at the public as in no other way, and, if he insists on doing so, he will force the passage of laws in this country that will make these things impossible.

It is the right of the public that is going to control in the end, and the striker himself will be the greatest sufferer. His best friend is the public, and he should go to the public for his relief. If in the meantime he keeps on working and states the case for the public, every newspaper in the United States will print it. He can have full hearing.—[Minneapolis Journal.

WHERE DO YOU COME IN?
It costs 55 per cent more to live now than it did in 1914, says the foremost price expert, the National Industrial Conference Board. If you have a record of what you made in 1914, compare it with what you are making now. If the gain is less than 55 per cent you have lost ground financially. All on the law of averages, of course.—[Capper's Weekly.

THIS IS THE DAY

Congress in 1890 passed an act providing for the inspection of pork and bacon for export, and of imported foods and cattle, and authorized the President to enforce retaliation against foreign nations that discriminated against the United States. This was the beginning of effective national pure-food legislation.

In the same year Congress passed a law for endowing agricultural and mechafical arts colleges, the money to be raised from the sale of public lands. The government now makes a permanent annual donation of $25,000 to each State for this purpose.

OUR SUNNY FRIEND

When the Yellowtail Bite

I just can't worry when the yellowtail bite,
When the fish fans gather in the morning light,
When the air is heavy with the tang of brine
And the best position on the pier is mine.
Of course, it's selfish and I ought to think
About Europe a-totterin' to ruin's brink,
But I grin and chuckle, though it isn't right
And I can't be bothered when the yellowtail bite.

Oh, my shoes are rusty and my pants are thin,
And my coatsleeves kind of let the sunshine in,
And my pocketbook's empty and my room rent's due
And the landlady's saying that I MUST kick through.
But the fish fans are crowding with their "ahs" and "ohs"
And their "here's another" and their "there she goes."
And the cork goes under as the big fish fight,
And I just can't worry when the yellowtail bite.

I can grieve about the troubles of the Irish state,
When the smelt or whitefish steal my bait.
I can fret about the welching of the hard-boiled Hun,
Or Lenin's doings when the bait-but run,
I can stew about the strikers of the rail or mine,
With the mackerel a-swarming 'round my fishing line
And grabbing hook and sinker, but it's "World goodnight
To your cares and worries when the yellowtail bite."

When Bagdad Laughed

23—Ichabod Turns Detective.

One morning as Ichabod Ibn Joab was taking his bath his eye chanced to rest upon the folds of a tent across from his domicile.

He saw a hand containing a fez thrust through the folds, he saw the fez drop to the ground, the hand withdrawn to come again into view, holding a purple jacket which was dropped to be followed by a pair of sandals and then he saw a great hulking fellow in a red beard slip out, seize the things and run down the street, putting them on as he ran.

The fellow was so evidently a thief that Ichabod would have followed and apprehended him, but before he could dress himself the red-bearded one had disappeared in the morning crowds hurrying to the mosque.

Later in the day Ichabod told Mesrour, the executioner, about the incident.

"So daring a vagabond will soon be heard from again, and apprehended, never fear," said Mesrour.

Next morning, to Ichabod's amazement, he witnessed the same performance.

Again his dishabille prevented overhauling the fellow, but he unbosomed himself again to Mesrour.

"I shall be there in the morning to help the noble fellow," said the officer of the law, "in case he again dares."

You may be sure Ichabod did not stir from his window the next morning. The same performance again, but when Mister Redbeard followed his haul he found himself in the hands of three husky mamelukes.

As soon as he was a half-block from the latter's doorway he saw the stranger step therefrom and go briskly down the street.

Ichabod ran swiftly forward, but, as he neared the door, Mesrour stepped from it and laid a hand on his shoulder.

"Is this the treatment the caliph expects you to award thieves," said Ichabod, with withering scorn, "after his faithful subjects have caught them red-handed in crime."

"Thieves, no, most noble Ichabod," said Mesrour, "but if a fond father chooses to slip away from a spoiled 3-year-old each morning, instead of stepping boldly forth, surely he may be allowed the privilege."

HUGHES AS A SPRINTER
Secretary Hughes is a sprinter. This was demonstrated this week to the satisfaction of shopkeepers and others in the vicinity of the State, War and Navy Building, when heavy rain suddenly broke over the city.

Mr. Hughes was returning from his now famous thirty-minute luncheon at the Metropolitan Club a few blocks away. The storm broke when he was within a block of the State Department. He was wearing a straw hat and had no umbrella. He did not hesitate, but sped the intervening distance and left in the ruck some government clerks who were shaking no mean leg in the same direction.—[Washington Times.

Another Vicious Circle

De Valera is reported as being at the head of a band of rebels in Ireland. In that case Eamonn won't have the opportunity of again coming to that dear old United States to pass the hat.

PEN POINTS

By the Staff

President Harding is not a quiet and easy seizor. He thinks fast.

What has become of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's prosecution of the war grafters?

The Turkish-Armenian war seems to be over. But possibly the press agent has quit his job.

The average Democrat is a hopeful creature. There is one of the breed running for United States Senator in Kansas.

Why should the world at large get excited over the marriage of Mathilde and Max? She has to live with him.

A local baby show is proposed. Thought babies were going out of fashion. How could we keep house without 'em?

Straw hats are on the bargain counters and the white shoes are growing wobbly. Both have seen their best days.

Motorists are reported as being chased by catamounts in the pass by mountain districts. Wood alcohol must be something awful.

Henry Ford will close his big Detroit plant on account of the coal shortage. His Presidential boom has quit for repairs long since.

Some of these days there will be a murderess arrested in Los Angeles who is neither young or pretty. In that case she is likely to feel the rigors of the law.

A statistician has figured out that the average man is worth 11 cents. One wishes they would not do things like that. It sounds like a marked-down price or a last year's model. Simpler people, these statisticians.

Why make so much noise over a moving-picture star spending $10,000 in gowns in Paris? She could do it right here in Los Angeles—and get something for her money.

President and Mrs. Harding voted by mail at the recent Ohio primaries. We have no inside information, but it is our guess that their choice for Governor was to get his mail at Ironton.

We should want to see the husband of Mrs. Rodney Kendrick before being asked to pass judgment upon the bargain offered by Miss Edith Huntington Sprechels Wakefield, who will pay $100 a week for him.

There has been a general reduction in the operating expenses of the railways of the country and optimists are of the opinion that some of these days there will be a loosening up of the passenger rates.

Some sweet day the question of reparation will be settled, but it is hazardous to predict just when. It has been going on ever since the armistice, and seems to be no nearer determination now than then.

With shotguns and Springfield rifles for instant use in the office of the local prohibition enforcement agent lively times are ahead for the bootleggers. But, after all, the equipment is no more deadly than the moonshine.

There are now two Reeds in the United States Senate—David of Missouri and Reed of Pennsylvania. But if the friends of Woodrow Wilson have their way in Missouri this fall there will be but one.

Between the summer adventurement of the local Federal court and the daily campaigning for Hiram Johnson by the ex-casting officials there business is at a standstill in the big building. However, their activities may be a boost instead of a boost.

With Will Hays running the moving-picture game, Judge Landis baseball and Augustus Thomas as the spoken drama, what is the matter with having a general commissioner having in charge boxing, jazz, phonographic recording, motoring, golf, etc.?

Los Angeles is to have two recalls within two weeks in September. What has become of the gentlemen's agreement, entered into some years ago, between P. T. Barnum & Bailey, Ringling Brothers, Walter Main, John Robinson, Sells Brothers and Walter Guinan giving up the country?

There is this to be said to the credit of Col. Bryan, every time he was beaten on an issue he abandoned it and hopped to the other. If free silver wasn't to go perhaps anti-imperialism would, and when that failed he was in favor of government ownership. It must be said he always was there when he was on a dead run.

THE REQUIEM OF THE ROSE

I plucked a bud from a rose that was fading.
Like a soi-disant prince of old days, forsaken and old;
Its petals pale-grown like the dawn's first blush of dawning,
When the dreams of a poet are written and told.

Pink of a delicacy time had not borrowed,
Dim-grown and neglected 'mid forests of weed;
Long since the day it had known proud abandon,
In the kingdom of roses since blown in seed.

'Tis but a hint of the blossom's splendor,
When nourished and cared with masterful skill,
It flamed in a garden, the glory of all beauty—
Sleep, tender one, on, for that is still.

Fall Frocks Take Style From Everywhere

—they flaunt innumerable new style ideas—they take Russian lines, Egyptian lines—draped styles that are classic—or that Parisian favorite, the frock that Jenny originated, with circular godets in the skirt.

Fabrics include those favorites—Canton crepe and satin-faced Canton; Crepe Renee, Crepe Mongol and others; while Poiret twills and tricotines are always high in favor.

In frocks for evening wear, metal embroidered fabrics and brocades take first place — splendid in their beauty of drapery and line.

MONNETTE SAYS CHARGES FALSE

WANTS HEARING

Regarding this action on the part of the board of directors, Mr. Monnette said in his wire that it is "unfortunate that my business partners were unwilling to give me an opportunity to be heard."

Mr. Monnette's telegram to The Times reads as follows:

"Have just disembarked from Empress of Russia from Japan and learn of Mrs. Monnette's regrettable and unnecessary action, for which there is complete answer.

"I have always met and discharged every obligation resting upon me, and any just claims of my wife and care of dear baby will be promptly satisfied. Grounds of action unfounded and wife must have been poorly advised.

"It is unfortunate that my business partners were unwilling to give me an opportunity to be heard, and proceedings in my absence behind closed doors when away on vacation granted by them must bear their own interpretation.

"I am hurrying home to answer every charge and criticism. Los Angeles citizens know my public stand for decency and square deal, and if my well-known integrity after residence and business association of fifteen years deserves anything it deserves fair consideration of my public and private conduct toward every man and woman, which is clean, square, and straightforward in every way. I don't do dirty, reprehensible things, and can look everyone full in the face on any proposition."

MARRIED BEFORE

Mr. Monnette is 50 years old and came to Los Angeles from Ohio in 1907 and has been a prominent figure in financial and social circles since his arrival. He is a director of the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank; the Citizens National Bank, the Los Angeles Trust and Title Company, the Mortgage Guarantee Company; is president of the Bankers' Oil Company, of the Los Angeles Library Board, and on many patriotic societies. He is a member of the California, Jonathan Union League, Los Angeles Athletic, Los Angeles Country, Scribes and Uplifters Clubs. He is author of "Monnette Family Genealogy," and "California Chronology."

This is Mr. Monnette's second marital misadventure. The first ended in September 1916, when Mrs. Lucille J. Monnette, to whom he had been married for twenty years, filed suit for divorce on a statutory charge involving a corespondent. The suit for divorce followed a separation of several years, and it was reported at the time that Mrs. Monnette's financial independence had been assured by the large settlement made by her husband.

The present Mrs. Monnette was, prior to their marriage in 1917, Mr. Monnette's secretary. She is now living at 350 South Oxford avenue.

BAY CITY OFFICIALS ENLISTED

Long Beach Police Seek Man Wanted on Larceny Charges

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 29.—Long Beach police have asked the San Francisco authorities to assist them in locating C. W. Farmer, wanted here on charge of larceny, following his asserted victimizing of two local business men. Two telegrams signed "Dr. L. H. Annis," advising the local victims that Farmer had been hurt in an auto accident and was under a physician's care in San Francisco, are declared by local police to be filed by Farmer himself, with a view to throwing the victims off his trail.

Farmer, posing as a wealthy business man from the East, is declared to have secured $100 from J. C. Grobaty, of the Jonah store, 314 East Anaheim avenue, and $350 from L. A. Arnold, owner of an auto paint shop through notes obtained by misrepresentation. Soon thereafter Farmer disappeared and on the 10th inst. Grobaty and Arnold each received the following telegram from San Francisco:

"C. W. Farmer badly hurt in an auto accident near Los Angeles. I happened to be there. He is a friend of mine and wealthy. He has no friends, so will take care of him and will write you details. Mr. Farmer says for you not to worry."

The telegram bore the signature of Dr. L. H. Annis, but San Francisco police have advised the local authorities that no physician of that name is registered with the San Francisco Medical Association, and there is no doctor of that name in that city.

WATER SUPPLIED BY HAIWEE RESERVOIR

AQUEDUCT PIPELINE TO LOS ANGELES IS BEING REPAIRED

Los Angeles is now receiving and will continue during the next two or three weeks to receive its water supply from the Haiwee reservoir, while repairs are being made on the Aqueduct pipeline as a result of a cloudburst causing tons of rock and gravel to become dislodged and to fall into and block the open conduit pipeline ten miles north of Haiwee, near the town of Olancha. As the Haiwee reservoir is full and contains enough water to supply all the needs of Los Angeles for six months, if necessary, no alarm is felt by the Board of Public Service Commissioners.

The open conduit pipeline of the Aqueduct was blocked by rock and gravel for a distance of 2000 feet. One steam shovel is now at work removing the material which blocked the waterflow, and a second steam shovel is now on the way from Los Angeles to the scene of the blockade.

Chief Engineer Mulholland and Assistant Chief Engineer Van Norman are personally directing the force of men who are opening up the choked pipeline, and they notified the Los Angeles office city officials that within two weeks the water will again be running through the line.

For Men, Women and Children

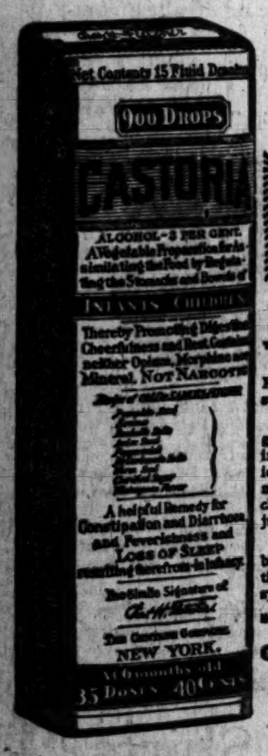
Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no night so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance.

When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's?

For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

NO ENEMY SLEW OESTERREICH

Spite Theory Abandoned in Murder Case

Factory Manager Knew No Business Grudge

Police Satisfied Burglar Shot Down Victim

"In all the fourteen years I was in the employ of Mr. Oesterreich I never knew him to have made a business enemy, nor to have incurred the enmity of any person who would desire to murder him," declared Harry Vose, manager of the Milwaukee factory of Fred Oesterreich, who was shot down and killed in his home at 858 North Andrews Boulevard last Wednesday.

Mr. Vose made the above statement to Detective Sergt. Herman Cline, head of the police homicide squad, at Central Police Station yesterday. At the conclusion of the brief interview with Mr. Vose, Detective Cline declared he was satisfied that the murderer of the wealthy garment manufacturer was one of two burglars whom he had surprised in the act of ransacking his home.

EVERY ANGLE SIFTED

"We have thoroughly sifted every angle of the investigation," said Cline, "and found nothing that would indicate that the person who fired the three bullets into Mr. Oesterreich's body had any other motive than to escape from the scene of a probable burglary. There was but one loophole left and that was the information which Mr. Vose might have been able to give us. Now that Mr. Vose says he knows of no one who would have wished to kill Mr. Oesterreich, I am satisfied that he was shot by a burglar."

HAS NO COPY OF WILL

The possibility of there having been any information contained in a will left by Mr. Oesterreich was put at an end when Mr. Vose declared that he did not bring a copy of the document with him, although he understood that there was a copy in the Milwaukee offices. He said he did not know where Oesterreich kept the original will.

DISTURBERS BLAMED

Postmaster Denies Any Wage Cut of Employees is Contemplated

Postmaster O'Brien said yesterday that the efforts of a few postal employees, as indicated by a typewritten notice to postal clerks declaring that a reduction in salaries was contemplated by the government, is a complete fabrication, and planned by disturbers in the service to make trouble.

The truth is, as the clerks well know, that within the past two or three years the postoffice administration has raised the salaries of postoffice employees very substantially, and there has never been any indication that a cut was considered, said the postmaster.

The circular is another straw man, set up with absolutely no kernal of truth, tending to frighten and disrupt the organization, harmful to postal service and to the country, Mr. O'Brien asserted.

BURY CANFIELD IN PROVIDENCE

Investigation of His Death Cause Promised

Was Under Charges Here for Holding "Parties"

Rumors of Secret Marriage Stoutly Denied

With the arrival in Providence, R. I., of the body of "Dick" Canfield, Jr., son and heir of the millionaire sportsman by the same name, it became known yesterday that Judge Louis W. Dunn, guardian of the young man, would begin an immediate investigation into the ause of the mysterious death of Canfield, who was out on bail here on charges of disturbing the peace by wild parties at his Hollywood home.

Canfield's body was accompanied to the eastern State from San Francisco after its arrival from Honolulu by G. D. Casey of the Christie Hotel, Hollywood. Casey, it is said, was an old-time friend of "Dick Jr."

SERVICES PRIVATE

Funeral services will be held at noon tomorrow at the Swan Point Cemetery Chapel, Providence. The last rites will be private. Only relatives and the young man's guardian will attend.

Considerable mystery seems to have surrounded the death of Canfield. Varying reports as to the cause of his death have reached this city. Reports differ as to whether it was ptomaine poisoning or acute alcoholism.

Associated with the name of Canfield, who arrived in Hollywood last April, were the stories of all night orgies at his home, 6474 Fountain avenue—parties that twice landed him before the Police Court to answer charges of disturbing the peace.

On each charge, however, he was released on bond after his attorneys had appealed his case. The hearings were set for the early part of September.

SAILS FOR HAWAII

On July 24, last, Canfield, in company with Mr. Casey and Bret Bowers, son of a prominent official of the General Motors Company, left San Francisco for Honolulu. Two days prior to leaving Los Angeles, Canfield visited his attorneys, Verge & Willson. At that time he appeared to be in good physical condition. That was the last time he was seen in Los Angeles by friends or acquaintances, it is said.

When news of his death reached here last Wednesday it created a sensation, as details were lacking.

Rumors of a secret marriage to a Providence girl by the name of Valentine, in Los Angeles, shortly before Canfield left for Honolulu, were reported in circulation at Providence yesterday. They were stoutly denied by Judge Dunn.

Verge & Willson are awaiting instructions from Judge Dunn. They say that startling disclosures may be made within a few days.

SHOOTS SON AS BURGLAR

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Leon Rupkowsky, an alderman, mistaking his son Frank, 21 years of age, for a burglar, shot and perhaps fatally wounded him at their home early today.

Long lines but no tedious waiting

Where you see long lines of people you may be certain there is something interesting.

Long lines in front of a box office attest the popularity of a play; at a cafeteria, they are indicative of the excellence of the foods and fairness of the prices.

It is no uncommon occurrence to find long lines at Boos Bros.' Cafeterias, especially during "rush hours." These lines move quickly. You may be last in line, but—choosing the things to eat you like best. In no instance are there less than three, and, in some instances, five serving tables at our cafeterias. That is why people are not hesitant about "getting in line" here.

Keep out of speculation. Play safe. Keep away from speculators. Remember tombstones always convey a good word, but don't forget there is something dead under every one of them. Also remember that 97% of all business ventures fail. Avoid gambling and speculation. Don't be fooled by one success like Bell telephone stock, (which you never had a chance to buy, anyway,) but place your dollar where it is not only safe but will get for you all it earns; its natural growth. The natural growth of the dollar when properly used in its ultimate is above 25%.

This corporation trades in the dollar—buys and sells mortgages—trust deeds—and other securities where the money placed is safe; always using the dollar to buy a dollar's worth for less—and thus turn it over time after time. It is on the turn-over that wealth is made. Interest works without cease or let up. Relatives of Harding and Lincoln Count Votes

Mrs. Helen L. Tilbury (left) and Ansel A. Harding

WITH a cousin of President Harding and the late President Harrison acting as inspector, and a cousin of the immortal Lincoln as one of the judges, it is no wonder that the voters of the new precinct No. 55 considered it their patriotic duty to visit the booth at 3712 South Figueroa street yesterday and avail themselves of the right of suffrage.

Ansel A. Harding, the inspector for the precinct, who lives at 3640 South Hope street, is a third cousin of President Harding on his father's side of the family tree, and a fourth cousin of the late President Harrison, on his mother's side.

Mrs. Helen L. Tilbury, of 3618 South Flower street, one of the judges, is a fifth cousin of the Great Emancipator, her great-great-grandmother and Lincoln's mother having been sisters.

Yesterday was the first time votes had ever been cast in the newly-created precinct and by noon nearly half of the registered voters of the precinct had cast their ballots. Most of the voters were Republicans. They hadn't the heart to be anything else with such an aggregation of election officials staring them in the face.

Chamber Will Hear Head of Finance Board

Los Angeles business men who returned yesterday from a conference at Del Monte of more than 100 leaders in Pacific Coast commerce and finance, complimented highly the address made before the gathering by Magnus Alexander, chairman of the National Industry Conference Board, who will be guest of honor and principal speaker at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon at noon today at the Alexandria.

Mr. Alexander's visit to Los Angeles comes during the greatest display of industries ever exhibited in the West, which is being shown at the Pageant of Progress, enabling Los Angeles to demonstarte in the most practial way, its status as an industrial and trading center.

Visiting buyers will be welcomed at the chamber luncheon. Reservations may be made at the offices of the organization.

who should be trustee of my estate?

this question is ably answered by the financial Editor of a great New York paper as follows~

"By all means have your lawyer draw a will for you, and do it without delay. Then arrange with a trust company to act as executor and trustee of your estate.

"Your wife, in the event she survives you, will then be protected from vendors of spurious stocks and bonds. She will have no responsibility of reinvesting funds, and thus there will be no danger that your money will go into speculative securities. She will have at her call reliable counselors in all her business problems.

"The trust company is infinitely better equipped through experience and facilities to take care of estates than any individual."

THE MASQUERADER

By Katherine Cecil Thurston

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

John Chilcote, rich and influential member of the House of Commons, representing East Wark, at almost the beginning of what promises to be a brilliant career, falls a victim to the morphine habit. Like all addicts he keeps the vice secret, blaming his nerves for increasing irritability and inability to face the difficult problems in Parliament, particularly in connection with the government's policy in Persia. Speaking for a powerful combination, Chilcote is courted upon by Pride, the opposition party leader, to lead the attack in the House of Commons. Chilcote trying to balance his vice on one shoulder and his political position on the other, has become practically estranged from his wife, but has received himself in an intrigue with a pretty, but frivolous widow, Lady Asturgis. One night leaving the House of Commons at adjournment, Chilcote is caught in a typical London fog. Groping his way he stumbles into another wayfarer and a chance conversation leads to an acquaintance of cigarettes. Just as one is holding a light for the other, the flaring lights and dark leads apparently into his own face. They are exact duplicates in everything and features. Chilcote learns the other is John Loder, an unsuccessful writer and student of politics. The next day Chilcote has his attention called to a book, "Other Men's Shoes," in which two persons exchange identities. When a day later he almost collapses in the House of Commons because he has forgotten to bring his morphia tablets, he decides to call on Loder at his humble quarters. There Chilcote proposes that they change places at stated periods whenever he feels the craving to give himself over to the drug; Loder to be paid to impersonate him at home and in the House of Commons. The latter tempted and persuaded by ambition finally consents. The only point of noticable difference between the two men is a scar on one of Loder's fingers. This he proposes to remedy by wearing two rings. Chilcote at first objects, saying he never wears rings."

Chilcote again altered his position, avoiding the other's eyes. At last, after a struggle with himself, he looked up.

"I suppose you're right!" he said. "Have it your own way." It was the first small, tangible concession to the stronger will.

Loder took his victory quietly. "Good!" he said. "Then it's all straight sailing?"

"Except for the matter of the—the remuneration." Chilcote hasarded the word uncertainly.

There was a faint pause, then Loder laughed brusquely. "My pay?"

The other was embarrassed. "I didn't want to put it quite like that."

"But that was what you thought. Why are you never honest—even with yourself?"

Chilcote drew his chair closer to the table. He did not attend to the other's remark, but his fingers strayed to his waistcoat pocket and fumbled there.

Loder saw the gesture. "Look here," he said, "you are overtaxing yourself. The affair of the pay isn't pressing; we'll shelve it to another night. You look tired out."

Chilcote lifted his eyes with a relieved glance. "Thanks. I do feel a bit fagged. If I may, I'll have that whisky that I refused last night."

"Why, certainly," Loder rose at once and crossed to a cupboard in the wall. In silence he brought out whisky, glasses, and a siphon of soda-water. "Say when!" he said, lifting the whisky.

"Now. And I'll have plain water instead of soda, if it's all the same."

"Oh, quite." Loder recrossed the room. Instantly his back was turned, Chilcote drew a couple of tabloids from his pocket and dropped them into his glass. As the other came slowly back he laughed nervously.

"Thanks. See to your own drink now; I can manage this." He took the jug unceremoniously, and, carefully guarding his glass from the light, poured in the water with excited hasta.

"What shall we drink to?" he said.

Loder methodically mixed his own drink and lifted the glass. "Oh, to the career of John Chilcote!" he answered.

For an instant the other hesitated. There was something prophetic in the sound of the toast. But he shook the feeling off and held up his glass.

"To the career of John Chilcote!" he said, with another unsteady laugh.

Chapter VII

It was less than three weeks since Chilcote and Loder had drunk their toast, and again Loder was seated at his desk.

His head was bent and his hand moved carefully as he traced line after line of meaningless words on a sheet of foolscap. Having covered the page with writing, he rose, moved to the center-table, and compared his task with an open letter that lay there. The comparison seemed to please him; he straightened his shoulders and threw back his head in an attitude of critical satisfaction. So absorbed was he that when a step sounded on the stairs outside, he did not notice it, and only raised his head when the door was thrown open unceremoniously. Even then his interest was momentary.

"Hullo!" he said, his eyes returning to their scrutiny of his task.

Chilcote shut the door and came hastily across the room. He looked ill and harassed. As he reached Loder he put out his hand nervously and touched his arm.

Loder looked up. "What is it?" he asked. "Any new development?"

Chilcote tried to smile. "Yes," he said, huskily; "it's come."

Loder freed his arm. "What? The end of the world?"

"No. The end of me." The words came jerkily, the strain that had enforced them showing in every syllable.

Still Loder was uncomprehending; he could not, or would not, understand.

Again Chilcote caught and jerked at his sleeve. "Don't you see? Can't you see?"

"No."

Chilcote dropped the sleeve and passed his handkerchief across his forehead. "It's come," he repeated. "Don't you understand? I want you." He drew away, then stepped back again anxiously. "I know I'm taking you unawares," he said. "But it's not my fault. On my soul, it's not! The thing seems to spring at me and grip me—" He stepped, sinking weakly into a chair.

For a moment Loder stood erect and immovable; then, almost with reluctance, his glance turned to the figure beside him.

"You want me to take your place tonight—without preparation?" His voice was distinct and firm, but it was free from contempt.

"Yes; yes, I do." Chilcote spoke without looking up.

"That you may spend the night in morphia?—this and other nights?"

Chilcote lifted a flushed, unsettled face. "You have no right to preach. You accepted the bargain."

Loder raised his head quickly. "I never—" he began; then both his face and voice altered. "You are quite right," he said, coldly. "You won't have to complain again."

Chilcote stirred uncomfortably. "My dear chap," he said, "I meant no offense. It's merely—"

"Your nerves. I know. But come to business. What am I to do?"

Chilcote rose excitedly. "Yes, business. Let's come to business. It's rough on you, taking you short like this. But you have an erratic person to deal with. I've had a horrible day—a horrible day." His face had paled again, and in the green lamplight it possessed a grayish hue. Involuntarily Loder turned away.

Chilcote watched him as he passed to the desk and began mechanically sorting papers. "A horrible day!" he repeated. "So bad that I daren't face the night. You have read De Quincey?" he asked, with a sudden change of tone.

"Yes."

"Then read him again and you'll understand. I have all the horrors—without any art. I have no 'Ladies of Sorrow,' but I have worse monsters than his crocodile.'" He laughed unpleasantly.

Loder turned. "Why in the devil's name—" he began; then again he halted. Something in Chilcote's drawn, excited face checked him. The strange sense of predestination that we sometimes see in the eyes of another struck cold upon him, chilling his last attempt at remonstrance. "What do you want me to do?" he substituted, in an ordinary voice.

The words steadied Chilcote. He laughed a little. The laugh was still shaky, but it was pitched in a lower key.

"You—you're quite right to pull me up. We have no time to waste. It must be one o'clock." He pulled out his watch, then walked to the window and stood looking down into the shadowy court. "How quiet you are here!" he said. Then abruptly a new thought struck him and he wheeled back into the room. "Loder," he said, quickly—"Loder, I have an idea! While you are me, why shouldn't I be you? Why shouldn't I be John Loder instead of the vagrant—we contemplated? It covers everything—it explains everything. It's magnificent! I'm amazed we never thought of it before."

Loder was still beside the desk. "I thought of it," he said, without looking back.

"And didn't suggest it?"

"No."

"Why?"

Loder said nothing and the other colored.

"Jealous of your reputation?" he said, satirically.

"I have none to be jealous of." Chilcote laughed disagreeably. "Then you aren't so far gone in philosophy as I thought. You have a niche in your own good opinion."

Again Loder was silent; then he smiled. "You have an oddly correct perception at times," he said. "I suppose I have had a lame sort of pride in keeping my name clean. But pride like that is out of fashion—and I've got to float with the tide." He laughed, the short laugh that Chilcote had heard once or twice before, and, crossing the room, he stood beside his visitor. "After all," he said, "what business have I with pride, straight or lame? Have my identity, if you want it. When all defenses have been broken down one barrier won't save the town." Laughing again, he laid his hand on the other's arm. "Come," he said, "give your orders. I capitulate."

An hour later the two men passed from Loder's bedroom, where the final arrangements had been completed, back into the sitting-room. Loder came first, in faultless evening-dress. His hair was carefully brushed; the clothes he wore fitted him perfectly. To any glance, critical or casual, he was the man who had mounted the stairs and entered the rooms earlier in the evening. Chilcote's manner of walking and poise of the head seemed to have descended upon him with Chilcote's clothes. He came into the room hastily and passed to the desk.

"I have no private papers," he said, "so I have nothing to lock up. Everything can stand as it is. A woman named Robins comes in the mornings to clean up and light the fire; otherwise you must shift for yourself. Nobody will disturb you. Quite, dead quiet, is about the one thing you can count on."

Chilcote half halting in the doorway, made an attempt to laugh. Of the two, he was noticeably the more embarrassed.

"By jove!" he said. "I clean forgot."

"What?" Loder looked around.

"The rings. The duplicates only arrived this afternoon. The nick of time, eh? As I told you, one is the copy of an old signet-ring, the other a plain band—a plain gold band like a wedding-ring."

Loder touched the rings. "You have good taste," he said. "Let's see if they serve their purpose?" He picked them up and carried them to the lamp.

Chilcote followed him. "That was an ugly wound," he said, his curiosity reawakening as Loder extended his finger. "How did you come by it?"

The other smiled. "It's a memento," he said.

"Of bravery?"

"No. Quite the reverse." He looked again at his hand, then glanced back at Chilcote. "No," re repeated, with an unusual impulse of confidence. "It serves to remind me that I am not exempt—that I have been fooled like other men."

"That implies a woman?"

"Yes. This thing happened eight years ago at Santasalare," he said, "a little place between Luna and Pistoria—a mere handful of houses wedged between two hills. I had literally stumbled upon the place on a long tramp south from Switzerland, and had been tempted into a stay at the little inn. The night after my arrival, there was an accident to the train at the point where it skirted the village. As a matter of fact, the smash was not disastrous; the passengers were hurt and frightened, but nobody was killed.

"Among these passengers was an English lady. When I came upon her she was sitting on the shattered door of one of the carriages, calmly rearranging her hat. On seeing me she looked up with the most charming smile imaginable.

"'I have just been waiting for somebody like you,' she said. 'My stupid maid has got herself smashed up somewhere in the second-class carriages, and I have nobody to help me to find my dog.'

ARRESTED FOR FAKER IS CHARGE

Asserted False Income Tax Returns Lodges Hollywood Man in Jail

Edwin Anderson, former head of the Industrial Machine and Equipment Company of Chicago, but who has recently built and occupied a handsome home on Whitley Terrace, Hollywood, was taken into custody yesterday by Dep. U. S. Marshal Finn and Special Agent Cooper, representing U. S. Commissioner Blair, of the Internal Revenue Department, Washington, on an indictment returned by the Federal grand jury in Chicago, charging him with evading his internal revenue taxes of 1920 and making a false return of the same.

His bond was fixed at $20,000, which he furnished for his appearance in Chicago, to answer the indictment, which sets out his shortage in three counts.

It is asserted that his return for the year 1920, was but $62,179, when it should have been many thousands larger.

It is declared that he omitted from his return one item of $26,166, representing commission on sales for the Yates Machine Company of Beloit, Wis.; another is a similar charge relating to his own company, the Industrial Machine and Equipment Company of $53,128, and a third count asserted that he failed to report commissions amounting to $9436, received from the Wilkinson-Challoner Company of Oshkosh, Wis.

It is said by the Federal authorities that Anderson has been sought for months, and they were only able to locate him in Hollywood from the fact that he had put his real estate holdings in that suburb in the maiden name of his wife. It is stated that for a time Anderson was in Northern Mexico, but he has been living in Los Angeles for the past three months.

Anderson himself says there is nothing substantial in the allegations of the indictment, and that he will be able to clear up the situation when he returns to Chicago for trial.

CHANCE TO TAKE TRIP NEARS END

Tomorrow Closing Day for Reservations on Chamber's Excursion to Honolulu

Final arrangements for the sailing of the City of Los Angeles, the palatial liner that will leave Los Angeles Harbor Monday, September 11, for Honolulu, bearing a party of Chamber of Commerce excursionists, are being made today by the Trade Extension Department of the organization.

Tomorrow has been named as the closing date for reservations, and those desiring to join the representative group of Southern Californians who will visit the magic isles are warned by Secretary Wiggins of the chamber to lose no time, as no reservations can be accepted after the closing date.

A nationally known humorist, whose home is in the southern part of the State, may join the party of Angelenos at the last moment, according to a letter received yesterday by the chamber, containing numerous inquiries and an admission that he knew nothing about modern vessels and "couldn't tell the baptain from the janitor." His chief concern was embodied in the inquiry: "Does a passenger have to go on your side trips and excursions, and attend banquets and prayer meetings, whether he wants to or not? Or is he allowed to do as he darn pleases?"

The chamber sent a reassuring reply to the effect that there are no rules and regulations governing the social features, although highly entertaining programs are being planned for the periods aboard ship and ashore. Advices from Hilo and Honolulu indicate that the natives will outdo themselves in giving a welcome to the Southern Californians.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

OFFENSIVE TONSILS

Have you ever felt a little tickling in the throat and, upon coughing slightly to remove the irritation, had a small whitish cheesey body, from the size of a pinpoint to the size of a rice kernel come from the throat? And have you observed that this little body gives forth an odor which is about the most odoriforous odof you ever encountered? If any smell can be said to smell to high heaven, it would certainly qualify. You wonder how such an inoffensive looking little speck could manage to pack onto itself such a load.

These little cheesey bodies come from crypts or pockets in the tonsils. In unhealthy tonsils, where there are enlarged crypts, they form frequentlv and they in turn keep the tonsils in an unhealthy condition and the breath bad. They are composed of cast-off epithelial and lymphatic cells of the tonsils, some cholesterin and many bacteria.

Cholesterin is a fat-like substance also found in gallstones, bile and nerve substance. The odor from these bodies is not due to the cholesterin, but to the decomposition by the bacteria.

Healthy tonsils may have a certain amount of these cheesey materials accumulate, but it is not abnormal, unless there is a long retention of them or the formation of too large bodies. In these cases there may be a chronic low-grade of inflammation arise from them. This may be the source of a chronic toxemia or poisoning of the system. It may also be the source of acute inflammation of the tonsils.

In the so-called buried tonsils—that is, the tonsils which do not stand out, but are held down by the pillars and the mucous membrane in the throat—the crypts may be more torturous and deep and they retain these cast-off materials more than the tonsils which are more exposed. There may be small abscesses form in the deeper crypts. These small and buried tonsils are more subject to quinzy or peritonsilar abscesses, abscesses which form between the capsule of the tonsil and the muscle wall of the throat.

The infection probably goes through these crypts. There are great systemic disturbances in cases of quinzy, the same as in an acute case of inflamed tonsils. There may be chills followed by fever, very great pain in the throat, difficulty in opening the mouth, no appetite, constipation, increased saliva, etc.

The tonsil will be pushed outward by the swelling back of it, but may not in itself show inflammation or swelling.

After the abscess has formed there may be a spontaneous rupture. It may heal now or it may become chronic with an occasional discharge of pus. It is best not to wait for this spontaneous rupture because it may not rupture in a safe spot and there may be too much swelling and edema in the throat. It is better to have the abscess incised and drained out as early as possible.

Washes and sprays will accomplish very little. A frequent gargle made with one teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda (baking soda) or one teaspoonful of salt, or the combination of the two, to one pint of hot water, relieve the pain. Hot compresses around the throat are soothing.

Tonsils which are subject to recurring acute inflammations o tonsils which are chronicly inflamed are doing a great deal of harm to the system and the harm far outweighs their usefulness. In fact, it can safely be said that tonsils of such a character have no usefulness, and they had better be removed.

They furnish a focus of infection which keeps a steady supply of poisons and bacteria circulating in the blood. These settle particularly in the joints and heart valves. It is rare to see a case of acute articular rheumatism that has not given a history of acute tonsilitis.

Tonsils should not be removed simply because they are enlarged or ragged or because of an occasional sore throat, nor is it justifiable to remove the tonsils in children simply because the adenoids have to be removed. They should be removed, however, when it is fully established that they are a danger to the health.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Fancy Hosiery

Silver designs embroidered on them make a striking pair of silk stockings for evening wear.

Flannels

Never rub soap directly on flannels. Wash them in soapy water and rinse in lukewarm clear water.

Oilcloth Doilies

Oil cloth luncheon sets are lovely for summertime. They are cool looking and a great saving on the laundry bill at a time when the wash is large.

Stained Vessels

If the saucepan is badly stained from cooking, put a little vinegar into it, heat and boil for a few minutes. When the pan is washed it will look like new.

Avoid Crumbs in Bed

When taking toast, or any crisp article of food, to an invalid, first cut it into strips. This will avoid a shower of crumbs over the bed when the food is broken.

Good-Looking Pastry

Brush the top of the pie with sweet milk before baking to make it shiny and brown.

A Peck of Pickles

A slice of horseradish placed on the top of the vinegar when bottling pickles will preserve the flavor.

Quick Freezing

When making frosen custard, pour the mixture hot into the freezer. The contact of the heat and cold will cause it to freese in half the time.

Keep the Machine Clean

Keep the underwork of your sewing machine in good order. Clean and oil it frequently and you will have less trouble with the working end of it.

Household Notes

Chicken fat makes excellent pastry.

Have a fire extinguisher in the house.

Use oyster sauce with the broiled fowl.

Well-ripened fruit requires less sugar when making pies, puddings, etc.

A DRESS THAT WILL MAKE YOU LOOK SLIM

To camouflage one's stoutness is undoubtedly the aim of every woman who is a bit heavy and if she will study just exactly what becomes her, she should have no difficulty looking slim. There are many points to be remembered by the woman who would look slim and in this frock she has all the good points combined. The V-neck cut almost to the waist turned back to form revers is most becoming. The up-and-down line formed by the bib-like section running from the shoulder and over the bust is certain to make one look thin. The uneven hemline formed by the side panels is also good. As many stout women are averse to bows of any kind it might be suggested that she tie the sash ends just once over and let them hang at the back. This style would look exceedingly well in foulard, crepe de Chine, poplin or even voile. But most women who are making any clothes at this season of the year would like something that they could wear in the early fall as well as now so we would suggest crepe de Chine, which is only about $2.00 per yard and your whole dress would only cost about $9.00. It is a dress that you should find no difficulty in fitting and so would take only about two or three days to make. If it is going to be a cool-looking affair of voile all a frock like this would cost you about $1.50 figuring voile @ 25c per yard and organdie for collar, vest and cuffs @ 40c per yard.

The pattern No. 1474 cuts in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 4¼ yards 36-inch material with ⅝ yard 36-inch contrasting.

When you order your pattern, we think it would pay you to enclose 10 cents extra to receive a copy of our SUMMER FASHION MAGAZINE which shows about 400 styles, including several pages of embroidery designs, and contains a seven-lesson course in dressmaking.

JURY WILL GET CASE ON FRIDAY

State to Call Several Rebuttal Witnesses Against "Herb" Wilson

With the statement of the prosecution made late yesterday that from ten to fifteen rebuttal witnesses would be called before the State would rest its case against "Herb" Wilson, former minister and asserted millionaire bandit, charged with the murder of Herbert Cox, his pal and co-defendant on a mail robbery charge, when they were attempting to escape through the "Bridge of Sighs," it appeared that the case could not possibly reach the jury before Friday evening.

The trial will be resumed this morning, with the defense finishing their testimony. Attorney Paul Schenk for the defendant, said that this would probably require about thirty minutes. Schenk plans to call three or four character witnesses to support the testimony of Morris Wilson, after which the defense will rest its case.

Provided the prosecution calls in the rebuttal witnesses, the defense may be allotted time for surrebuttal so that the final argument may not begin until Thursday.

While the defense attorneys do not anticipate that Judge J. Perry Wood will put any time limit on the argument, they are preparing themselves to meet any emergency that may occur in the final disposal of the case.

Plans Made to Screen Plays of Aaron Hoffman

Aaron Hoffman, the well known playwright and satirist, is coming to Los Angeles, and it is possible he may make his home here, if negotiations that he has under way to produce a series of his best known plays for the films are worked out.

Hoffman is the author of "Friendly Enemies," "Welcome Stranger," "Give and Take," the recent Colb and Dill success, and the two Willy Collier hits "Nothing but the Truth" and "Nothing but Lies."

Hoffman is also brought here at this time to attend the premiere production on next Monday night at the Mason of "Be Careful Dearie," a farce comedy by Mr. Hoffman for which Victor Shertzinger has written the music. It is being produced here by Dana Hayes with an all-Manhattan cast and with Evan Borrow Fontaine as the featured dancer.

LASKY ANNOUNCES BARRIE AND HERGESHEIMER

By Grace Kingsley

If the great theatergoing public isn't educated up to the best in literature during the coming season, it isn't going to be the fault of Famous Players-Lasky and Paramount. Many famous stories are to be filmed, and the eastern studios as well as the western are to be run to capacity, according to the statement yesterday of Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the organization.

One of the most important announcements made is to the effect that Hergesheimer's famous story, "Java Head," is to be produced as a film, with George Melford directing, and an all-star cast appearing in it. The picture will be made in the East, in the original locations used as a background in the story, viz., in and around Boston, with some quaint old corners still existent in that locality filmed.

The Chinese scenes, however, will be made at the studio and in New York's Chinatown. The author himself will collaborate with Waldemar Young in the adapting of the story.

Leatrice Joy, who has been in training for Chinese girls for some time, having played at least two roles of that sort, is to have the appealing part of the Chinese girl, while Jacqueline Logan will play the part of Rose, the American girl. Raymond Hatton has been cast for the role of the unhappy dope fiend. The remainder of the cast will be engaged in New York.

Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella" is another famous story which will be filmed. No director has as yet been chosen, but his name will be announced within a day or two.

May McAvoy, who seems somehow just made to order to play the wistful Barrie heroines, is to have the Maude Adams role in the picture. The remainder of the cast has yet to be engaged, but it promises to be an all-star one. The picture will probably be made here.

The popular Rodolph Valentino's next picture is to be directed by Allan Dwan. Valentino will return to this city next week. He will, say the reports, come alone, his wife remaining in the East.

The eastern studios will have several companies at work. Thomas Meighan is to make two pictures back there, remaining in New York until after the holidays. Dorothy Dalton starts work early in September. Elsie Ferguson is to make a film version of her most famous play, "Outcast," and with the Melford picture under way, the place will be as busy as a camp meeting.

Meighan is in receipt of an invitation from George Ade to stop over at the latter's home, at Brook, Ind., for a visit. Ade's big country place boasts a private golf links, so it is likely that when Ade and Meighan aren't talking over Meighan's story, which Ade is writing, they will be whanging away at the illusive spheres.

Another announcement of interest is to the effect that Eva Novak has been added to the cast of "Making a Man," Jack Holt's current starring vehicle. Joseph Henabery is directing. Other members of the cast are Bert Woodruff, Frank Nelson, J. P. Lockney and Robert Dudley.

Harry Fox Flits

Harry Fox, Orpheum star, departs today for San Francisco, where he is to make arrangements for a Coast production of "O Look!" He says he's going to put Nat Goldstein, a San Francisco capitalist, into the show business!

Garson Films Riley

Celluloid immortality is just bound to happen to the late Whitcomb Riley, it would seem. "The Old Swimming Hole,' and others have been duly rendered into film terms, and now another is about to find its way to the screen.

The latest Riley opus, which it has been decided the fans are just hankering to see is "An Old Sweetheart of Mine,' which Harry Garson is to produce at the Clara Kimball Young studio in Edendale. Mr. Garson will himself direct the picture.

An all-star cast is to appear in the picture, and already the three principal members have been engaged. They are Helen Eddy, Lloyd Whitlock and Elliott Dexter. Dexter it to have the hero role and Miss Eddy the "sweetheart" part. Whitlock's heavies are growing lighter and lighter, until it looks as though he will soon graduate into the hero class himself. The present heavy which he is playing in the Garson picture is very light indeed.

Fitzmaurice to Direct Pola

George Fitzmaurice has been engaged to direct Pola Negri in "Bella Donna," and Ouida Bergere, his wife, is preparing the continuity.

They are making special preparations for the reception of Miss Negri in the matter of dressing-room accommodations at the Lasky studio, and a house in Hollywood is being engaged for her use. Asked whether she wished a special cook, Miss Negri is said to have replied laughingly that while her heart was all Polish, her digestion was quite international.

Mary Philbin Prepares

No, Mary Philbin isn't excitedly gathering together a wardrobe for "Merry-Go-Round," which would knock out the eye of a Parisian modiste, nor is she hiding away in the mountains, for a week's rest before starting her dominating performances in the Universal-Super-Jewel, which Von Stroheim has already put into production, and in which she will have the greatest opportunity ever accorded to a girl of her age in pictures.

In the first place, Von Stroheim is selecting the wardrobe himself, because it is to be period garb, and not at all what fashionable girls of today are familiar with. And Mary needs no rest. She's too healthy and quite as full of strength and vivacity as any first-class American girl.

Emulating the young man who learned to swim by correspondence course, Miss Philbin is delving into all sorts of literature in an effort to absorb something more of life than a girl of her years and innocence can possibly know. The course of reading was laid out for her by Von Stroheim himself. She is following it religiously—if that is the right word—and reports herself as coming on nicely with the culture stuff.

Mitzi Hajos Soon

Unless Fate double-crosses us, we are going to have a chance to see the lively Mitzi Hajos this fall at the Mason. She is to come West shortly, playing San Francisco and Los Angeles in "Lady Billy," her newest musical comedy.

Miss Hajos, who in private life is Mrs. Boyd Marshall, arrived in New York with her husband from a trip to Europe last week. This is Mitzi's first trip abroad since before the war. While in Budapest, her original home, she bought a large apartment-house and presented it to her mother as a gift.

"These huge buildings are not an investment in Hungary that would attract a capitalist," said Mitzi, "for the apartments, which would equal a twelve-room apartment here, now rent for $36 a year, and I bought it at a bargain too. It cost the original owenr $150,000, and it cost me $15,000."

Dorothy Gordon Coming On

Whether there are any four-leaf clovers in the lawn over at the Hollywood Studio Club or not, the fact remains that good luck seems to come to its members. Another young actress of the Hollywood Studio Club is rapidly coming to the fore. Her name is Dorothy Gordon, and she has been working in pictures with William De Mille, having just completed a role in "Clarence," after which, with not a day's wait between she is now signed up to play a part in "The Daughter of Luxury" with Agnes Ayres.

CHANGES CHARACTER

Actor Jumps from Bible to New York

From a character in the "Pilgrimmage Play" to a New York man of the world is the dramatic transition being made by Boyd Irwin, who has joined the cast of "A Sporting Thing To Do," the new Oliver Morosco production which will have its premiere at the Philharmonic Auditorium next Monday afternoon with a special Labor Day matinee.

Like Enid Bennett, Warner Baxter and others of prominence in the cast now in the final rehearsals of the new Thompson Buchanan comedy, Irwin recently has been in pictures. And also like Miss Bennett, Irwin's first stage work was in Australia, where he was leading man in some of the foremost theaters.

FEATURING PARLIAMENT

For the first time in the history of the screen film fans will see a reproduction of the interior of the British House of Commons in a dramatic photoplay. Heretofore, this has been shown only in news weeklies, but now it has been built for the motion-picture version of "The Masquerader," starring Guy Bates Post, which comes to the Kinema Theater Sunday. This particular set reveals one of the advantages of the screen over the stage, for this scene was far too big a proposition to be shown in the theatrical presentation of the play. On the film, however, one sees in the screening of "The Masquerader," the various highly dramatic episodes of the picture that transpire in the House of Commons.

OFF FOR EUROPE

TULLY NOW SEEKS RESTFUL RETIREMNT

By William Foster Elliot

Having completed his film version of "Omar the Tent Maker," Richard Walton Tully plans to leave in about ten days for Europe, where he will attend to the booking of that picture and "The Masquerader," and also write an original screen story to be produced some time next winter or spring.

Mr. Tully says that he needs a rest and a quiet place to work. He also says that he has a big idea up his sleeve for this first written-for-the-screen yarn of his.

The combination of circumstances seems to point toward one of those primitive islands in the Mediterranean—with corsairs and things. But the playwright-producer says nothing about islands and a good deal about Paris. Well, maybe Paris is quiet nowadays.

A performance of "The Eumenides" of Aeschylus is to be given on September 2, in the Greek Theater at Point Loma, San Diego, by payers of the theosophical colony there.

"The Eumenides" is the third play of Aeschylus's Orestian Trilogy, called generally "The House of Atreus." The other two plays of the group are the "Agamemnon" and "The Libation Bearers," which deal with the return of Agamemnon from Troy, the sacrifice of his daughter Iphigenia, and his subsequent murder by his wife Clytemnestra, who is in turn murdered by her son Orestes.

"The Eumenides" or Furies deals with the pursuit of Orestes by these symbols of an avenging conscience, and his saving at the hands of Athene, goddess of wisdom. The theme of the whole trilogy is that injustice and cruelty bring sure punishment with them. Aeschylus is said to have written these plays in 458 B. C., to combat a movement which corresponded to the Bolshevism of today.

In response to numerous queries as to when he is to resume picture production, Benjamin B. Hampton states that several months ago he disposed of all his picture interests, and has retired from business.

"It is not my intention," says Mr. Hampton, "to engage in motion-picture production again, either now or in the future. My interests have been taken over by a new corporation, Federal Photoplays, Inc., of which W. G. Logan of Los Angeles is president. I am advised that they intend to begin production some time this fall."

STARS IN SUPPORT

Notable Cast Assembled for Corelli Picture

Jane Novak is enjoying the distinction in "Thelma," the Marie Corelli romance, of being supported by no less than three noted women stars who have previously headed their own companies—June Elvidge, Rose Dione and Barbara Tennant.

When the producer, Chester Bennett, selected "Thelma," as Jane Novak's vehicle he was confronted with an exceptionally large cast of characters, each so important to the story that it was necessary to choose from leading players of the screen.

As a result the male players are equally prominent, including Vernon Steele, Bert Sprotte, Tully Marshall, Wedgwood Nowell, Peter Burke, Jack Rollins, Harvey Clark and Charles Dudley. Two noted screen children, Phillipe De Lacy and "Peaches" Jackson, are also included.

"Thelma" is a story of strange contrasts, its scene laid in rural Norway and metropolitan London.

PARIS TO SEE IT

"Queen of Moulin Rouge" at Trocadero

Paris itself will have an opportunity to pass judgment upon the cinema version of the famous drama, "Queen of the Moulin Rouge," when that picture will be released in the Trocadero Theater of the French capital on September 15, according to word received from Fred Warren, president of the American Releasing Corporation.

The picture which is being given a world premiere at the Mission Theater this week, and which is not to be released in this country until late in September, has been slated for an early showing in the city where its story is laid.

Parisians will therefore await the reproduction of the former gaiety of their famous pleasure zone with anxiety, it is believed, especially since the Montmartre and Latin quarter districts are known never to have regained their former Bohemian atmosphere since the war.

GLORIA AT GRAUMAN'S

Gloria Swanson in "Her Gilded Cage" comes to Grauman's Theater on Monday next to celebrate Paramount week, which begins on Sunday. "Her Gilded Cage" is a Sam Wood production, by Elmer Harris, based on the play by Anne Nichols with the scenario by Percy Heath. It is a Paramount picture in which one sees Gloria as a cabaret dancer in Paris. She plays the part of a beautiful girl, who is trying to be the breadwinner of the family. Along comes a clever press agent who advertises her charms so successfully that she becomes the favorite dancer of all Paris. Temptations trail her all the time—the door of many a gilded cage is held open to her, but she keeps her heart pure for the great love that she knows will come.

DE MILLE PREMIERE

Cecil B. De Mille's latest production has been chosen to celebrate Paramount week, which begins Sunday, so "Manslaughter," with Thomas Meighan, Leatrice Joy and Lois Wilson will have its world premiere at Grauman's Rialto on that date. Mr. De Mille has given his personal pledge that "Manslaughter" is his finest achievement. The story is by Alice Duer Miller, and ran in the Saturday Evening Post also as a novel. It is a tale of modern life, which grips and thrills from start to finish, and was adapted for the screen by Jeanie Macpherson. A special prerelease of "Manslaughter" was granted by Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky so the world premiere could take place in Los Angeles on account of the celebration of Paramount week.

Masonic envoys from Cuba attend unveiling of tablet to patriot. A delegation of prominent Masons from the island republic journeyed to Washington to attend the unveiling of a marble tablet to the memory of Gen. Calixto Garcia Iniquez, Cuban patriot, the ceremonies taking place at the Raleigh Hotel, where the general died and the tablet was placed. Photo shows Felix V. Preval, grand secretary of the Grand Lodge of the Cuban Masonic bodies, and V. Gonzales, interpreter, speaking following the unveiling.

She is Mrs. Wallace Blood of Detroit, who accompanied her husband in the radio car sent over the Lincoln Highway by the Detroit Board of Commerce and Detroit Automobile Club, co-operating with the Lincoln Highway Association. At every town along the highway a stop was made and the radio outfit on the car was tuned up to catch what was on the air.

Our Daily Accident

[Photo furnished by the safety department of Automobile Club of Southern California as part of The Times-Auto Club campaign to reduce the accident toll.]

The driver of this automobile started to cross Brand Boulevard behind a trolley car and was hit by another one approaching from the opposite direction. The driver was killed and his machine demolished. A few seconds' delay to make sure that the way was clear would have prevented this accident.

Times' Great $70,000 Prize Race Ends in Four Days; Voting Attains New Heights as Candidates Sweep On!

ONLY FOUR MORE DAYS!

With the final hour, 9 o'clock Saturday night, September 2, firmly fixed in their minds, stirring battles for supremacy are being fought by candidates in The Times great $70,000 prize campaign, now drawing to an end.

Aroused to the unprecedented opportunity of winning a $16,500 home in Wilshire Crest, an $8000 bungalow in West Hollywood Tract, or one of twenty splendid automobiles, the candidates are showing increased energy. Everywhere they are in eager and anxious search for new subscriptions that will bring them votes---and in the end a valuable prize.

Candidates living outside of Los Angeles have thrown down the gauntlet---they declare they must win a majority of the big prizes. The two homes are of course the goal of everyone, but the automobiles and numerous district prizes are running close behind.

The "dark horse" element is destined to play a most important part in the campaign, as the surprising gains made by those who previously had done little or nothing is one of the most spectacular features of the race.

Fresh vitality is what every candidate needs to put into his or her work. The race is too close to bank on possibilities and there are too many persons interested in the campaign to make victory an easy matter for any one person.

Claims and counter claims are being made. Rivalry has reached such a high stage in the territory outside of Los Angeles that towns are pitting their strength, one against another, in order that their favorite shall become a winner. The attractive manner in which the prizes are to be awarded makes it certin that both the city division and the two outside divisions will share about equally in the distribution of the automobiles and other prizes. Where the grand prize automobiles and the homes will be awarded remains to be seen.

Everyone seems to be talking about the fact that a fortune in prizes is soon to be given to the most energetic vote-getters, and who the lucky ones will be is a matter of great speculation.

Today is the last day on which corrections can be made in the vote standings that appear below. If the figures below do not tally with your own figures, be sure to notify the campaign department before 8 o'clock tonight, else the figures will stand.

At the conclusion of the campaign all votes will be audited by the well-known certified public accountants, Johnston & Pargellis, 201 I. W. Hellman Bldg., Los Angeles. They will provide a large corps of expert auditors in order that the count may proceed as rapidly as possible and the winners determined. The entire count will be under the supervision of an official board of judges.

(All votes counted on Burroughs Adding Machines.)

Read These Final Instructions Carefully

As a matter of caution, and to guard against the possibility of loss to candidates through misunderstanding during these last days of the campaign, final instructions are herewith appended, which should be observed. All candidates, especially those who live in the outside districts, should read and weigh every line carefully:

First—All vote ballots and remittances mailed from now on should be mailed special delivery to insure their reaching us in time. If you live outside of Los Angeles and intend to mail votes and subscriptions, take the precaution to find out what time your postoffice closes; also to obtain all possible information as to train service on the railroad which will carry your mail to the campaign office.

Second—You are allowed the privilege of mailing your subscriptions and votes up to Saturday, September 2, 9 p.m. This gives you the opportunity to work up to the last minute. In sending your votes and subscriptions by mail, have them in your postoffice before Saturday, September 2, 9 p.m. These votes and subscriptions must reach the campaign office by Wednesday noon, September 3, and show a postmark of having been mailed on or before 9 p.m. September 2. The Los Angeles Times will not be responsible for any mail, even the properly postmarked, which fails to arrive within the time specified.

Third—All remittances and votes should be carefully addressed to the Prize Campaign Manager, The Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles, Cal. This will assure absolute accuracy and will prevent any of them from going astray.

Fourth—Examine your vote ballots carefully and see that the correct number of votes have been issued on same. Pay particular attention to ballots issued on second payments, and be sure that proper remittances and votes have been credited. If there are any corrections, notify the campaign manager in person or in writing, and return the ballots for proper correction. The campaign department will not be responsible for clerical errors unless notification is given, after which correction will be made.

Fifth—Be sure that your name and district number are on every ballot before sending them to the campaign department.

Sixth—Under no condition will votes be transferred from one candidate to another. This is an absolute rule and will be strictly enforced.

Seventh—Every subscription turned in will be verified and no prizes will be awarded until this is done. No votes secured on old subscriptions turned in as new will be cancelled. "Switching" will only result in regret and disappointment. Be sure that your subscriptions are marked correctly.

Eighth—Second payments must be marked as such on the subscription stub; also put down the amount of the first payment so that the proper votes may be given.

Ninth—Candidates may send in their reserve votes any time after Sunday, August 27, as the ballot box will be locked, sealed and the key placed in The Times vault. The ballot box will not be opened except by the judges for the final counting.

Tenth—All other ballots now in possession of candidates that have not yet been published must be returned to the campaign office before they will count to their credit. The same applies on all votes received on subscriptions turned in during the remainder of the campaign.

Eleventh—When sending in your votes, do not roll or fold them, but send them in a flat package with a piece of cardboard to keep them absolutely flat. Be sure to use special delivery stamps on all mail.

Twelfth—All remittances sent in to the campaign office after Wednesday, Aug. 30, should be either postal money order, express money order, certified checks or drafts.

Thirteenth — ABSOLUTELY NO MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED ON SUBSCRIPTIONS PAID IN DURING THIS CAMPAIGN.

Fourteenth—Owing to the uncertainty of reaching candidates in time to allow ballots to be returned for the final count, the campaign department will not after Wednesday, Aug. 30, return any votes issued upon subscriptions. Prompt acknowledgment will be made, however, by mail of all subscriptions and remittances received from candidates, and the votes will be deposited in the locked ballot box to the credit of the candidates. If you do not receive prompt acknowledgement of subscriptions and remittances you send in, be sure to notify the campaign manager immediately.

Fifteenth—Only bona fide subscriptions will be accepted. No cuts of money will be accepted, the name of the subscribers to be supplied later. Every subscription must be accompanied by the usual stub properly filled out with the full amount.

Sixteenth—No prize will be awarded to any candidate unless at least 375 in new subscriptions was turned in by such candidates during the campaign.

Are Your Votes Correct?

The ballot box has been locked and sealed and the key placed in The Times' vault, where it will remain until the official judges open the box to make the final count.

The standing of every candidate as it appears today includes every subscription ballot and every vote that has been sent in for publication up to Friday noon, August 25. The votes as they appear today will remain unchanged from this time until the final count by the judges, except in case of correction of errors that may exist.

The reserve votes held by candidates and the votes they will receive on subscriptions up to the final hour may be deposited in the ballot box any time up to September 2, 9 p.m., the end of the campaign. All such votes, however, placed in the ballot box from now on will not be credited in the published standing of candidates until the judges make their final announcement of the winners.

If the count display is not absolutely correct, according to your figures and records, notify the campaign manager immediately, so that proper correction can be made before the close of the campaign. No correction will be made after Wednesday, August 30. Every candidate should be sure he or she is listed in the right district. If you reside in an outside district, either telephone or telegraph the campaign manager right away to notify him of any errors. Every candidate must be entered in the proper district in order to share in the distribution of prizes, and if you know of any candidate who is listed in the wrong district, please advise the campaign manager at once. Also see that YOUR correct name and address appear in the list, so that any important mail sent you will be delivered promptly. The Times will not be responsible for any errors unless notification is given.

How New Second Payments Count

New second payments are worth many thousands of votes, as the scale shown below illustrates. Hundreds of NEW subscriptions for short terms have been secured by candidates since this campaign started. Get these short term NEW subscribers to extend their subscriptions to any length of time up to and including three years, and you will get credit for the full amount of votes.

All second payments "NEW" will be credited according to the votes allowed in the final vote scale. When sending in second payments be sure to mark the stub "NEW SECOND PAYMENT."

That Element Called . . . Grit! . . .

Grit is that element of character which enables a man to clutch his aim with an iron grip and keep the needs of his purpose pointed to the star of his hope. Through sunshine and storm, through hurricane and tempest, through sleet and rain, with leaky ship, with crew in mutiny, it perseveres. Nothing but death can subdue it and it dies still struggling.

Many men fail for want of force. They lack moral fiber. They have no driving power in their engine. They fail in life's battle because their backbone is all pulp and their nature all pine.

The men who have done things were very often men who had no friends, no backing, nothing but grit and individual purpose to command them.

It is a mistake to think that only "influence," "backing" and similar meaningless terms can make you successful in The Times campaign. It's what YOU do that counts.

There is plenty of room at the top in this campaign, just as there is room at the top in all enterprises of life.

It's an up-hill pull—like everything else that's worth having.

So, put now vitality into your efforts. No one who is dead-in-earnest, and who backs up his purpose with unceasing effort, can fail. He always gets to the top.

That's where YOU want to be—at the TOP. So does the other fellow. And it's between you and other fellow.

Grit is always on the job. It never gives up.

Hold on a little longer. Holding on three days, discovered the New World. Work—FIGHT—your way to the top!

PRISONER KILLS SELF IN CELL

Uses Belt to Escape Term in Penitentiary

Accused Girl Forger Also Attempts Suicide

Matron Suspended After She is Cut Down

An hour after Phillip Bradley, confessed bandit, ended his life by choking himself to death with his belt in the men's quatrers of the City Jail, yesterday, Miss Geraldine Fairchild, aged 27 years, arrested on suspicion of forgery, in the matron's quarters attempted to hang herself with a silk stocking.

Following an investigation of conditions in the matron's quarters a few minutes after the attempted suicide, Capt. R. Lee Heath, in command of Central Division, announced that he had suspended Policewoman Harding, acting as head matron, as being temperamentally unfit and incompetent. Mrs. Harding was at the time relieving Head Matron White, who is now absent on vacation.

GIRL COMPLAINS

Capt. Heath in taking this action said that he has repeatedly received complaints regarding Mrs. Harding's attitude toward prisoners. One of these complaints, he said, was made by Miss Fairchild a year ago. Miss Fairchild at the time was in jail on a narcotic charge. She is said to have asserted that Mrs. Harding struck her over the head with a bunch of keys.

The girl, perhaps, owes her life to the fact that the stocking was capable of stretching to almost twice its length. According to Chief Jailer Fisher she had knotted one end of the hose about her neck and the other about a high steel window bar while other girl prisoners were in another room. She then stood up on top of a radiator and leaped off. She filled the matron's quarters with scream after scream. Several girl prisoners rushed to her side and cut her down. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Dorn declared she had not seriously injured herself.

ACCUSED OF FORGERY

Miss Fairchild was arrested Monday by Detective Knowles and Officer Thurkon on complaint of R. J. Picarts, manager of a store at 443 South Spring, who charged that the girl had presented a check for $10, and another for $15, which were proven worthless. The girl, according to the detectives, declared that she was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Allen three months ago on a charge of passing fictitious checks and that Judge Reeves released her on probation. The detectives declare that she is a drug addict and that an outfit was in her possession when taken into custody.

FEARED PRISON

Bradley ended his life rather than face the probability of being sent to the penitentiary for highway robbery, police believe. According to Detective Sergeants Trainor and "Lefty" James, who arrested Bradley, he confessed to having held up and robbed Mrs. R. N. Atherton, cashier at the Pin Ton Cafe at 519 West Seventh street, of $17 Thursday night.

The confessed bandit was placed by himself in a cell at the City Jail. A few minutes after Assistant Jailer Buchannan passed on his late morning round of inspection Bradley slipped his belt from his trousers, knotted one end to one of the steel bars on the door of his cell, pulled the loop tight about his throat and sank to his knees. He practically chocked himself to death, according to Buchannan.

HELD FOR STAMP FRAUDS

Maj. Frank R. McReynolds, in charge of the field deputies of the local internal revenue office, returned yesterday from Chicago, where he succeeded in securing the arrest of six men declared to have been involved in the manufacture and sale of counterfeit internal revenue stamps.

The men under arrest in Chicago are Mathew McInerney, H. Sanger, Billy West, Sam Miller, Sam Black and H. H. Holden. All are at liberty under a bond of $2500.

Recent captures of counterfeit revenue stamps by local prohibition agents, resulted in the confiscation of hundreds of these fraudulent insignias of the revenue department. The information was brought to Maj. McReynolds that the stuff was made in Chicago. He went East, and passing himself off as a dealer in wet goods, succeeded in purchasing 10,000 stamps.

There is or There is Not a Job in Pasadena for Some Man, as You View It

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 29.—As Pasadenans were balloting merrily today for City Justice of the Peace by writing in the names of various of the five candidates, City Attorney Howard came forward with an opinion that there is no such animal. The City Attorney declares that, according to Section 8½, Article XI, of the constitution, Pasadena, having a freeholders' charter, arranges for its own police courts, and that the 1921 amendment to the Code of Civil Procedure applies only to cities with "code charters."

On the other hand, Edward T. Bishop, assistant county counsel, says there is such an office and that the aforesaid amendment does apply to Pasadena, code charter or no code charter. Mr. Bishop intimated that he didn't think much of Mr. Howard's opinion.

"Regardless of the result at the primaries," the City Attorney insisted, "no City Justice of the Peace will be elected in Pasadena."

That being that, there you are. The office is one nobody knew existed till the ballots arrived, and there were no nominations filed for it.

TAX RATES REDUCED IN CALEXICO

Ordinance Providing for City Manager Plan to be Adopted

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CALEXICO, Aug. 29.—An enormous slash in city tax rates for Calexico has been announced at the close of the Board of Equalization work here, which brings the tax rates, assessed on $6,470,000, from $1.40 on the $100 to $1.14. An ordinance providing for a City Manager plan for Calexico was adopted at first reading and it is practically assured that the plan will be adopted at the next reading.

An occupation tax, graduated on all business concerns in the city, was adopted by the City Trustees and will bring the tax rate down to $1.35 per $100 and the City Manager plan is expected to provide the further reduction. The tax rate last year was $1.40 on the same valuation this year. The occupation tax is expected to bring to the city $7000 in revenue.

Elinor Glyn Feature Throws Light on Studios

Almost all the studio structures and equipment of the United Studios were used by the Principal Pictures Corporation in staging the scenes of Elinor Glyn's romance of movie life, "The World's a Stage," with Dorothy Phillips, Kenneth Harlan and Bruce McRae in the featured roles.

One of the many features of the production is its intimate views of motion-picture studio life. In order to secure all the realism possible, the big studio buildings, stage settings, the stage entrance, the employees' gate, the work shops, property rooms and big force of workmen at the United Studios from the gatemen and ladies who serve hot dog sandwiches at the studio entrance to the studio executives, were persuaded by Director Colin Campbell to appear before the camera.

"The World's a Stage," will be the first of a series of eight big super-productions to be produced and distributed by the newly-formed Principal Pictures Corporation of which Michael Rosenberg is secretary and Irving Lesser, now in New York, general eastern manager.

NEW ENGLAND ANIMAL SHOWS NOT IMPOSING

Shows were forbidden in early New England. But in the eighteenth century animal exhibitions began to be advertised. The Boston Gazette of April 20, 1741, contained this announcement:

"To be seen at the Greyhound Tavern in Roxbury a wild creature which was caught in the woods about eighty miles to the westward of this place called a Cattamount. It has a tail like a Lyin, its legs are like Bears, its Claws like an Eagle, its Eyes like a Tyger. He is exceedingly ravenous and devours all sort of creatures that he can come near.

"Whoever wishes to see this creature may come to the place aforesaid, paying 1 shilling each, shall be welcome for their money."

Salem had the pleasure of seeing a "Sapient Dog" who "can light lamps, spell, read print or writing, tell the time of day or day of the month. He can distinguish Colours, is a good arithmetician, can discharge a loaded cannon, tell a hidden card in a pack and jump through a hoop."—[Detroit News.

CODDLING A STAR

Few children are petted or coddled more than "Tony," famous Tom Mix company, coming before the public as the first horse-star of record, who opens at the California Theater Sunday, in "Just Tony" with Tom Mix. No matter what may be his other engagements during the day or evening, Tony's owner, Tom Mix, never goes to bed at night until he has first paid a visit to Tony to see that the horse wants for nothing. It is probably six miles from Mix's Hollywood home to Mixville, the picture star's ranch, and where his horses and cowboys live. Always before retiring, Tom jumps in a car, runs out to Mixville, says "good night" to Tony, and comes back home. Both sleep better as a result.

GUS ENTERTAINED

Gus Edwards and his company, now appearing at the Orpheum, are to be the guests tonight of Harry Seymour at the Little Club of Hollywood. Seymour, who played the Orpheum circuit on the same bill with Gus Edwards for one season, is staging a special party in their honor, to which a number of well-known motion-picture stars will be invited to meet their associates of the footlights.

FEATURE CADMAN

Songs of Charles Wakefield Cadman, one of America's foremost composers, were featured at the annual banquet of the international convention of Kiwanis Clubs, held in the ballroom of the Alexandria Hotel last evening. Mr. Cadman himself was at the piano, and Margaret Messer Morris, soprano, was the soloist.

The body of William A. Clark, seaman on a Standard Oil tanker, who was drowned in the inner harbor late Monday when he fell from the stern of the vessel, has not been located yesterday.

Grappling and diving crews in the employ of the Standard Oil Company worked all night and in an effort to recover the body from where it fell into the water, 60 feet of water, while the search yesterday C. J. Krause, a diver in the employ of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation, searched the bottom of the channel without success.

Clark, who was said to be 21 years of age, had not been identified and it is not thought to have any relatives. He was employed on the stern of the craft which he was assigned with the intent. His home was at Anacortes, Wash.
